ROOSEVELT'S AIM 'RAILWAY ETHICS

Purpose in Summoning Deneen and Stead Is to Discuss Evils of Overcapitalization.

FINDS CUE IN ALTON DEAL

Acute Dropsical Affection Seems General in Stock Issues of the Transportation World.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Gov. Deneen and Attorney General Stead of Illinois arrived in Washington an hour and a half late, having been delayed on the Pennsylvania limited by floods. They arrived the night before so as to rest up and be in time for the interview with the president at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Gov. Deneen was not taken into the confidence of the president in detail as to the subject to be discussed. He was asked to come to Washington to talk over the railroad situation in general, and had only an inference that the finances of the Chicago and Alton or the suit against the Illinois Central were to be discussed.

As a matter of course, the governor and attorney general were entirely unwilling to be quoted regarding the subject of their talk with the president, and, more particularly because the invitation to come to Washington was couched in such general terms that they were really at sea regarding the particular points concerning which the president desired information.

Action Not Based on Flurry.

It may relieve the minds of some people who imagine that the visit of Gov. Deneen and the attorney general was brought about by panicky conditions in Wall street to learn that the subject of the conference is based upon the future policy of the president entirely. He asked the Illinois governor and attorney general to come here entirely as a basis for the development of his general railroad and corporation policy, as it will be shown in the message to congress next December.

There was undoubtedly in the president's mind when he extended the invitation a reference to the extraordinary financing of the Chicago and Alton railroad by E. H. Harriman. He was also aware of the suit by the state against the Illinois Central railroad, and the dispatches yesterday showed that the legislature had appropriated money enough to enable this suit to be prosecuted successfully.

All these conditions merely indicated the fitness of the Illinois governor and attorney general to be consulted regarding railroad capitalization as experts. It does not at all follow that the president proposes to interfere with legislation in Illinois regarding passenger fares or that he is disposed to urge Illinois officials to prosecute Harriman or to endeavor to nullify the Chicago and Alton securities, which were put out by the little wizard of finance.

Overcapitalization an Issue.

What the president is aiming at is to secure information regarding the overcapitalization of railroads, and, in addition to that, to agree with various state authorities on some line of action by means of which the federal government will be enabled to control the interstate features of railroads and all corporations without in any way interfering with the right of states to control both railroads and corporations in such a way as not to interfere with interstate commerce.

It was suggested by certain people at the White house today that the visit of Gov. Deneen was political in its character, but there is the best of authority for saying that the president merely seeks to inform himself as to the general railroad situation. Confidence has been renewed in Wall street. The panic apparently has passed away like a summer thunder storm. Confidence has been restored rapidly, and prices have taken a sudden upward shoot in response to the active buying of people who take securities on an investment basis and pay for them outright.

It has been the theory of the administration from the outset that the Wall street panic was a stock gamblers' flurry. It was not believed that it had affected the general business in the slightest degree, and dispatches received in Washington today from Chicago and other commercial cities, where the stock gambling mania is not rampant, all indicate that there has been an abundance of money for legitimate purposes at ordinary rates.

Treasury Action Not Needed.

Secretary Cortelyou was at the White house for a long while. He did not feel called upon to dump any more money into the Wall street rat hole, but will content himself with leaving the fund there now on deposit. The conditions in the street have improved so remarkably in such a short time as to relieve the president and his advisers of any necessity of considering the speculative situation. They are, therefore, at liberty to go on with the development of the general corporate policy of the administration, and it is about this that the conference with Gov. Deneen and Attorney General Stead will be held exclusively. If the Illinois political situation is talked about it will be as a side issue.

There may be some clash between the corporation policy of the administration and the state rights idea before the problem is thoroughly worked out next winter. Commissioner Harlan the other day expressed the opinion a state had no right of legislation to segregate cars within the borders of the state which might be necessary for interstate commerce. Most lawyers say that is a fundamental principle which scarcely needs to be stated, because a railroad car is property which the state cannot take away even temporarily without violating the constitution of the United States.

Greater Question Involved.

There is a much greater question involved in the action of states in fixing railroad rates. In days gone by most of the states, and particularly in the west, legislated in such a way as to provide for railroad commissions which were given more or less power to regulate rates. That was not a bad idea then, because at that time the interstate commerce commission possessed no power of regulation. It could declare a rate unreasonable, and, after a vast amount of litigation, the courts

RAIL KINGS MEET THEN FADE AWAY

Conference on Roosevelt Interview Results Only in a Guessing Contest.

TO GO AND NOT TO GO.

Every New York Paper Has a Different Yarn on Result of Talk, and All of 'Em Are Dreamed.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The four railroad presidents suggested by J. P. Morgan as being best qualified to go to the mat with Mr. Roosevelt on the railroad question, McCrea of the Pennsylvania, Newman of the New York Central, Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Hughitt of the Chicago and Northwestern, met here today, somewhere, some time, and talked the thing over.

Tonight a beautiful unanimity exists in newspaper offices and news bureaus on one point, that a conference was held. There the unanimity ends.

Tomorrow the Sun will say three of the railroad presidents decided that as they had not been invited they would not go to Washington.

The World will say that the conference resulted in a deadlock and the railroad men were unable to make up their minds.

Reason for Their Declination.

The Times will say that they decided not to go after they found Mr. Roosevelt was simply crazy to have them come so he could lecture them, and after they found that the only report of the meeting that would be given out would be Mr. Roosevelt's version and that no stenographer would be permitted to take down all the conversation.

The Associated Press has sent out the word that the railroad presidents one and all decided that they would not go to Washington until Mr. Roosevelt sent them a special invitation.

According to this version the four men involved did not feel that they had any proper mandate from the railroad corporations to represent them. They felt that they could not assume the position of a self-constituted commission to formulate or present the views of the hundreds of railroad companies, which in turn are owned by millions of shareholders.

They recognized that the railroad managers of the United States are not themselves in perfect accord and that until some method could be adopted for securing a consensus of opinion a visit to the president would be idle.

Flattered, but Not Certain.

Then there is another version of the meeting which puts these words in the mouth of one of the railroad chiefs:

"We are four good railroad presidents at the head of the management of four good railroads. They are good in the sense they believe in the laws and in obeying the laws, even if some have been convicted for rebating and little things like that. But heaven knows, we are not the only good railroad presidents in the country. While it is flattering that Morgan picked us out as representatives of the transportation industry, it seems we ought to be more emphatically representatives of all the good railroads before we go to Washington.

"I propose we take no action at this time, but that we get together a larger body of railroad presidents and come to an understanding. Then some, or all, perhaps, at this larger conference might send an intimation to the White house that we are prepared to go down and give President Roosevelt all the news and information he may care to hear."

What Started the Trouble.

All the four men who met here today had before them was Mr. Morgan's report of the conversation that he had with Mr. Roosevelt a week ago. It was somewhat like this:

Mr. Morgan—Mr. President, I am not a railroad man and cannot discuss intimate details of railroading satisfactorily. I am a banker, and know only the banking end of railroading. Why would not it be a good thing for you to meet some representative railroad men like Newman, Mellen, McCrea, and Hughitt—men who stand for good methods and certain ideals in railroad matters—and go over with them matters we have talked about?

President Roosevelt—"That's bully! Let 'em come. I shall be glad to see them, all together, or singly, any time they find it convenient to be here. You can tell them so."

Hold Conference in Secret.

Everything that was possible was done to keep the deliberations of the railroad men from the public. They met in secret in the New York Central offices, at Grand Central station. An air of deep mystery was thrown about the whole affair.

The session began at 11 o'clock in the morning, and for four hours nothing of a definite nature came out of the conference. It then was announced that the railroad presidents had adjourned, but they would get together again in a short time. The adjournment was for the purpose of allowing the presidents to draw up a report on what course should be adopted in the matter of interviewing Mr. Roosevelt at the White house. This was taken to mean the views on the subject expressed at the conference were anything but unanimous, and that no two of the conferees were in accord as to what methods should be pursued.

The conference was resumed at a late hour in the afternoon, and between 5 and 6 o'clock it was announced that the meeting had adjourned.

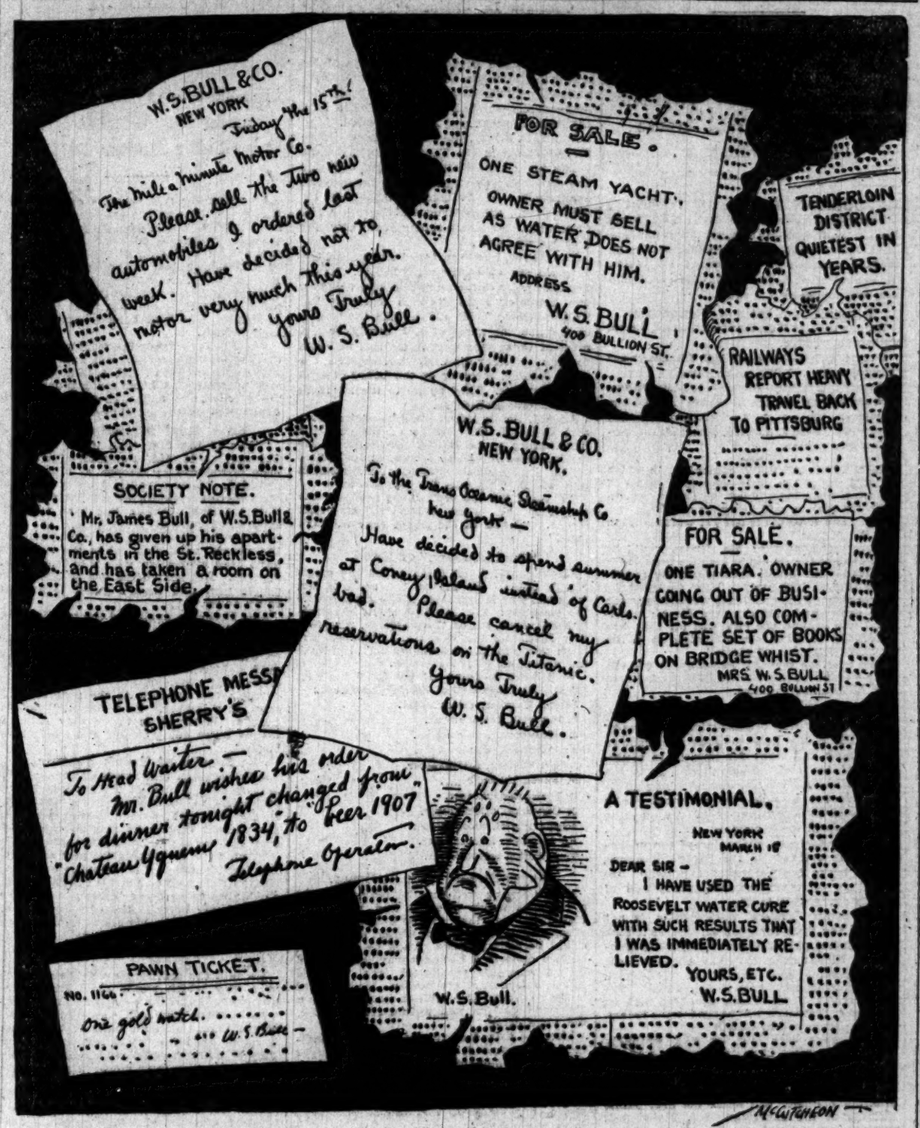

Not one of the men concerned would say what had transpired and then the guessing bee started leaving a fine range of choices for any one interested.

REBEL STRONGHOLD IS TAKEN.

Dutch Troops Capture Enemy's Position in East Indies, Killing 280 Insurgents.

THE HAGUE, March 15.—An official dispatch received here today from the Island of Celebes, Dutch East Indies, announced that the Dutch troops had captured an important rebel stronghold after a stubborn fight. The fleeing enemy left 280 men dead on the field, among whom were several rebel chiefs. The troops captured 200 women and seventy-two men. The losses of the Dutch were insignificant.

AFTER THE FLURRY.

CITY COUNCIL FACES JAIL.

Arrest of 23 Nashville Aldermen Ordered by Legislature.

ALL ACCUSED OF CONTEMPT.

Resolution Calling Speaker of House a Liar Starts Trouble.

Nashville, Tenn., March 15.—[Special.]—The house of representatives of the Tennessee legislature today ordered the arrest of Mayor Thomas O. Morris and twenty-three members of the city council for contempt. The speaker of the house issued the warrants tonight and the men will be arrested tomorrow and taken before the bar of the house on Monday.

The alleged contempt of which the mayor and city council was guilty consisted in its adoption of a resolution accusing Speaker Cunningham of "willful falsehood and malicious slander."

Depends on Technicality.

The guilt or innocence of the mayor and council depends on a construction of the Tennessee constitution. Under article 2, section 14, either house of the legislature may punish by imprisonment any person, even though not a member, guilty of contempt in its presence.

The city legal authorities insist the last three words relieves the city council, because the alleged contempt was not committed in the presence of the house.

The legislature relies on the common law and on precedents from other states to support its action.

How the Quarrel Started.

The trouble began a month ago, when the legislature had under discussion a bill to permit telephone companies to enter the city and occupy its streets without permission of the council.

The Cumberland Telephone company has a monopoly in Nashville under a contract with the city council, giving it the sole privilege of operating in Nashville in consideration of its paying into the city treasury $10,000 a year and conforming to certain stipulations in the matter of charges, etc.

This contract led the Home company, which for some time has been seeking to enter Nashville, to resort to the state legislature with a bill to set aside the city's contract with the Cumberland company.

While the bill was pending in the house of representatives Speaker Cunningham took the floor and made a speech in which he was reported in a local newspaper to have said that the Nashville councilmen were boodlers and in the pay of the Cumberland Telephone company.

Calls Speaker a Liar.

This aroused the anger of the council, and at its next meeting it proceeded to pass unanimously a resolution severely denunciatory of Speaker Cunningham, accusing him of willful falsehood and malicious slander. The resolution was spread upon the minutes of the council, which was signed by the mayor. This was his only part in the matter.

At the time the offensive resolution was passed the legislature was taking a recess. It convened again on Tuesday of the present week, and Speaker Cunningham at once rose to a question of personal privilege, and made a sarcastic speech, reviewing the history of the mayor and council's dealings with the Cumberland Telephone company.

At the conclusion of this speech a special committee was appointed to report if the councilmen, with the mayor, could be proceeded against for contempt.

It was the affirmatory report of this committee, made today, that resulted in the order for the arrest of the mayor and councilmen.

Declares Council Guilty.

The report of the committee, following a preamble which sets forth the facts, is as follows:

"First, That it is the opinion of the committee that the action of said certain members of the city council of Nashville in adopting the resolution attacking the speaker of this house amounts to a contempt of this body.

"Second, That the house has the inherent power to punish persons other than its members for contempt committed in its presence, and has the power to punish the perpetrators of the aforesaid contempt. And that the punishment which may be inflicted is imprisonment for a period not to extend beyond the adjournment sine die of this legislature."

This report was adopted by the house and the speaker and chief clerk were instructed to issue warrants at once for the arrest of the officials named and bring them before the bar of the house Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The names of the councilmen ordered arrested are: J. K. Archey, C. W. Bailey, J. H. Baskett, G. A. Biodau, William Campbell, G. M. Canfield, A. H. Cox, George Enghaus, F. J. Ehrhart, L. D. Foutch, Fred Gray, C. J. Hitt, J. S. Johnson, W. A. Kelley, John Langham, C. A. Marlin, W. G. Reyer, August Schardt, Paul Schoenpflug, E. T. Sweeney, John Waddle, E. M. Wrenne, and Charles Cohn.

Memphis Officials in Peril.

The Memphis charter bill, over which one of the bitterest fights in a Tennessee legislature for years has been waged, was passed by the house today. The effect of the bill is to abolish the city government of Memphis and gives Gov. Patterson the power to appoint new city officials. Senator Carmack led the fight for the opposition. The bill previously had passed the senate.

MARIAN FISH IS BETROTHED.

Daughter of Former President of Illinois Central Railroad to Become Mrs. Albert Z. Gray.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The engagement of Miss Marian Fish, daughter of Stuyvesant Fish, to Albert Z. Gray has been made known to intimate friends of the couple. The engagement will come as a surprise to most acquaintances of the pair, for, although they had known each other for some years, even their own families were not aware there was anything more than friendship between them.

Mr. Gray is the son of Judge John Clinton Gray by his first wife and is a Harvard graduate, class of 1903. He is a member of the Knickerbocker, Harvard, and other clubs.

No date has been set for the wedding, but it will take place in the summer, probably at Newport.

SON BORN TO MRS. CAMPBELL.

Second Daughter of Late L. Z. Leiter Cables News to Mother in Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Col. and Mrs. Colin Campbell are the proud parents of a son. The child was born today in England and Mrs. Campbell, formerly Miss Nannie Leiter, had the happy news at once sent by cable to her mother, Mrs. L. Z. Leiter, in this city. Mrs. Campbell is the second daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter of Chicago. She wed Maj. Campbell here in 1904.

ASKS BOARD TO SPANK SON.

G. W. Hamilton Wants School Principal Given Leeway.

HIS REQUEST IS DENIED.

Told Truant Offspring Cannot Be Punished by Teacher Even with Consent.

George W. Hamilton, who lives out near the little Doremus chapel, wears the button of the disappearing Grand Army of the Republic, fought at Gettysburg and Five Forks, and bled at Chancellorsville, has a son named Raymond, who makes the memory of those trying days of the 60's seem like a sweet dream.

Hamilton Sr. appeared before the school management committee of the board of education yesterday and asked that the principal of the Mark Sheridan school be given permission to spank Raymond whenever the lad seemed to require a gentle reminder that he was not properly deporting himself. The veteran, who carries a confederate bullet somewhere in his anatomy, confessed, without humiliation, that Raymond was "too many for him."

Cooley Presents Mr. Hamilton.

Supt. Cooley presented Private Hamilton to the committee, but before the formal presentation was made Miss Jane Addams, chairman of the committee, was handed a letter of great length, in which the veteran of the war set forth his grievances and his demands. President Ritter also made it known to the members of the committee that Mr. Hamilton had been to see him in regard to the same matter. It was whispered about the committee room that the only thing that had kept Private Hamilton from applying the rawhide to his son, Raymond, was that his wife was also a believer in the soft word cure and would not allow him to "lift a hand to harm the lad."

"I have informed Mr. Hamilton that I have no right to give Principal Johnson of the Sheridan school the right to spank the boy," explained Supt. Cooley, "and I am also told that Mr. Johnson has no desire to act as the father's proxy. But Mr. Hamilton wished me to present the case to the committee. He is exceedingly anxious to have his son spanked."

Miss Addams Fears Rules.

"I don't see how we can give any such authority to the principal," said Miss Addams, looking uncomfortable.

Meanwhile Private Hamilton, the brass buttons of his G. A. R. uniform showing under his overcoat, made his way to the table.

"I can't do anything with the lad——" he began to plead.

"Well, I'm afraid we can't spank your boy for you," explained Miss Addams. "We cannot violate our own rules, which prohibit corporal punishment, even with the consent of the parents."

The committee then voted not to spank Raymond.

The letter in which Private Hamilton set forth his grievances was suppressed, but it was reported among the board members that the lad not only had absented himself from his residence on several occasions and had fistic encounters with the lads of the neighborhood, but had premeditatedly and with malice aforethought placed an upturned tack on his father's chair and induced the veteran to sit down.

JUDGES "RECEIVE" AND GIVE ADVICE.

Two Members of Municipal Court Engage in Attempts to Better Social Conditions.

PETIT DISAVOWS 'UPLIFT'

He Merely Gives Tip to Billiard Hall Proprietors, While Cleland Reviews Family Quarrels.

Two Municipal court judges held receptions for citizens yesterday, both having in view the practical betterment of social conditions.

Judge A. J. Petit, sitting in the Warren avenue court, and distinctly disavowing any special purpose of theoretical uplift, presided in the afternoon at a unique meeting attended by sixty proprietors of west side billiard rooms, and asked them to keep young boys out of their halls.

The spokesmen for the billiard men said they were in hearty accord with the judge.

Judge Cleland's Regular Reception.

The other reception was the fourth semi-monthly "function" given by Judge Mackenzie Cleland in the evening at the Maxwell street court. During its progress the perturbing influence of Mayor Dunne's pardoning power—noted for its activity as a campaign agency—broke into the "family circle" for the second time.

At Judge Cleland's reception there were forty couples whose domestic troubles, past and present, were reviewed. There were fewer backsliders among the paroled ones than ever before.

In the afternoon Judge Mack, sitting in the Juvenile court, wrote to Mayor Dunne asking him to revoke the license of a South Chicago saloon in which young girls were tempted to ruin. The mayor's attitude is not known.

No "Reform Movement," Says Petit.

The meeting of billiard hall men summoned and presided over by Judge Petit was the occasion for an explanation of the laws regulating the billiard and pool table business and the attitude of the court and police in dealing with the proprietors.

"This is no reform movement and I have not called you here to organize any uplift association," said Judge Petit. "In my experience here I have found that a large percentage of boys under 20 years old arrested for minor offenses, such as petty larceny or vagrancy, are spending their spare time, which in their cases is all their time, in poolrooms. That class are not profitable customers, I know.

Necessary Places of Amusement.

"You men are running legitimate places of amusement, necessary in a community like Chicago. My information on the subject is not limited. I have knocked around Chicago since I was 8 years old and worked in a factory before I was 10. I have not brought to bear on this matter any highfalutin ideas of making angels out of people on the west side. I myself sometimes patronize a billiard room near my home and know the conditions in them.

"There should be no misunderstanding about the class of patronage permitted in your rooms. The city ordinance provides specifically that no boy under 18 years old shall be permitted in or around poolrooms. Men are apt to use language and discuss subjects while at their amusements that young boys should not hear.

Judge "Tips Off" Investigation.

"This meeting is called largely to warn you, 'tip you off,' if you will permit the expression, of a movement on foot to investigate your business. Recently there has been organized the Juvenile Protective association, of which Judge Mack is president, and it will have the backing and cooperation of the police department and the judiciary. If violations of the law are found they will undoubtedly take action, and I feel that if the facts in the matter were placed fairly before you further action in your cases will not be necessary.

"It is hard for you to appreciate the amount of harm done to the boys who are patrons of your places. They are places where the toughest and worst element in the district can be found every night. 'I even have information that some rooms are frequented by sneak thieves who can dispose of their pickings to the proprietors for playing.

"This court is not going to be a prosecuting court. It is not going out of its way to seek out people who are violating the law. I have always taken the position that my duty is to try the cases which are brought before me. I want to warn you of two classes of which you must beware. The young men with no visible means of support—the tough element. You can tell whether the men who spend money in your place are working and earning it honestly.

Court Not to Split Hairs.

"The second class are boys under 18. These you are by law prohibited from permitting to frequent your places. You do not need to be afraid that I am going to split hairs. If a boy is large for his age and looks 19 years old but turns out to be 17 years and 11 months old I will take that into consideration. Recently I was sitting in another court, on the bench beside the presiding judge. A man who looked as old as I, with whiskers, was arraigned for being drunk. It developed that he was only 20 years and 10 months old, and a warrant immediately was issued for the saloonkeeper on the charge of selling liquor to a minor and he was arrested.

"You will not have that experience in my court. But there will be no excuse for boys in short trousers being permitted to play.

"I don't like the word 'reform' or the expression 'uplift,' and this meeting has nothing of that character in it. I feel friendly toward the west side, because I have lived in it all my life, and this has been intended merely for a friendly word of warning and to explain the conditions under which you are working."

Following the judge's speech, Former Constable Thomas Courtney, now the proprietor of a pool and billiard room, spoke for the proprietors and declared they were in hearty accord with the sentiments of the judge.

Forty Couples in Review.

At Judge Cleland's "evening reception," one of the forty couples whose domestic woes were passed in review was Mr. and Mrs.

SPECIAL ST. PATRICK'S DAY SUPPLEMENT WITH SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE.

Richard Soukop. Soukop was arrested with a gang of hoodlums on March 9. Three of the gang were sent to the bridewell, two await trial, and the ring leader, Frank Drugan, was given a three months sentence by Judge Cleland. Soukop was paroled because he proved he was not habitually connected with the gang. Soukop last night informed the judge three were out. Two of them, Joseph Silk and Joseph Regan, were released on bond. The ringleader, Drugan, was pardoned by Mayor Dunne.

Threaten to Burn House.

"The gang has threatened to burn our house," said Soukop. "They have stoned it and broken all the windows, and keep my wife in fear for her life."

"You are sure Drugan is out?" asked the judge. "That is news to me. You are certain that Mayor Dunne pardoned him? Mr. Clerk, please make an investigation of that tomorrow."

The clerk replied that Mayor Dunne had ordered a report on the case the day after Drugan was sentenced.

"The three sent to the bridewell are of a gang of toughs arrested for stealing chickens and breaking into a man's residence and creating a rough house," said Judge Cleland. "They were defended in this court by Ald. Scully. In case I find Mayor Dunne has pardoned Drugan, I have no intentions of contesting his pardoning power. But if I find that Drugan is bothering Soukop I will order him returned to the bridewell immediately."

Mayor Dunne's pardoning power came into violent contact with Judge Cleland several months ago, when a man convicted of gambling was pardoned before he was out of the jurisdiction of the court.

Sober; Works for Demo.-M. O.

The question of whether a man can "keep sober" as an employé at the democratic headquarters was weighed seriously by Judge Cleland. Patrick Ryan was before the court.

"Well, Mr. Ryan, have you been keeping sober?" asked the judge.

"Haven't drank a drop, judge."

"Are you working at a good business?"

"Yes, sir. I'm employed temporarily at the democratic headquarters downtown."

"Well, do you think that's a good place where a man can reform?" asked the judge dubiously. "I will impose a fine of $50, which you will not be compelled to pay pending good behavior. But come back on March 19 and report."

Takes Coffee Instead of Beer.

That an habitual drunkard can be reformed was shown when Michael Kelly, 58 years old, 206 West Twelfth street, told the judge he had not taken a drink for two weeks. Instead of drinking a glass of beer every two hours during the day the defendant said he had found a new drink habit.

"I drink coffee three times a day and I am just as happy," said Kelly, with considerable pride.

"Yes, your honor, he has not taken a drink since he was here the last time," spoke up Mrs. Kelly, who told the court at her husband's first arraignment she had not been happy for twenty years because of his habits. "I always have the coffee kettle on the stove and I am now the happiest wife in Chicago. God bless you, judge."

Mrs. Kelly added that her husband went to church every other day and never went out in the evening unless she consented to accompany him.

Goes to Saloon to Telephone.

William Moran, 4148 Fifth avenue, was another alleged habitual drunkard who declared he was cured of the habit. He, however, admitted he had entered a saloon, but this was only to telephone.

"I promised my wife I would telephone to her twice a day, so that she could see I was sober," said Moran, who is employed by a railroad company.

Judge Cleland reprimanded him mildly.

"If you want to telephone to your wife don't go into a saloon. There are drug stores and other places where there are telephones."

Moran promised.

Reunites a Couple.

The judge showed his pleasure when he was told of the reconciliation of Louis Stockenberg and his wife, Louise, who are now living in a newly furnished flat at 233 Maxwell street. Stockenberg, according to his wife, abandoned her in Russia a short time after they were married and came to this country. She followed him and found him living in Chicago. Despite her pleadings with him to support her, he refused, and she caused his arrest.

Stockenberg was stubborn, but when he was arraigned before Judge Cleland two weeks ago he promised to live with her again if he was given an opportunity. The hearing of the case was continued until last night. When the clerk called Stockenberg's name the defendant appeared with his wife. The latter was smiling happily and in broken English she told of her husband's reform. Judge Cleland questioned Stockenberg at some length and he was satisfied that the two will not be estranged again.

"Laziest Boy" Now at Work.

Harry Goldstein, 17 years old, 123 Johnson street, no longer holds the title of the "laziest boy" on the west side. He informed Judge Cleland he had found employment and was happy.

"My friends used to call me the 'laziest boy on the west side,' but they will not do so, because I am working now," said Goldstein. The boy had been arrested on the complaint of his widowed mother, who informed the magistrate her son refused to work. This was two weeks ago, but the day following his arraignment in the court he obtained work.

Two other youths who had obtained work were given their freedom. They were Max Levilaski, 511 West Polk street, and Frank Leszyski, 1020 West Eighteenth street. The latter was accompanied to court by his sister, who told Judge Cleland her brother's reformation had made him a "new man."

"He has given up cigaret smoking, does not frequent cheap theaters, and is always home in the evening," said Miss Leszezyski, as tears filled her eyes. "Max says he will always support our widowed mother and——" The young woman could not speak any more. She was assisted out of the courtroom by her brother.

Asks Mayor to Close Resorts.

Judge Mack, sitting in the Juvenile court, after hearing testimony concerning the operation of a saloon in close connection with a resort in South Chicago, where numerous others of a similar character are said to exist, wrote to Mayor Dunne asking that he order the closing of such places.

Jan Hodnlewski, owner of a saloon in Harbor avenue, near Ninety-fourth street, and his wife, alleged keeper of a disreputable place adjoining it, were those against whom complaint had been made.

Probation Officer O'Keefe, who had made an investigation of the place after the dereliction of several young girls, made the complaint. The attitude of the mayor is not known.

PROMENADE CONTRACT IS LET.

Concrete Walk Eight Feet Wide Is to Be Laid Partly Around Humboldt Park.

The west park board yesterday authorized the construction of a concrete promenade, eight feet wide, along Humboldt park from Division street to Augusta street, along Sacramento avenue, from Sacramento to Kedzie avenue, along Augusta street, and from Augusta street to North avenue along Kedzie avenue. The contract for laying the walk was awarded to the Starr Concrete Sidewalk company for $8,400, at the rate of 15½ cents a square foot.

The rest of the ground necessary to complete the small park to be bounded by Twentieth, May, Fisk, and Twenty-first streets, was purchased by the board for $41,836, or at the same rate as the half block bought last week.

The contract for constructing the new greenhouse in Garfield park was awarded to Charles D. Carson for $150,949.

COURT SITS IN JAIL HOSPITAL.

Case of Mrs. Dora McDonald, Charged with Murder, Set for This Morning.

Convening in the county jail hospital yesterday, Municipal Judge John R. Newcomer continued the preliminary hearing in the case of Mrs. Dora McDonald, charged with the murder of Webster S. Guerin, until this morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. McDonald lay calmly on her cot. She gazed curiously about her and did not appear to realise what the proceedings were.

BUSSE TO MAKE WHIRLWIND TOUR

Will Cover Entire City, Speaking at Eighteen Meetings in Different Halls.

TO START MONDAY NIGHT.

Personal Campaign by Republican Candidate Will Arouse Great Enthusiasm.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS TONIGHT.

Twenty-seventh ward—Hoolihan's hall, North Fortieth and West North avenues. Speakers: Gen. E. C. Young, candidate for city treasurer; John R. McCabe, candidate for city clerk; H. H. Breidt, H. V. Shepard, C. L. Fieldstack, Charles Hutchinson, and Ald. Henry J. Stewert.

Republican Meetings Tomorrow.

Ninth ward—183 West Fourteenth street, 4 p. m. Lithuanian meeting.

Sixteenth ward—Suchowski hall, Blackhawk and Dickson streets. Polish massmeeting.

Twenty-fourth ward—Stern's hall, Fullerton avenue and Ward street, 4 p. m. Polish massmeeting. Speakers: Vincent J. Joswiakowski, Anthony Czarneckl, Joseph J. Sullivan, Albert Hahne, candidate for alderman.

In a whirlwind finish campaign, in which he will cover the entire city in a series of eighteen meetings, Fred A. Busse, candidate for mayor, will bring his own race to a close. The schedule is not yet worked out in detail.

Announcement that Mr. Busse would be able to take the stump in his own behalf was received with much enthusiasm by republican leaders last night. They declared the personality of the candidate would be a great vote getter and said the plan for his whirlwind trip around the city was all that was necessary to wind his campaign up in the proverbial "blaze of glory."

The first big meeting at which he will appear will be at the Wicker Park hall, North and Milwaukee avenues.

Strap Hangers for Ordinances.

One more strong organization has already appeared in the field to back the traction ordinances and fight for immediate settlement of the traction question. It is the Strap Hangers' league, among whose members are the persons who are most vitally interested in a settlement of the question on a basis of good service.

The nonpartisan character of the organization is evinced by the list of directors, which bears the names of men who are members of every political party and of nearly every walk in life.

The strap hangers' organization is not new in the fight for good service, as it took a prominent part in the last mayoralty campaign, endeavoring to make the one issue good service and immediate settlement. Headquarters have been opened at 186 Dearborn street, from which speakers will be assigned, literature will be sent to the voters, and meetings will be called.

Plans have been laid for what probably will be the most important meeting of the entire campaign which is to be held at McVicker's theater Tuesday noon. At that meeting Walter L. Fisher, the city's special traction counsel, will make his first public address of the campaign. Mr. Fisher will explain every detail of the ordinance, describe the means used by the city in securing the concessions that have been forced from the traction company, and explain why others that have been demanded could not be secured.

Edward Ahlswede, president of the league, will explain the position of the organization in indorsing the ordinances.

Will Be Active in Campaign.

"The league has but one object in entering the campaign, and that is to get good street car service," said President Ahlswede. "It is the intention of the league from this time on to be an active factor in the campaign so far only as the traction ordinances are concerned. To this end it will extend its activities in various forms throughout all the wards and, in addition to noonday meetings for which arrangements already have been made, there will be other meetings in other parts of the city."

The officers of the league are:

President—Edward Ahlswede.

Vice presidents—Edson Keith, Todd Lunsford, William Hard.

Secretary—George C. Clark.

Treasurer—H. L. Ickes.

The immediate settlement of the traction question was favored at a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Southwest Improvement association of the Fifth and Twenty-ninth wards, held Thursday night. Through routes in Kedzie, Western, and Ashland avenues were demanded. Speeches were made by President E. G. Piton, Joseph P. Gardner, Arthur R. Snow, and James J. Condon.

BUSSE SPOILS DUNNE THUNDER.

Makes Emphatic Denial That He Approved Shurtleff Bill Repealing Public Policy Act.

If Mayor Dunne hoped to draw Fred A. Busse into a controversy of personalities by charging that Mr. Busse was a backer of the Shurtleff bill repealing the public policy act he is doomed to disappointment. Mr. Busse showed yesterday that he not only had nothing to do with the bill, but that he advocated the referendum clause as set forth in the new city charter, which will rob the Shurtleff bill of its effect in Chicago after it becomes a law.

"I know nothing about the bill other than what I have seen in newspaper dispatches," said Mr. Busse. "I have not been in Springfield in many months, have not seen Mr. Shurtleff."

Nearly every coal dealer in Chicago was present at a meeting at the Grand Pacific hotel when the Chicago Coal Dealers' Busse club was organized. The Haymarket Merchants' Busse club and the Waiters' club, the latter with 700 members, were also formed.

MRS. M'CULLOCH HOPES TO WIN

Says if Evanston Elects Her Justice She Will Make Test Case of Eligibility.

"The question of sex has no more to do with my candidacy for justice of the peace in Evanston than the color of my eyes," Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCullouch of Evanston said last evening. "I am in the race to win, and if the people of Evanston want me for the office I will make a test case of my eligibility to serve."

Mrs. McCulloch, who announced her candidacy Thursday, said that she is an attorney admitted to practice in all the courts, and cited a case in which the Supreme court of Illinois decided that a woman could act as master in chancery.

Blank petitions are in the hands of Mrs. McCulloch's friends, who expect to file them.

FALLS DEAD ON THE SIDEWALK.

Patrick Cahill, Retired Business Man, Expires in Front of His Residence, 513 Oakley Boulevard.

Patrick Cahill, a retired business man, living at 513 Oakley boulevard, dropped dead yesterday afternoon in front of his residence. Heart disease was supposed to have been the cause. There will be an inquest this morning.

A minute before the death Dr. J. E. Reynolds, living at 514 Oakley boulevard, who had just returned in his buggy from a professional call, spoke to Cahill, but the man did not answer. He was called immediately afterward to attend to his neighbor, who was found lying on the sidewalk. Death was instantaneous.

Mr. Cahill was 65 years old and a native of Ireland. Several sons and daughters survive him.

ONLY ONE ISSUE CHEERED.

DUNNE'S REFERENCE TO TRACTION RECEIVED IN SILENCE.

Business Men, Most of Them Saloonkeepers, Applaud Loudly, However, When the Mayor Tells of His Liberal View of the Liquor Business and Pronounces the Sunday Law Obsolete in Chicago—Uncomfortable Night for Ald. Scully.

Mayor Dunne turned the batteries of his eloquence loose on the traction ordinances yesterday afternoon at a meeting of business men—mostly saloonkeepers—at Thalia hall, Eighteenth street and Allport avenue.

Ald. T. F. Scully, the democratic candidate for reelection in the Tenth ward, sat in the wings for a time while the mayor occupied the center of the stage. When the mayor's denunciation of the traction measures became warm, the alderman hid behind a pile of scenery. He didn't come out till after the meeting was over.

The mayor, however, toned down considerably his speech of the night before. He did not once refer to the aldermen who voted for the ordinances as "porch climbers" or "highwaymen." He didn't take the trouble to mention the name of Ald. Scully, though most of those who were in the hall will vote for him. Neither did Charles J. Vopicka, nor Cyril Jandus, member of the board of local improvements. They spoke to the audience in its native Bohemian.

As Ald. Scully left the hall he noticed several Demo-M. O. workers at the entrance distributing cards calling attention to the candidacy of Joseph F. Triska, who is backed by the Independence league for alderman in that ward. This was the last straw.

"I voted for the ordinances because the people in the ward wished it," said Ald. Scully. "Look at the street cars we have here!"

"Business Men" on Hand.

Saloonkeeper Cyril Flala called the meeting to order. He sat at the right of Mr. Vopicka, who is president of the Atlas Brewing company. Ald. Rudolph Hurt, Mr. Scully's colleague, sat on the platform, with former Justice of the Peace A. J. Sabath. Mr. Hurt voted for the ordinances also, but he is not a candidate for reelection.

Well down in front sat the following well known business men of the neighborhood:

Joseph Kasnaur, saloonkeeper.
S. Papovich, saloonkeeper.
J. Komorous, saloonkeeper.
A. Denemark, saloonkeeper.
Joseph Stasney, saloonkeeper.
F. Favel, saloonkeeper.
B. Flala, saloonkeeper.
J. Cervenka, saloonkeeper.
Joseph Kostal, saloonkeeper.
Ed Hovorka, saloonkeeper.
Tony Kofka, saloonkeeper.

Mayor Pleased with Audience.

Mayor Dunne said that he realized it was a business men's meeting, and he appreciated the courtesy of the business men's presence, leaving their shops when they might be selling goods. Then he told what he had done in a business way for the good of Chicago. He mentioned gas, electric lights, telephones, and water. He said that he had reduced the price of water 7 cents a thousand gallons and waited for applause, but none came.

Then he talked of traction, but the audience sat so quiet it was painful. The mayor tried a new subject.

"Before I was elected," said he, 'I was asked what I was going to do about the saloons. I said Chicago a good many years ago had decided by referendum that they were not to be closed on Sunday. Since I have been mayor I have been sued forty-six times in an effort to make me close the saloons. But I have not done it."

Then there was great applause.

Having got the audience in good humor, the mayor took up the subject of traction again, but it was no use. He could not arouse enthusiasm on that subject.

The mayor rode away in an automobile and the people went back to their places of business, riding in the dirty, ramshackle, dingy Eighteenth street and Blue Island avenue cars. The mud in the street out there is a foot deep in many places.

LAST CHANCE FOR SUSPECTS.

Registry Lists to Be Revised Tonight by the Judges and Clerks of Election.

Revision of the registry lists will be made tonight. The judges and clerks of election will sit in the various precincts to listen to the complaints of men who have received suspect notices. No new names can be put on the books. The revision is to give voters whose names were already on the lists a chance to keep them from being taken off.

It is expected the revision will strike from the registry between 30,000 and 40,000 names, bringing the number of men qualified to vote for mayor next month down to 388,000 or to 378,000. It is figured the poll on April 2 should amount to 350,000 at least, and it may go higher. Two years ago but a little over 323,000 votes were cast.

The Independence league people have demanded that Mayor Dunne shall put more ginger in his speeches. This has irritated the old time democrats who dislike the league on account of its bolt last fall, and one alderman, who is also a county committeeman, remarked:

"Let him do as he pleases. If Mayor Dunne prefers to listen to bolters rather than the regular party organization he will have only himself to blame if he is defeated."

DENOUNCE CIVIL JURY SYSTEM.

Twelve Men Who Fail to Agree on Verdict After Thirty Hours Send Petition to Judge.

The present civil jury system was denounced yesterday by twelve men who had remained in the courtroom of Judge Gibbons thirty hours debating upon a verdict in a suit brought against Smith H. Cochran by the National Casket company. The jurors said they could not reach a verdict and longed to be excused. When they came out from the jury room their hair was unkempt and their eyes bloodshot.

When called before the court the following was read and signed by the jurors:

"We, the jury in the case of the National Casket company against S. H. Cochran, do herewith humbly petition you to do all in your jurisdiction to change the law requiring jurors in civil cases to remain in session all night."

Judge Gibbons said he would do all in his power to have the rules modified, and would take the matter before President Brundage of the county board and Mayor Dunne, and send a letter to the president of the Chicago Bar association.

BUSINESS SHOW OPEN TONIGHT.

Many Devices for Saving and Aiding in Office Work on Exhibition at the Coliseum.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the sixth National Business show will open at the Coliseum. Mayor Dunne will be the principal speaker. Carl Bunge's band will render a musical program.

All yesterday 500 men were at work getting the Coliseum in shape. When the doors are opened a big display of strange devices, all used in the transaction of business and for aiding in office work, will be seen. More new ideas and devices than ever have been shown are to be displayed.

A typewriter museum in which are typewriters of all makes ever brought out will be shown. The first model of a writing machine, the original phonograph, and the first calculating machine will be seen. The show will last a week.

Buena Park Association Elects.

The Buena Park Citizens' association has elected the following officers for the year: President, W. P. Stearns; vice presidents, William F. Monroe and J. C. Scales; secretary, John H. Logeman; treasurer, Louis Wolff Jr.; executive committee, O. C. Simonds, Charles F. Loesch, William Lake, Claude Seymour, Charles M. Walworth, Albert Wahl.

FOREMAN POINTS WAY TO CAR PEACE

Council Traction Advocate Advises Voters for Busse and Good Government.

DUNNE IN NEED OF REST

Alderman Says His Policy Juggling Has Wearied Him; Hunter Against Delay.

Asserting the real traction question to be the one of how to get the best ride for the least money, Ald. Milton J. Foreman of the council committee on local transportation aroused 500 residents of the Fifteenth ward to enthusiasm last night when he plunged into an explanation of the ordinance, and told them what it meant from the people's standpoint, as he said, and not from that of the politician, who had been wrestling with it long enough.

Ald. Foreman made the principal speech at the big meeting in Pearson's hall, California and North avenues. Ald. J. L. Smith, who is seeking reelection after serving one term in the council, also spoke, as did several of the candidates on the republican ticket.

First Real Municipal Fight.

"This is the first time in the history of Chicago," said Ald. Foreman after he had been introduced by George A. Mugler, who presided, "that a political party has stood for something definite in a municipal election. This traction question has been with Chicago since several years before the oldest inhabitant arrived, and for eight years past the people have slept while the politicians have been struggling with it to their hearts' content. But something has awakened the people now and there's going to be something doing."

Ald. Foreman explained the traction question at length. He said Mayor Dunne's letter to Ald. Werno was the platform he stood on when the traction problem is up, and he paid a high tribute to Mayor Dunne as a citizen and a lawyer.

"He's too valuable to the people of Chicago as a lawyer," he declared, "and now that we know he is in no way fitted for mayor we're going to put him where he belongs."

Speaks of Trunk Feature.

Ald. Foreman laid stress on the trunk line feature of the traction ordinances. He said real estate values in the outlying wards, such as the Fifteenth, were suffering because of the present system of routing cars, which sent all lines of any importance into the loop.

"And your merchants out here are suffering, too," he said. "If a woman wants to go shopping she gets on a street car and whether she wants to go down town, she has to go there simply because the cars don't go any other way, and the big stores in the loop get the business which legitimately belongs to your own merchants out here in the Fifteenth ward."

He said the ordinances would remedy this in a way which would spell prosperity in several ways for the merchants and property owners of the suburban wards. He declared Mayor Dunne was all right on the traction problem until the "pay roll patriots" got busy with him, "and now he's like a millinery figure in a downtown store. He's on a pivot and constantly turning around."

Answering Mayor Dunne's plea that there should be a guarantee demanded from the traction companies, Ald. Foreman declared it was unnecessary. He closed his speech with a plea that the traction question be settled.

"We have the chance, let's do it now," he said.

Hunter Is Against I. M. O.

Thomas M. Hunter made a speech against municipal ownership and lauded the traction ordinances. "They are going to make it possible for you to go from the state of Indiana almost to the state of Wisconsin for a nickel," said he. He also declared Mayor Dunne's "condemnation" plan could not become effective in twenty years.

"For my part, I believe our children's children would be gray haired before the question was settled, if we don't act now."

Gen. E. C. Young, candidate for city treasurer, William H. McSurely, candidate for judge of the Superior court, and John R. McCabe, candidate for city clerk, made short addresses.

State Senator Juul paid a tribute to Mr. Busse, reviewed his career in the house and senate, and urged that Chicago place a plain business man in the mayor's chair. He said it was reported that the democrats were going to inaugurate a campaign of abuse and mud slinging in the last few days before the election, and he urged his hearers to have nothing to do with it.

"When we have to get down into the sewers to fight our political battles," he said, "then it's time to quit politics."

Judge Newcomer Makes Speech.

At a monster meeting of the Thirty-fourth Ward Republican club, Dewey hall, Twelfth street and Fortieth avenue, Municipal Court Judge John R. Newcomer could not resist the invitation of Chairman James F. Lee to ascend the rostrum.

The judge said:

"Judges are like little boys—made to be seen and not heard. I was elected on a platform declaring against the judiciary taking an active part in politics, but the spirit and letter of that platform will not operate toward keeping my mouth shut when I feel it my duty to say a kind word for my friends—Fred A. Busse, the republican nominee for mayor, and Thomas H. Devenish, your candidate for alderman.

"I would enjoy cutting loose on the issues, but I guess it would not be exactly the proper thing. But I am going to consider the matter figuratively—without discussing party or political issue. I have known these men as political friends and neighbors, and know them to be among the squarest men I ever had the pleasure of meeting and am sure that their administrations will never cause any of you to blush."

Devenish for Laborers.

Mr. Devenish, the first speaker, said he was a workingman and that when elected the workingman would get a square deal regardless of what his politics might be. He lauded Mr. Busse and urged the support of the entire ticket.

County Controller James L. Monaghan spoke in high terms of Mr. Busse and predicted his election by a large majority.

Attorney Dennis S. Donahue illustrated his talk with caricature sketches of "strap hangers."

Attorney James D. Heffernan spoke upon Mayor Dunne's change of attitude on the traction and other important questions. With the election of Mr. Busse he urged the immediate settlement of the traction question.

MAY CLOSE MEDICAL SCHOOLS.

State Board of Health Investigates West Side Colleges and Finds Three Illegally Operated.

Three medical colleges on the west side have been found not in conformity with the state board of health laws and virtually declared doing an unlawful business and subject to being closed. The colleges have but one recourse, and that is to make a change in existing conditions.

Secretary J. A. Egan of the board, after a prolonged session, said:

"The law stipulates that before a graduate from any medical school or college can take the examination before the state board of health the school from which he graduates must comply with the state law and its standing be determined. We have investigated six colleges, the Mering Medical college, Wood street; American College of Medicine and Surgery, Lincoln street; College of Medicine and Surgery, West Monroe street; Bennett Medical college, Ada and Fulton streets; National Medical college, North Wells street; and the Jenner Medical college, in Washington street."

The doctor refused to give the names of the schools under criticism until after a meeting of the board at Springfield next week.

TALKS OF MERIT SYSTEM.

MAYOR ADDRESSES VOTERS IN THIRD AND TWELFTH WARDS.

Quotes Busse's Statement About Efficiency and Tries to Construe It as Meaning Threat to Oust Job Holders — Advises Hearers to Vote Against Traction Ordinances, Comparing Cost of Rehabilitated Roads Here with New Ones in Cleveland.

Mayor Dunne subordinated arguments against the traction ordinances in two speeches last night in the Third and Twelfth wards, and then made an attempt to hold up the present civil service system as the bulwark of his administration. He astonished some of his hearers by quoting Candidate Busse's statement that "civil service laws are of no use unless they promote efficiency," and then trying to construe it as a malignant utterance.

The first speech of the evening was at Prima hall, Thirty-fifth street and Indiana avenue.

"Where is there any criticism of the civil service in Chicago?" demanded the mayor. Then evidently he heard a wee small voice, for he remembered.

"Well, there has been something said about sixty day men," he admitted, "but there have got to be sixty day men when there are insufficient fully qualified men to fill the positions."

Puzzles the Audience.

Then he continued his attempt to squeeze dire meaning out of Mr. Busse's statement without explaining why the civil service has not seen to it that there are plenty of qualified men always on the eligible lists. The audience acted puzzled and apparently few if any were able to see danger in a plain stand for efficiency in the civil service.

"Practical" civil service, the mayor construed as meaning that Mr. Busse will turn all the democratic civil service men out of their jobs in the event of republican triumph. This may have acted as a bad scare for any city hall chair warmers who were in the audience to assist in the applause.

The mayor admitted he would have passed by the traction ordinances had it not been that somebody told him that a report had been circulated that he intended to avoid them. Being thus impelled to discuss the ordinances, he did so, urging his supporters to vote against them, much as he has done at previous meetings. He again declared that with rehabilitation the 700 miles of single track in Chicago will cost $128,000 a mile under the ordinances, and that in Cleveland, O., an entirely new road was built for $50,000 a mile. Much of the campaign material from Cleveland is said to come from gentlemen there who have "inspirations" and a bundle of telegraph forms.

Mayor's Voice Becomes Weak.

At the Twelfth ward meeting, held in Novy's hall, Twenty-second and Troy streets, the mayor arrived late. His voice was weak as a result of his oratorical efforts, it being understood that he has "tractionitis."

At this meeting he professed to be mystified as to why the council sat up pretty near all night to pass the traction ordinances, calling the procedure "indecent haste."

He wound up by handing a few bouquets to Hartzen, Lewis, Grein, and other lights of the city hall, but he was mum about the school board.

"FOR GOOD OF THE SERVICE" POLICE GET SMALL SHAKING.

Chief Collins Promotes Two Sergeants and Transfers Patrolmen and Subordinate Officers to New Stations.

"For the good of the service," Chief Collins last night issued a general order, whereby two sergeants were made lieutenants, two lieutenants were transferred, three patrol sergeants changed places, and a number of patrolmen were shifted.

The changes under the order are:

Sergeant Louis M. Custy, Cragin station, promoted to lieutenant at Rawson street.

Sergeant Thomas H. Costello, detective bureau, promoted to lieutenant, office of assistant chief of police.

Lieut. P. J. Maloney transferred from Rawson street to Chicago avenue.

Lieut. Dennis O'Connor transferred from Desplaines street to South Chicago.

Lieut. J. D. Ryan, East Side station, South Chicago, transferred to Desplaines street.

The following patrol sergeants were transferred:

John J. Griffin, Cragin to Irving Park station.

William G. White, Irving Park to Cragin.

John J. Jurs, Rogers Park to West North avenue.

Sergeant John D. Ryan is the first on the list, but is in the hospital for the insane at Kankakee. Sergeant Atkinson, the second on the list, was "passed up."

An order for the removal of Detective Michael Loftus from the postmaster's office to the Woodlawn police station, nearly ten miles distant, is regarded as directly the order of Mayor Dunne. Loftus is known to be an admirer of Mr. Busse.

STREET CAR CRUSHES BOY'S LEG

Lad Is Run Down While Attempting to Cross Forty-third Street at Vernon Avenue.

Felix Simon, 12 years old, 5125 Michigan avenue, was crossing Forty-third street at Vernon avenue last evening, when he was struck by an Indiana avenue car. He was rolled under the fender of the car. His left leg was cut badly and his spine was injured. The boy is a nephew of Maurice L. Rothschild, the State street clothier.

In attempting to "flip" a freight train on the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad at One Hundred and Thirteenth street, Albert King, 13 years old, fell under the wheels and his left leg was crushed. He was taken to the county hospital.

Martin Bartholomew, 28 years old, 4731 Seeley avenue, a switchman employed by the Pan Handle railroad, was run down by a switch engine in the yards at Forty-seventh street. Both his legs were cut off at the knees. He died a few hours later.

WANTS SEWERS FOR HEGEWISCH

Batling Nelson, Failing to Get Railway Station Name Changed, Tries Another Reform.

Batling Nelson, baffled for the time being in his effort to have the name of his native town changed back from Burnham to Hegewisch by an unsentimental railroad company, engaged yesterday in another reform.

He took Superintendent of Streets Doherty and Ald. John S. Derpa down to Hegewisch in an automobile and pointed out the lack of sewers.

"The saloonkeepers alone pay $35,000 license fees to Chicago every year. Look at these sidewalks!"

The walks were submerged. Supt. Doherty told Batling that it would require $100,000 for sewers in Hegewisch and that it would be impossible to build them this year. A public hearing will take place March 26 in the council chamber, but Mr. Doherty said it would take until next spring to get the improvement through the courts.

PRANK STIRS OAK PARK SCHOOL

Room Occupied by Two Classes Broken Into, Desks Looted, and Contents Heaped on the Floor.

The Oak Park High school building was broken into Thursday night and the desks of the assembly room, occupied by juniors and sophomores of the school, were emptied of their contents, the books and papers being found in a heap in the hall yesterday morning. It is thought that Principal Hanna suspects members of the senior class. He stated that the occurrence was the first of its kind in the school since five years ago, when the same room was broken into and all numbers taken off the desks. The offenders at that time were found out and suspended.

SAY MAYOR BROKE PROMISE TO THEM

Citizens Near Rhodes Avenue and Sixtieth Street Angered at Anson's Permit.

WERE TO HAVE HEARING.

Charge Ball Park License Was Issued Before They Could Make Objections.

Eighty-five citizens in the vicinity of Rhodes avenue and Sixtieth street are anxious to know why Mayor Dunne permitted an amusement license to be issued to City Clerk Anson after he had made a promise, they say, to take no action until after a hearing of a committee appointed to protest against issuance of the permit.

The citizens in question, who are exponents of fair play, feel the city administration has given them the "double cross." As a result a mass meeting has been called for tonight by the Washington Park Improvement association at the Washington Park hospital, 936 Sixtieth street, to protest against the conduct of the mayor.

Officers of the association are: J. O. Trautwein, 6025 Vincennes avenue, president; Dr. H. P. Fitzpatrick, 6031 Vincennes avenue, vice president; J. J. Mann, 6040 Calumet avenue, secretary; and A. Miller, 6000 Rhodes avenue, treasurer. The committee, which waited upon the mayor and was surprised to hear that the license had been issued—which, at the time, they say, was untrue—was composed of Albert Miller, commission merchant at 34 South Clark street; Ald. B. W. Snow, and J. J. Mann.

Angered by Mayor's Treatment.

Secretary Mann, in telling of the situation yesterday, said:

"It is the way the mayor treated us that makes the situation particularly aggravating. Capt. Anson leased property of the McChesney estate, between Sixtieth and Sixty-first streets, Champlain avenue and the alley east of Rhodes avenue, with the intention of establishing a ball park. While the captain's big heartedness ordinarily would cause him to refrain from doing anything that would be unpleasant to a hospital and a large number of property owning citizens, he evidently didn't see the complications that would arise in this case.

"After he had made application for the license the matter went to the mayor. It was to the mayor we went. T. F. Hassett, 916 Sixtieth street, wrote him several letters on the subject. We got up a big petition of property owners. On Dec. 17 the mayor wrote Mr. Hassett he had ordered the city collector not to issue a license without a conference. The mayor promised us a hearing before taking any action.

"When the committee went to see the mayor he said the license had been issued two weeks and gave an evasive answer to our questions as to why he did not wait to hear from us. We learned, however, that the license had not been issued, but that it was issued about ten minutes after we saw him. We discovered that Anson found a note on his desk telling him to hurry and get his license.

Talks of "Secret" Report.

"One of the license officers who reported the situation is R. J. Hogan, a son-in-law of William Clark, a saloonkeeper at 809 Sixty-first street, at a corner of the proposed amusement park. We understood that Hogan was with us, but evidently we were mistaken. The mayor said a special officer had made an investigation. When we told the mayor that nobody could be found who had seen him, the mayor said probably he had worked secretly and that the people who talked to him did not know he was an officer. His report, which was in favor of the proposed park, was unsigned.

"We intend to combat this action by the mayor because we do not think he gave us a square deal."

Records at the city hall show the license was issued on Feb. 18. City Collector McCarthy showed the mayor's signature as an indorsement on the application. He said the license was not issued until the mayor gave permission.

Mrs. Mary Geier of Evanston Goes to Door Expecting Man—Hears He Is Killed.

When Mrs. Mary Geier, 2102 Asbury avenue, Evanston, went to answer a ring at her door bell last evening, expecting to meet her husband, who has been away for two months and was to return yesterday, she met a policeman with a letter from Hot Springs, Ark., stating that a man of her husband's description was killed in a railroad wreck near that place.

"Michael wrote me last week that he would return home the 15th and I expected him this evening," she said.

Geier was a former policeman in Evanston.

Market Recovers from "Brain Storm" and the Brokers Celebrate.

WHO GOT THE MELONS?

Harriman Says That He Didn't; Thomas F. Ryan Hailed as Life Saver by Buying.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Wall street recovered from its financial "brain-storm" today and celebrated its recovery with a wild and spontaneous outburst of joy when the gong closed business on the stock exchange.

Hats were tossed in the air, coats were torn off and thrown about the room, and the voices of brokers, though a bit strident and raucous from the clamorous bids and offers of three strenuous days, burst forth in joyful shouts of acclaim and gratulation.

It was a paean of self-praise over the solvency of brokerage houses during and after one of the worst slumps in the history of Wall street.

"Little Board" Chortles, Too.

Diagonally across New street there was a similar scene and a similar outburst, for the "little board," too, had weathered the storm. The consolidated could not claim the proud record of the "big exchange," since there was one failure on Thursday, but, as in the case of the stock exchange, every broker made good on the 11 o'clock show down at the clearing house. President Ogden C. Budd insisted—and his claim could not be gainsaid—that the smaller exchange, like the larger, had displayed an endurance and resistance unprecedented in Wall street history.

The market fled rallied. The twenty statistical railroad stocks which had declined at average of $7.81 a share on Thursday and $12.82 on Thursday and Wednesday, had closed at $108.01 a share, an average net gain of $6.30, or almost half of the total loss of the two days. Wall street history had been made anew, as on two other days of the week, for the opening of the market had shown an unprecedented advance over the previous day's closing.

Thomas F. Ryan the Life Saver.

But for Thomas F. Ryan, it became positively known in the course of the day, there would in all probability have been no such fortunate outcome. The heavy buying by one of the largest financial interests identified with one of the largest trust companies in the city was noted on Thursday when the panic was at its worst. The buying thus referred to was that of Mr. Ryan, who is vice president of the Morton Trust company and was collaborating presumably with former Gov. Levi P. Morton, who is president of the institution.

Mr. Ryan, whether for speculation, investment, or to allay the panic, put in close to $4,000,000 in the purchase of securities.

The Ryan purchases were not concentrated on any one or two stocks. They were directed generally to the acquisition of shares that were under the most severe pressure and embraced, no doubt, the Harriman stocks, the coppers, Reading, Smelters, and many other standard investment shares in which the decline was most demoralizing. Apparently the purchases were made without any intent to secure control in any corporation. But, whether for control, speculation, or the restoration of confidence, they assisted materially in stemming the tide.

Who Got Stung? Harriman?

Mr. Ryan would not speak of his market operations today, but men close to him, whose information cannot but be correct, are responsible for the assertions regarding his purchases. According to one of them, though the advance in the market today gave Mr. Ryan a large profit, he did not take advantage of the opportunity of "getting away while the going was good." He is still, it was said, the holder of the stocks secured at panic prices.

"Not yet but soon," said Mr. Harriman, when asked in the insurance investigation whether he had made good his famous threat to get even with Mr. Ryan. The incident of Thursday showed; observers of factional conditions said, that "not yet but soon" is a far more indefinite period than it had ever been supposed.

Ryan Gives Street Advice.

Mr. Ryan, it was also said by his associates, had not previously been in the market for three years. He signalized the event today by another departure from prior policy, and had this to say for publication:

"I believe that if Mr. Morgan's visit to the president is followed, as it should be, by representatives of all our great business interests, it will do much good. I also believe that the president's attitude toward corporations is much misunderstood by the general public. It is unfair to assume that it is his desire to hamper the business interests of the country.

"I am, however, convinced that he proposes to enforce the laws as he finds them on the statute books. And I think that the sooner the business men of the country conclude to go to work to aid the president in solving the difficult problems confronting him every day the sooner will confidence be restored and the business of the country move on without interruption. So far as general business is concerned, the only fault to be found with it is that it is too active."

Rumors Roost on Harriman.

Wall street teemed with stories about E. H. Harriman and the so-called Harriman party. Knowledge of the breach between Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City bank, which has been well known for some time, led to reports that Mr. Harriman had got at odds with Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; that 26 Broadway withheld its approval from some of Mr. Harriman's recent actions, and that the upshot of all this was that either Mr. Harriman or others of his principal associates had unloaded big blocks of Union and Southern Pacific.

There was a variant to the story to the effect that an amount of Union Pacific, variously estimated between 200,000 and 400,000 shares, had been sold at private sale late Thursday night to John S. Kennedy or prominent bankers acting for him and his associates. It was even said that control of the Union Pacific had passed in the course of this private sale.

Denies He Has Lost Union Pacific.

As far as the dissensions in the Harriman party were concerned, men in the party still displayed the same love and affection for the U. P. Said Mr. Harriman: "If it gives you any satisfaction you may say that I was never closer to my associates, railroad or financial, than I am at the present time, nor were they ever closer to me. I know of no new interests coming into the Union Pacific and know of no changes impending."

Mr. Harriman again insisted neither he nor his associates have sold a share of Southern or Union Pacific.

A representative of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. characterized as crazy the report of differences between the firm and Mr. Harriman.

E. H. Harriman leaves tomorrow morning for Virginia, where his family now is. He expects to hunt, he said, but just where or what he would not specify. He declared himself not at all interested in the proposed conference between the president and railroad presidents, and said he would not stop in Washington coming or going.

William Rockefeller Startles Street.

William Rockefeller, ordinarily as reticent as Thomas F. Ryan, also astonished the street by making a formal statement for publication. It was this:

"The present astonishing decline is as much a mystery to me as it can be to any one. With genuine overwhelming prosperity throughout the country there certainly seems no adequate reason for it. As for myself and my associates our faith in the country has not been shaken, and we have been buyers and not sellers throughout the last ten days. We have done and are doing all we can to restore and maintain public confidence. The people who are throwing away their securities at panic prices will surely regret it within the next six months."

"Why gild refined gold?" commented another member of the Harriman party when asked if he had anything to add to Mr. Rockefeller's statement.

Market Opens Strong as Giant.

The unprecedentedly high opening of the New York market had been preceded by strength and activity in the London market. At a conference in which City bank interests participated late Thursday night, after the Ryan action had become known to many, it was decided to support the market. This support was first exerted in London. As a result of it, covering by shorts in the London market and of other influences which go to bring about a panic rally, the range of prices at the New York opening was high.

The first sale of Amalgamated, for instance, was at 88, 7 points up. Smelters was also up 7 points. Other opening prices were 3 to 11 points up. From the opening until the clearing house of the stock exchange, at 11 o'clock, [illegible]arted all well, the market was feverish and [illegible]cited. It was still more than a bit panicky, sharp fluctuations taking place between sales, and throughout the day it had all the characteristics, in rapid forward and backward swings of prices, of the typical "panic rally." It was one of the few occurrences of the week in which Wall street history has repeated itself.

A large part of the buying, it was apparent, was short covering, and it was pointed out that the elimination of the short interest represented by this buying left the market technically weak. The prevailing rate for renewal of call loans was 12 per cent.

The aftermath of stories of losses shows that there has been a shifting of money from one wealthy man to another on a scale never before known in the street.

Rock Island Crowd Prize Winners.

For the prize winners on the decline the street picked out W. H. Moore and Daniel G. Reid of the Rock Island crowd, J. Brandt Walker, of whose gains something has been told, Frank Dick of Dick Brothers, and Lawrence Waterbury, who before now has astonished his intimates with feats of financial daring. Figures in even respectable detail were, of course, lacking, except in the case of Mr. Walker.

So far as Mr. Moore and Mr. Reid are concerned such an operation did not astonish the stock market community, for their nerve has been put to the test in many prior campaigns, to the sorrow of some who have opposed them and to the great glee of others who have sometimes seen the "Rock Island crowd" go up against a sure thing as bravely as though there were an even chance to win. Brokers who knew what they were talking about said that Messrs. Moore and Reid and their following began to get short of the market about the time the 10 per cent Union Pacific dividend of last summer gave it a final boost into the high figures of the fall, and had held on ever since until the inevitable should happen, as it did happen.

Three-quarters of a million was the accepted estimate of the winnings of Lawrence Waterbury and the estimate, however accurate it might be, had to go for the fact.

Girl Who Eloped with a Musician.

Mrs. Warren F. Kennett

A musician for a son-in-law was not desired by Mrs. James Sampson, 172 Ashland avenue, River Forest, mother of Miss Florida Sampson, who was married on Thursday to Warren F. Kennett, 5713 Madison avenue. The two, neither of whom is more than 21 years old, were married in Crown Point, Ind., after they had been refused a license at Hammond, Ind. Because of their youthful appearance. Mrs. Sampson arrived a few minutes after the ceremony had been performed.

Kennett is the leader of an orchestra at Woods' dancing academy, 5800 Vincennes avenue, and was at his post Thursday and Friday nights.

Mrs. Sampson said her daughter left home and went to a boarding house, at the same time obtaining employment in a downtown department store, several weeks before her marriage, because of her parents' objection to Kennett's business.

PUTS THAW'S WIFE IN LIGHT OF LIAR.

Jerome Wins Fight to Get Hummel's Testimony In and Hurts.

BLUE DAY FOR DELMAS.

Only Satisfaction the Californian Gets Is in Painting Abe's Shady Life for Jury.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—After days of skirmishing and fighting District Attorney Jerome succeeded in getting before the Thaw jury today the testimony of Abe Hummel that Evelyn Nesbit told him when she returned from abroad in 1903 she did not tell Thaw in Paris that Stanford White had ravished her, but that Thaw had tried to get her to sign papers accusing White of having drugged her and when she refused he whipped her.

But the affidavit which Hummel says Evelyn Nesbit made in his office is not yet in evidence. Through the testimony of Hummel and his clerk, Abraham Snydecker, Mr. Jerome believes he has laid a foundation for its admission. He offered it in evidence just before the trial adjourned this afternoon, but Mr. Delmas secured a delay until he had figured out what he would do about it.

From the standpoint of the prosecution the testimony of Hummel is considered most important, despite the reputation of the man who gives it. His story is a flat contradiction of the testimony of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

Hummel Takes His Medicine.

It had been predicted that the little, bald-headed lawyer of the divorce courts and other enterprises would get a terrific scorching from Mr. Delmas on cross examination. Mr. Delmas did his best to fulfill that prophecy and gave Hummel a pretty good drubbing with the weapons at his disposal, but, in the language of the prize ring, Hummel stood up and stood the gaff without trying to sidestep.

According to Hummel the affidavit which Evelyn Nesbit made was given her after she had asked White for it. But Hummel retained a carbon copy of the original and before the affidavit was turned over to the young woman a photographic copy was made of the last page, on which is Evelyn Nesbit's signature. It was a simple and beautiful illustration of the methods employed in Hummel's office when he was practicing law.

In attempting to shut out the Hummel story Mr. Delmas called young Mrs. Thaw to the stand to show her relations with Hummel were those of client and counsel and therefore Hummel should not be allowed to reveal anything that transpired between them. That was not the view Justice Fitzgerald took of it. He ruled that as she had told her version of what happened between them she waived all the privileges pertaining to a client.

Delmas' Fight Is in Vain.

As soon as the court ruled that Hummel might testify, Mr. Jerome called the little lawyer to the stand.

"When Evelyn Nesbit called upon you at your office," asked Mr. Jerome, "did she not tell you that Thaw had begged her time and again to sign and swear to documents he had prepared charging Stanford White with her betrayal, and that when she had told Thaw it was not so, he beat her?"

Mr. Delmas objected to the question, but Justice Fitzgerald overruled the objection, and Hummel answered "Yes."

There followed an argument over the statement alleged to have been dictated by Hummel. Mr. Delmas objecting to the question "Did you, in the presence of Evelyn Nesbit, dictate to a stenographer?" Justice Fitzgerald asked if the dictated statement had been reduced to writing in Miss Nesbit's presence. Mr. Jerome said it had not, and withdrew the question. He then asked Hummel if he could remember to which one of his stenographers he had dictated the statement. Hummel could not.

Hummel Acted for White.

Hummel identified a photographic copy of an affidavit as having been made from the original. Mr. Jerome then turned the witness over for cross examination.

Mr. Delmas asked Hummel if there was any one else in his office when he delivered the original affidavit to Evelyn Nesbit.

"No," said Hummel.

Q.—You say you were acting for Stanford White in this matter? A.—Yes.

Q.—And solely for his benefit? A.—Yes.

Q.—How much did he pay you for the service? A.—I can't recall.

Q.—How long had you acted as Stanford White's attorney? A.—For eight or ten years.

Hummel said he had arranged to have the photographic copy made, had sent for the photographer, whose name he could not remember, and that the photographer came to his office.

Trips Up in His Story.

A moment later Hummel contradicted himself, and said he gave the paper to Stanford White and White had the photographic copy made.

Q.—Then you did not send for the photographer? A.—No.

Q.—And you did not arrange to have the photographic copy made? A.—No.

Q.—And the photographer did not come to your office? A.—No.

Q.—When did you turn the original paper over to Stanford White? A.—The day after Evelyn Nesbit first came to my office and demanded it.

Q.—Did she call more than once? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you refused to deliver the paper to her? A.—I did—I told her it belonged to Stanford White.

Q.—Did she insist? A.—No.

Hummel said Stanford White had the photographic copy made and turned the plates and prints over to him. He held the carbon copy in his office until District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan called on him at his office some time in July last. He gave Miss Nesbit the original after Stanford White had returned it to him.

Abe, on Grill, Doesn't Squirm.

Then Mr. Delmas went into the shady side of Hummel's life, first explaining it was not his desire to cause him any unnecessary humiliation, but as he had a duty to perform he could not shirk it. With a cheerfulness either assumed or real, Hummel told him to shoot away.

Yes, it was in that very courtroom he had been convicted of conspiracy in connection with the Dodge-Morse marriage and divorce tangle, for which he was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary. There were two other indictments for subornation of perjury pending against him for drawing a false affidavit in the same case.

It was true he was appealing from his conviction and it was true—absolutely and surely—that Mr. Jerome was trying to uphold that conviction.

Yes, it was true, too, that he had been disbarred in 1872, but only for two years. Was it for bribing a Westchester judge, before whom two burglars were on trial? It was for bribery all right, but the defendants were not burglars, they were charged with some minor offense. Far be it from little Abe to let the courteous Mr. Delmas go astray on details in his career.

Mr. Delmas then went back to Hummel's experiences with Mr. Jerome, asking:

"Is District Attorney Jerome urging the case against you?"

"He certainly is," Hummel chirped.

"Is he urging a speedy trial for you on the two indictments for felony?"

Mr. Jerome objected, and, addressing the court, said: "Will your honor admit that?"

Justice Fitzgerald said he would, and Mr. Hummel said his trial had been stopped on account of his appeal, the two pending indictments involving the same transactions as the conviction for conspiracy.

"What is the penalty involved if you are convicted on the pending indictments?" asked Mr. Delmas of Hummel.

"The maximum penalty is five years on each."

Jerome Anxious to Get Through.

Hummel was then excused. Abraham Snydecker, one of Hummel's clerks, was called, and said he took the affidavit to Mr. White's rooms in the tower and handed it to the woman pointed out to him as Miss Nesbit. She kept the affidavit for five minutes and signed it, saying she had read it through.

At the conclusion of this testimony District Attorney Jerome asked permission to introduce the carbon and photographic copies of the affidavit in evidence. It was near the closing hour and Mr. Delmas asked that adjournment be taken before arguing as to the admissibility of the affidavit. He said that after reading the paper over he might not object to its being offered in evidence. "Coming, as it does," he added, "in such questionable shape we may deem it best to have the paper go in evidence."

Defense Not Nearly Finished.

Mr. Jerome then asked Mr. Delmas if the defense would also rest after the affidavit is admitted or ruled out. To this Thaw's leading attorney replied:

"I can assure you most positively that we will not rest."

"Can you tell me how long you will require on surrebuttal?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"I can give you no estimate," said Mr. Delmas.

"Will I have to prepare myself to cross-examine any more learned experts?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"You doubtless will," concluded Mr. Delmas.

Justice Fitzgerald suggested that counsel should consult before Monday morning to see if they could agree on admitting only the material parts of the affidavits.

Jerome Expects Deny Insanity.

At the morning session Mr. Jerome put five alienists on the stand, one after the other. Following the lead of Dr. Austin Flint yesterday, they expressed themselves as familiar with the hypothetical question put to the experts for the defense, and each alienist in turn gave it as his opinion that when he shot and killed Stanford White, Thaw knew the nature and quality of his act and knew that the act was wrong.

The alienists who gave this opinion for the prosecution were Dr. William Hirsch of the Cornell Medical school, Dr. W. B. Pritchard of the New York Polyclinic Institute, Dr. Albert W. Ferris of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Dr. A. R. Diefendorf, professor of mental diseases at Yale university, and Dr. Mabon, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane on Ward's island.

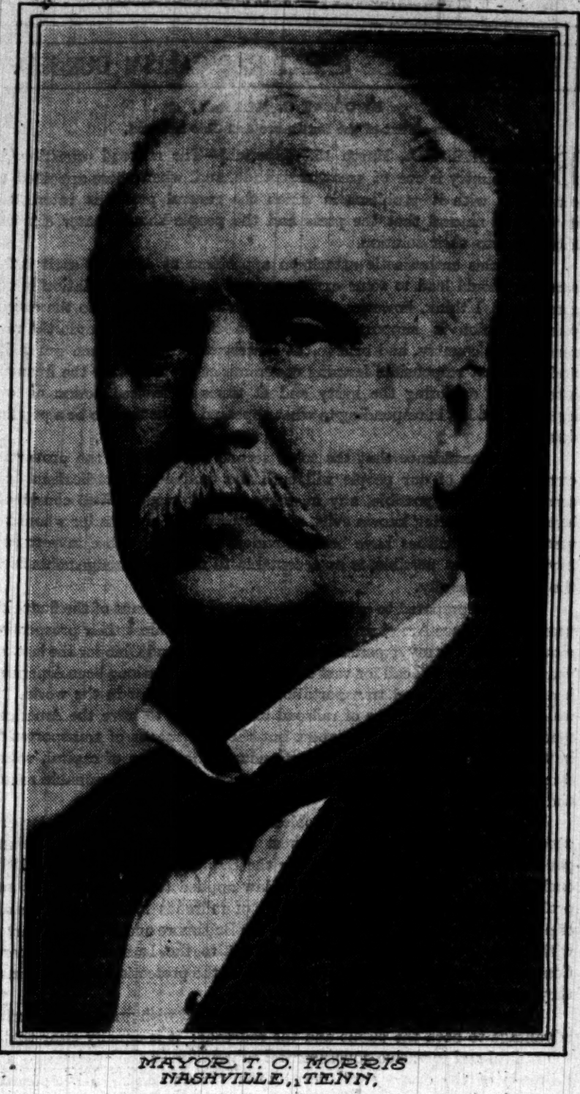

In answer to a question by Mr. Jerome Dr. Hirsch declared "there is no such things as a brain storm known among scientific men." He added that the case of "brain storm" cited by Dr. Wagner, one of the alienists for the defense, was no more similar to the Thaw affair "than a case of smallpox resembles a broken leg."

Delmas Won't Bother with Them.

To compensate for this attorneys for the defense got an admission from Dr. Mabon, the last of Mr. Jerome's experts, to the effect that physicians often differ as to the form of insanity from which a patient may be suffering. Apart from the hypothetical question of the defense and Mr. Jerome's 13,000 word query covering every phase of the evidence bearing on Thaw's sanity, these were the only queries put to the five alienists.

Mr. Delmas, immediately after the luncheon recess, surprised every one, including Mr. Jerome, by announcing that he would waive cross-examination of the prosecution's experts. Even the single question put to Dr. Mabon was withdrawn and Mr. Jerome's experts told that, so far as the defense was concerned with them, they could run along.

Mayor Ordered Arrested by Tennessee Legislators for Criticising Their Speaker.

MAYOR T. O. MORRIS

PLAN SUB-SIDEWALK CARS

MAYOR DUNNE'S M. O. ADVISERS DEVISE NEW SCHEME.

Propose to Use $75,000,000 Mueller Certificates to Raise Money for Building Subways at Each Side of the Street to Operate in Opposition to Corporation Owned Surface Trolleys—Dunne Said to Have Ordered Engineers to Investigate.

Street car lines under Chicago's sidewalks is the latest fantasy projected by Mayor Dunne's kitchen cabinet.

The cars, shorter and lighter than those in present use, are to be run under the sidewalks, not under the middle of the streets. All this in the event that the present traction ordinances are adopted in April. The project follows plans that have been prepared secretly by the I. M. O. contingent.

The scheme contemplates a raid on the $75,000,000 to be raised by the sale of Mueller certificates, and the subway line is to be an M. O. enterprise, pure and simple.

Plans Submitted to Mayor.

The plans have been submitted to Mayor Dunne, and the mayor, it is asserted, has approved them to the extent of turning them over to an engineer for investigation. Addison Blakely, who made the proposition public yesterday, thought the mayor was taken with the idea. The mayor has not said so.

Mr. Blakely was deep in calculations yesterday in the office of Dr. Maurice F. Doty, city superintendent of transportation. The plans had not been submitted to Tom Johnson, but had been approved by Deputy Assistant Mayor Margaret Haley, Dr. Doty, and others of the cabinet, and Mr. Blakely was putting the finishing touches on them.

"It is almost certain to go through," said he, as he figured, "if the traction ordinances are passed. The city will have $75,000,000 in possibilities, but nothing to buy—now. The 'junk' will be retained by the companies."

Features of the Plan.

The essential features of the Chicago subsidewalk railway plan are:

It will be constructed under the sidewalks, at a depth of ten feet or more, paralleling all present surface lines leading into the downtown district.

The subway will be constructed of concrete from the curb to the building line. It will have a subsidewalk six feet wide for the convenience of passengers and business and manufacturing industries.

The cost of construction is estimated at $200,000 a mile, and $75,000,000 will be enough to pay for it.

Freight will be delivered by the subsidewalk line between the hours of 1 and 8 o'clock in the morning.

Great Idea, Says Blakely.

"It will be the cheapest and best system in the world," said the hopeful Mr. Blakely, "and, once established in Chicago, will relegate to the junk heap every surface street car line in the country. On that account I'm afraid capitalists will oppose it.

"Think of the advantages! It is true that the business houses will lose their present sidewalk space, but see what they will gain! They will gain additional store frontage. They will have an additional sidewalk space. They can have display windows for their merchandise in the tunnels, which will be well lighted.

"The plans also provide for gas, electric light, sewers, and water mains running through the subways. The cost of constructing the subways and furnishing the equipment for the car lines is to come from the sale of the Mueller certificates, but the other enterprises will be paid for by special assessment."

Dr. Doty said he thought the subsidewalk railroad would be popular.

"It will be a mighty fine thing," said he, "when it rains. People won't have to stand on the wet street corners waiting for cars."

Ruef's Plea Under Advisement.

San Francisco, Cal., March 15.—The state supreme court today heard arguments by the attorneys for Abraham Ruef, who pleaded for an order removing him from the custody of Elisor Biggy and placing him in charge of the sheriff. This request was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Heney. The court took the matter under advisement, leaving Ruef in the custody of Elisor Biggy.

MOVING TO INDICT CANAL OFFICIALS.

Friends of Economy Light and Power Company Resort to Peculiar Tactics.

JOLIET GRAND JURY BUSY

Employes of Sanitary Board Accused of Illegally Reducing the Flow of Water.

Remarkable tactics are being used by friends of the Economy Light and Power company of Joliet and other interests of that town in an effort to discredit the trustees of the Chicago sanitary district.

It was rumored in Joliet last night that the grand jury of Will county was being urged to return indictments today for conspiracy against certain officials of the sanitary district—the charge being that of interference with the flow of water through the town; more accurately interference with the Economy company's power.

The charge on which indictments were urged was based, it is said, on the reduction of the flow from 300,000 to 150,000 cubic feet a minute for four hours on Thursday, March 7, when it became necessary to lower the water in a channel cut by the sanitary district. This channel is an important feature of the system, by which the district expects to secure water power sufficient to supply Chicago and other cities with electric power and light.

The real animus of the friends of the Economy company is said in Joliet to be a veiled desire to harrass the sanitary trustees to such an extent that they will abandon certain improvements under which the overflow of Lake Joliet will be checked and valuable farm land for seven miles on each side of the river be made once more available for agricultural purposes.

If these improvements, projected by the sanitary district, are made, it will interfere with ambitious plans of the Economy Light and Power company for the development of additional water power below Joliet.

The corporation has sought to enlist in its behalf influential politicians of Will county and apparently has succeeded.

Flow Reduced Temporarily.

Dam No. 1 of the Economy company at Joliet is dependent upon the drainage canal for its flow of water. At that point the sanitary district trustees have constructed at great expense a channel a mile and a half long. More than a week ago this channel became flooded. It was essential that the water should be lowered as soon as possible, so that the work could be resumed. Much of it was pumped out into the adjacent Desplaines river, but it was found expensive and impractical to lower the water by means of pumps, so the flow of water from Lake Michigan was reduced from 300,000 to 150,000 cubic feet a minute from 12 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Immediately after the flood in the channel had subsided the trustees increased the flow greatly, so there would be compensation for any temporary loss in power in consequence of the [illegible]esultated reduction of the flow.

The Economy company, in an effort to manufacture public sentiment to serve its own ends, is said to have begun, however, to crack the whip over its political allies and action by the grand jury may be the outcome.

Why Economy Company Objects.

To understand the situation at Joliet it is necessary to know that the Economy company is contemplating the construction of another extensive power plant, to be known as the Morris plant, some miles below Joliet. It does not suit this corporation therefore that the drainage district trustees should cut a channel at the lower end of Lake Joliet for the purpose of reducing this annual overflow of water. The Economy company apprehends that the cutting of the channel will reduce materially the head water it requires for its Morris plant. The trustees, however, are going ahead with the improvement, representing a cost of around $7,000—a necessary step in the ship canal project. The channel that is planned will lower Lake Joliet three feet and relieve the country from overflows for seven miles on each side of the river. These overflows already have cost the sanitary district $250,000 in damages.

The Economy people also have been angered by the drainage trustees' efforts to induce the legislature to order out dam No. 1.

Another improvement the district trustees are contemplating is at Hickory creek, where, by the construction of levees, the overflow will be checked. This also is bitterly opposed by the Economy corporation as interfering with its water power.

Another Case of Ill Will.

Another cause of the ill will of the Economy company is said to have been the offer by the sanitary district trustees three months ago to furnish power for electric light to Joliet at the rate of $10 a lamp. The city council, however, rejected this bid in favor of one by the Economy Light and Power company at a greatly increased cost. The minority of the council, which opposed awarding the contract for five years to the Economy corporation at a comparatively exorbitant figure, intends to make an issue of it at the next election.

Seek to Avert Range War.

Sheridan, Wyo., March 15.—The Woolgrowers' association has called a general meeting of sheep owners for Saturday, with the intention of forming a committee to confer with the cattlemen for a division of the northern Wyoming range between the two interests. In an effort to avert the threatened war. The cattlemen are not willing to agree to a division.

SUICIDE DUE TO STOCK SLUMP.

Washington Youth Who Embezzled $2,000 Ended Life Rather than Face Trial.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Tracing his financial downfall to the sudden fluctuation of stocks in Wall street, Charles Abbott, aged 20, committed suicide today by shooting. Rather than face trial for embezzling $2,000 from Wade & Hedges, brokers, he ended his life.

MEN TO WEAR LIGHTER SHADES.

Official of Tailors' Organization Says Somber Clothes Are Out of Date in Chicago.

Light grays and browns will be the prevailing shades in men's clothes this spring and summer, according to members of the Chicago Merchant Tailors' association, whose exhibit of men's spring clothes at the Wellington hotel closed yesterday.

"There will be more light shades worn this year in Chicago than ever before," said Henry Werno, vice president of the National Merchant Tailors' association.

"Men in Chicago have always inclined toward dark and somber colors in their clothes, but the tendency this year is toward light effects."

DOG BITES; OWNER ATTACKED.

Parents of Injured Boy Resent Small Fine Imposed and Slap Owner of the Animal.

Louis Ainis, 912 North Fourth avenue, Maywood, who was fined $5 and costs by Justice Seymour of Maywood last night on a charge of keeping a vicious dog, was attacked by the parents of Charles Kennedy, 12 years old, 814 North Fourth avenue, who had been bitten by the dog. Mrs. Kennedy and her husband demanded that Ainis shoot the dog. He refused. Mrs. Kennedy is said to have struck him in the face. Kennedy then attacked him. Marshal John Karaphouss separated the men.

EVANSTON WANTS TRACKS UP.

Council Passes Ordinance for Raising Milwaukee and St. Paul Company's Rails.

The passage of two ordinances at a special meeting of the Evanston council last night provides for the elevation of the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad from the north to the south limits of the city. Because the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railway uses the tracks of the company north from Church street, it was found necessary to make two separate ordinances and they were passed without opposition.

POLICE SEEK ELOPING PAIR.

Father of Mary Farrell, Joliet, Accuses Clarence Carpenter of Kidnaping—Girl Is Fifteen Years Old.

The police have been asked to arrest Clarence Carpenter, 23 years old, a fireman on the Elgin, Joliet and Elgin railway, who is said to have eloped with Mary Farrell, 15 years old, 105 Dickeman street, Joliet. A warrant has been sworn out before Municipal Judge C. F. Blood accusing Carpenter of kidnaping. Miss Farrell's father is Louis Farrell, an ice contractor.

STANDARD GETS LEGAL STUNNER.

All Technical Objections to Trial of Alton Rebate Cases Overruled by Court.

RULING BROAD IN SCOPE.

Wipes Out Possibility of the Oil Company Securing an "Immunity Bath."

Standard Oil received the most crushing legal blow in its history yesterday when Judge Landis in the United States District court here overruled all the objections of the defendant's counsel to the further trial of the Alton rebate case.

With these objections thus disposed of, little remains for the government other than the technical proof of illegal shipments.

The far reaching effect of the decision can hardly be overestimated. If sustained by the United States Supreme court, where the case surely will be carried if the jury finds the company guilty, Judge Landis' ruling will clear the way for future conflicts between the government and the giant trusts. More than that, it establishes the precedent and gives the government elbow room in the prosecutions already begun in various parts of the United States.

The objections of Attorney John S. Miller, based on technical wording of the indictment and a none too strict compliance with the Elkins law by the Alton railroad, were to be to the Standard Oil case what the "immunity bath" plea was to the beef trust prosecutions. That a similar result did not ensue is believed to have been due largely to the generalship shown by District Attorney Edwin W. Sims over the opposing counsel, and the argument of his assistant, James H. Wilkerson.

Judge Landis had demonstrated before that technical objections which did not vitally affect the issues could not be pleaded before him as a valid defense.

Oral Decision Is Given.

The decision was an oral one and was delivered by Judge Landis just before the noon adjournment. In part it follows:

"This objection is to evidence of shipments between Chappell and St. Louis, on the theory that there was no lawful rate in force between Chappell and St. Louis at the time the transaction occurred, because in the first place the Alton road could not make a lawful rate between Chappell and St. Louis, the latter being beyond its line; and in the second place that the station Chappell is omitted entirely from the schedule relied upon by the United States as establishing the fact of publication.

"Bearing in mind that the sum of the local rates in force on the several lines of connecting carriers forming an interstate line become the true rates—and this court holds it does—the Alton road has assumed the attitude of being possessed of facilities to get property from Chappell, in Illinois, on its own road to St. Louis, in Missouri, on the bridge company's road. The position of the defendant is that under these conditions the mere omission to make the conventional agreement for a joint through rate, relieves the Alton company of the necessity of establishing and adhering to a uniform rate. That is the logical result of the defendant's position.

Obliged to Publish Rates.

"My view of that phase of the controversy is that the first clause of section 1 covers this case, and that the Alton company was under obligation to establish and publish its rates.

"The other question is whether or not there has been any compliance with that clause of section 6 covering publication. There are two points urged in support of the defendant's objection. One of them is that there can be no publication without an actual, physical posting or pasting on the wall in the railway station; the other one is that the word 'Chappell' is omitted from the document which the government relies upon as a printed schedule.

"There has been a good deal said here about the safety of the citizens, and I think that it has been pertinent. The test of this question is: what would be the situation of the citizen, the average honest man engaged in an endeavor in good faith to find out the lawful rate? That is the test, in my judgment.

"This honest man who wants to learn the lawful rate knows there can be no lawful rate from Chappell to St. Louis, Mo., that is not put down on paper; he knows that if a railroad company gives him a rate that does not appear on paper the railroad company commits a misdemeanor. So with that in his mind he goes to the railroad office to learn the rate from Chappell to St. Louis, Mo.

Rate Is Not Vitiated.

"The question now is whether the fact that the railroad company has omitted from this tariff the word 'Chappell' it has entirely vitiated the rate. I do not understand that to be the law. Taken especially in connection with the fact that this railroad company has made what might be called a Chicago district, embracing that territory including Chicago and adjacent territory within the Belt line, and applied the Chicago rate, I see no possibility of this honest man, diligently and in good faith seeking a lawful rate, getting into any net from this information.

"Justice White has ruled on the question of pasting and posting. It may be that later in this trial the court will feel that it wants to hear something on that subject. I don't feel so now. I have not the least doubt that the duty devolves upon the shipper to see that the rate quoted to him by the agent is exhibited in a printed schedule, always bearing in mind that he cannot take a rate that is not printed, without getting a rate from a railway company that thereby violates the law.

Schedules Must Be Posted.

"The Standard Oil company's office was in Chicago; the Alton railway company's offices are in Chicago. The Standard Oil company's shipping point, initial point, is Whiting or Chappell. The only use it had for Whiting and Chappell was for turning from its hands to the hands of the carrier its property for transportation.

"It is perfectly plain on the evidence now introduced that if at Whiting and Chappell all of these schedules had been pasted on the wall it would have added nothing to the situation so far as this defendant is concerned. It did not go there for information respecting rates over the railroads in controversy in this case.

"I do not agree with the counsel that this posting provision is merely directory. I think that the carrier is requirable on the complaint of the shipper to post his rate. I have no doubt about that. The law is perfectly plain to such intelligence as this court has that the carrier may be required to post his rates—that is to say: put the schedule against the wall.

Objection Is Overruled.

"I don't say it must paste it with glue; it is possible it could be a pasting if it hung on a nail—I don't know. But I think it is required under this law to do one of the two things. But if the carrier fails to do that the law does not mean that the rate has become vitiated, that there is no rate, and that there has been no publication where, in a case, as in this case, the evidence is that the rate was filed with the interstate commerce commission and the carrier sent out by thousands copies of its printed schedules. I hold that to be publication.

"The objection is overruled."

Waybills Are Identified.

The afternoon session was devoted to the identification of waybills by a number of clerks formerly employed by the Chicago Terminal Transfer railroad company and the Chicago and Alton. More than 2,000 pieces of documentary evidence were thus marked and later will become exhibits in the case.

The question of the establishment of the 18 cent rate having been disposed of by the court's ruling, the only obstacle yet to be surmounted by the prosecution is proof of the Standard Oil's settlement on the 6 cent basis.

RAILROAD PROBLEMS DISCUSSED IN MESSAGES TO THE TRIBUNE.

President of the Baltimore and Ohio System Gives Extended Views in Reply to the Questions Telegraphed to Him—Six Governors Who Have Studied Conditions Closely in View of Action by Their State Legislatures Submit the Result of Their Investigations in Personal Communications.

PEOPLE NEED PROTECTION.

BY B. B. COWER,
Governor of Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 15.—[Special.]—Alabama has just established by law a 2½ cent fare, cut out the passes, made a commission with plenary power, and enacted comprehensive restrictive and restraining laws. The trust position of the railroad companies, their multiplication of securities, their claim that under the law they could tax the country for the interest on the same, the establishing by them of arbitrary and one sided rules, is to a thoughtful man alarming and, I think, calls for both federal and state action to protect the people.

This protection should be thorough, and, if need be, drastic. In the end this protection would be most beneficial to every interest, including the railroads.

B. B. COWER.

INVESTIGATE, THEN ACT.

BY E. W. HOCH,
Governor of Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kas., March 15.—[Special.] I believe that the interstate commerce commission for the nation and the boards of railroad commissioners for the states should have ample power to fix maximum rates, both passenger and freight, but that this power should be exercised only after the most thorough study and investigation in order that this prerogative of government may be exercised intelligently and fairly.

E. W. HOCH.

GIVES ROADS A CHANCE.

BY JOHN BURKE,
Governor of North Dakota.

BISMARCK, N. D., March 15.—[Special.]—Laws regulating railroad rates should be reasonable and determined by a comparison of the gross receipts of the road with the cost of operating it; in other words, the gross receipts of the road should pay the company a reasonable compensation after deducting the cost of operating the road.

JOHN BURKE.

EXPECTS TO SEE GREAT RADICALISM CURBED.

BY OSCAR G. MURRAY,
President of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

BALTIMORE, MD., March 15.—[Special.]—The railroad question in this country is one of great magnitude, and, when there appeared in connection with it problems in which the general public is interested, it was but natural that the press and the people should enter enthusiastically into their solution.

That this enthusiastic attack on a problem as complex as it is far reaching should lead to some extreme views and radical legislation is not surprising. I think, however, there is a mistaken notion as to the extent public opinion is supporting an antagonistic attitude towards the railroads of the country, and believe the conservative business men generally, and the great responsible farming communities are one with the financial interests in deploring the hasty and at times ill-advised action of our legislative bodies in responding to what appeared at the time to be a popular demand.

I have confidence that the sober second thought and the proverbial common sense of our people will curb the tendency to radicalism, and correct, so far as possible, any mistakes already made. Well considered legislation correcting known evils, and protecting alike those for whom the vast railroad facilities have been provided and those whose investments have made them possible, is as acceptable to railroad managements as to the public generally.

I am not prepared to express an opinion of the amount of the financing necessary to place American railroads in position to meet their prospective requirements, but my experience on the Baltimore and Ohio for the last ten years tells me it will call for vast expenditures. It has long been America's boast that her railroad transportation was the cheapest in the world. If we are to realize the hope of railroad management to have the American roads afford not only the cheapest but the best means of transportation in the world, it will require the continuous co-operation of capital, which cannot be expected unless it can have the assurance of a reasonable return and safety in investment.

Years ago the railroad problem became one of national importance, and one in which the interest and co-operation of the federal government was essential. And after the Supreme court decision in 1898, declaring that the so-called anti-trust law applied to railroad carriers and prohibited agreements and associations of railroads for the maintenance of published rates, the then receivers of the Baltimore and Ohio, in common with many other railroad carriers, turned to the Interstate Commerce Commission and sought their co-operation in the protection of the interests they represented.

It is clear such co-operation may be extended with great and enduring advantage to both the public and the railroads; it is equally clear that a too radical and intensive governmental supervision in the operation of the railroads of the country will destroy the initiative and the independent action that has been so potent a factor in the upbuilding of the railroads of the country.

OSCAR G. MURRAY.

IOWA WILL BE JUST.

BY ALBERT B. CUMMINS,
Governor of Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 15.—[Special.]—There is no danger that the Iowa legislature will pass any laws unjust to railway or any other kind of property. No legislation is proposed that will reduce the earnings of railways below the point of absolute safety to those who have their money invested in stocks and bonds.

The men who hope to make fortunes out of the manipulation of baseless securities are the men who are attempting to frighten the real investor.

These are the men who have made legislation necessary, and they are now endeavoring to use a natural business sentiment as a shield to protect their indefensible methods.

ALBERT B. CUMMINS.

LAWS SHOULD BE ELASTIC.

BY COE I. CRAWFORD,
Governor of South Dakota.

PIERRE, S. D., March 15.—[Special.]—In my opinion state legislatures should not attempt to fix maximum freight and passenger rates by inelastic enactments. Boards of railway commissioners selected in some manner which would remove them from undue influence and provided with ample means to separate the actual and commercial value of railway property should be given this power.

There should be concerted and uniform action by the boards of the respective states through which the involved lines extend harmonizing with the action of the interstate commerce commission in the same territory. I heartily favor a conference looking to this end.

COE I. CRAWFORD.

FAVORS STRINGENT LAWS.

BY J. O. DAVIDSON,
Governor of Wisconsin.

MADISON, Wis., March 15.—[Special.]—I am in hearty accord with the advanced legislation already enacted in Wisconsin for the control of railroads and other public service corporations. Our railroad commission is empowered to fix passenger and freight rates and otherwise has supervising authority.

J. O. DAVIDSON.

ROOSEVELT'S AIM RAILWAY ETHICS.

might sustain the commission. Then the railroads reduced rates a fraction of a cent, and litigation went on.

The result was that the federal government was absolutely unable to control any railroad rate whatsoever. The states were in a far better position. They could, and in many cases did, fix a maximum rate for passengers and freight, and they did all this without interfering with the federal power for regulation of interstate commerce in the slightest degree.

Now, however, this condition has all changed. The interstate commerce commission has power now actually to fix railroad rates. It is not limited to declaring them unreasonable. It has as much power as the railroad commission of any state, with the additional authority that it can establish rates over a large territory. This being the case, the attempt by states now to fix railroad rates may interfere seriously with the plans of the federal government. The establishment of a local rate between two points within a particular state might compel the railroads to discriminate against other cities outside that state. There is a delicate question to be settled in this regard, and it is possible that it may come up before the next meeting of congress, so that the president will have to deal with it in his coming message.

Want Light on Capitalization.

Aside from the question of state rights there will be urged in the next congress, as one of the developments of the administration policy, the proposition to examine into the actual capitalization of railroads with a view to establishing some sort of relation between railroad rates and railroad profits.

The interstate commerce commission now is bound first of all to determine what is a reasonable rate. This does not always mean what it costs to haul a ton of freight over a mile of track at a certain rate of speed under specified conditions. There must be taken into consideration the question of fixed charges for maintenance of right of way, cost of terminals for handling freight, of all sorts of repairs and betterments, and of every feature involved in the actual cost and maintenance of the railroad itself.

The natural system is to find out what is the indebtedness in the way of bonds and capital stock of a railroad and assume that it must pay a fair dividend on this capital. Most of the railroads of the country, however, have been overcapitalized to such a shocking extent that if railroad rates in the future were to be determined by the nominal capital involved and the necessity of paying dividends as fixed charges the result would be not a reduction but a large increase in freight and passenger rates throughout the country.

Disease Seems Chronic.

It is this feature which has been brought most prominently to the attention of the president this year. Harriman's financial gymnastics with the Chicago and Alton, after all, are only a symptom of what appears to be a chronic railroad disease. He issued twenty or thirty millions of securities based on nothing in particular. In this way he increased the fixed charges which the railroad had to pay and which the rates on passengers and freight must provide for. If the president talks about this incident with Gov. Deneen and Attorney General Stead it naturally will be to inform himself on the subject of overcapitalization and not with any idea of urging the Illinois authorities to prosecute Harriman or to invalidate the issues.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Prouty and Harlan were at the White house today to talk with the president regarding the remarkable hearing to be held in Chicago early next week, at which this question of capitalization is to be brought out. It involves complaint against the Great Northern railroad from shippers at Spokane, Wash., who declare that lower rates have been quoted for business to Seattle than to Spokane although the latter city furnishes a shorter haul. The Great Northern railroad intends to justify the heavier charge for the short rather than the long haul.

Hill May Anticipate Roosevelt.

In addition, however, under the direction of J. J. Hill, attorneys for the Great Northern intend to anticipate President Roosevelt and will go into the question of capitalization. They propose to show that according to the amount actually invested in the Great Northern railroad the rates charged yield only a fair profit, so that there is no basis for an allegation of unfairness.

If this unusual course is pursued by the railroad people it will bring out the whole theory of capitalization exactly as President Roosevelt is developing it himself for use in his annual message to congress. It was for this reason that the two commissioners discussed the subject at length with him this afternoon before leaving for Chicago.

ALL GOLDFIELD STORES SHUT IN FIGHT ON WORKERS' ORDER.

Merchants and Mine Owners Take Determined Stand—Bag Filled with Money Cannot Be Traded for Onion.

Goldfield, Nev., March 15.—[Special.]—Aside from the saloons and gambling houses, not a business house was open in Goldfield today. This is the direct result of the resolution passed by the mine owners and merchants at the Montezuma club last evening to the effect that no one belonging to the Industrial Workers of the World will hereafter be employed in any capacity in this camp.

The citizens of the camp have taken a determined stand against the lawlessness which has been prevalent here for several weeks, and will protect life and property at all hazards.

The present trouble is not one of wage scale, hours, or union principle, but simply on account of the industrial workers insisting on every workingman joining that organization, whether he is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor or any other organization. The mine owners do not intend to compel union men to join other associations against their will.

Killed for Not "Joining."

All of those who have not joined with the workers have been marked; many have been beaten and run out of town, and an act which was followed by the appointment of a vigilance committee to patrol the streets and protect the buildings was the murder of Tony Silva, the proprietor of a little restaurant. He refused to join the workers and his place was boycotted all day Sunday. That evening he was murdered.

George Wingfield, "Diamondfield Jack" Davis, Henry Weber, and other mine owners have been threatened and told to leave town, and unless affairs are speedily settled there will be bloodshed.

Money in Plenty; Nothing Else.

With the announcement that the markets would be closed definitely after noon today, bread lines were formed and mobs besieged the stores for hours. There is not even a restaurant open tonight and a young onion cannot be bought with a nose bag full of hundred dollar bills.

MORE PAY FOR 18,000 P. O. MEN.

2,157 Clerks and 1,736 Carriers in Chicago Will Be Promoted During the Coming Fiscal Year.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Carrying out the provisions of the postoffice appropriation law, the postoffice department has arranged for the reclassification of all employes of the postal service. About 18,000 persons are affected. In the Chicago office 2,157 clerks and 1,736 carriers will be promoted during the coming fiscal year. The only office which exceeds Chicago in number of promotions is New York.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM WINDOES, 82 years old, 6427 Champlain avenue, former superintendent of mails in the Chicago postoffice and one of Abraham Lincoln's first appointees, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He was born at Woodstock, England, came to America in 1837, and to Chicago in 1850. He was appointed to his postoffice position in June, 1861. He leaves a widow and three children. The funeral will take place Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence.

NEW MONEY LOSS CHARGED

SUBTREASURY IS SUED BY COMMERCIAL NATIONAL BANK.

Bill in United States Court Claims $500 in Mutilated Bills for Redemption Was Lost in Government's Hands—Attorney Says Package Was Twice Counted Before It Was Sent—Secret Service Agent Studies "Active Somnolency."

More evidence of apparent carelessness in handling money in the subtreasury came to light yesterday when a petition was filed by the Commercial National bank in the United States District court, in which the bank demands the return of $500 of its funds which disappeared from the subtreasury. The money is said to have disappeared on June 29, 1906—long before the 173,000 theft, which still is a mystery.

In the petition Attorney George M. Eckels sets out that on this date $10,000 in mutilated silver certificates was sent to the subtreasury for redemption. The package containing the money was received and, presumably, counted. The next day, however, the bank was informed that the package was $500 short.

As the money had been counted twice by different persons before leaving the bank, it was declared impossible that the money could have been taken from the package while it still was in the bank. Demands, therefore, were made upon the subtreasury officials for the full amount named. This the treasury officials refused to do, and, unable to come to any agreement, the courts have been resorted to.

Search Takes Peculiar Turn.

The search for the missing $173,000 took a peculiar turn, when Capt. Porter, head of the local branch of the secret service, began the study of big books on psychology. The captain explained that he wished to learn what science had to say about the only remaining theory upon which the secret service men now are working.

The theory which he wishes to verify is that the money was taken from George W. Fitzgerald's cage by an employe who is subject to lapses of memory verging upon insanity. If this is true, he said, the man who took the money probably could not be held legally responsible for its disappearance. Neither would it be expected that he could offer any explanation as to the whereabouts of the money.

Nothing New in Count.

Gideon C. Bantz, special secret service agent from Washington, declared that nothing new had been learned. He said the count of the experts still was in progress.

TAFT LEADS IN DOCTORS' POLL.

Cincinnati Physician Reports 3,187 Want Secretary for President—Root Second, Cannon Third.

Cincinnati, O., March 15.—[Special.]—Several weeks ago Dr. C. A. L. Reed of this city, wishing to ascertain the sentiment of the men of his profession and others regarding their preferences for candidates for the presidency sent out thousands of circulars to prominent physicians and laymen in all parts of the country. In discussing the replies Dr. Reed today said:

"So far I have heard from 1,132 counties. On the republican side I have the names of 5,782 leaders, whose expressed preferences show that there are at present but five men under serious consideration. Shaw has 317; Root, 926; Fairbanks, 948; Cannon, 463; while Taft has 3,187 followers on the list. The remaining are scattered among half a dozen names, such as La Follette and Hughes. These I did not have on my list. The reports now coming in contain Gov. Hughes' name with increasing frequence.

"On the democratic side there are nearly as many preferences reported. Everybody wants Mr. Bryan. Gov. Folk's name is mentioned possibly fifty times. Down south they like John Sharp Williams, but they say they know it will do no good, so they, too, are for Bryan."

Will Tell of Boston's Problems.

SAILBOAT USED TO KIDNAP; LATEST CLEW IN MARVIN CASE

Veteran Oyster Man Finds Evidence Which Leads to Belief Man and Woman Took Boy to Baltimore.

Dover, Del., March 15.—[Special.]—An important clew, which practically confirms the report that the kidnapers of Horace N. Marvin used a sailboat to steal him from his father's home, and that the stolen boy may be hidden in Baltimore, was brought here late tonight by Capt. "Scotty" Clark, a veteran oyster man of Baltimore.

The abductors of the Marvin boy, according to Clark, spirited him from Bay Meadows farm in a boat, going up the Delaware river toward Baltimore. While the boatman did not see either the kidnapers or the boy, he talked to a colored man who did, and found the boat they deserted on the bay shore a few miles from Baltimore.

While boating down Chesapeake bay to join the oyster fleet Clark first noticed the deserted boat lying near Bay View. This was last Monday. The craft was not of the type usually manned by the oystermen of Chesapeake bay, and his attention was attracted to it. A negro who lived near said a man and woman, who carried a boy crying loudly all the time, had been on the boat. When they asked for food the boy was kept carefully concealed. The mysterious man and woman, with the boy, walked towards the terminus of the trolley system which goes into Baltimore.

Alleged Eye Witness to Shooting Tells Senators He Saw Nothing.

FORAKER ON STILL HUNT.

Ohio Man Admits Sending to Texas, at His Own Expense, a Private Investigator.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—A man who claimed to be an eyewitness to the "shooting up" of Brownsville, but who admitted during his testimony that he saw nothing, was put on the stand today by Senator Foraker before the senate investigating committee. This and the admission by the Ohio senator that he personally paid the expenses of an "investigator" who went to Brownsville to gather information were the features of today's hearing.

Macias G. Tomayo, a Mexican carpenter, and also scavenger at Fort Brown, told the committee that when the firing occurred he was working between the barracks and the wall separating the town from the reservation, and was in a position to have seen soldiers leave the barracks and enter the town and return to the barracks if they had done so.

Heard Shots; Saw Nothing.

When the shooting began, he said, the first shot caused him to straighten up and listen. He said it came from the alley about half a block from the reservation. Another shot was fired almost immediately and Tomayo quickly extinguished his lantern, for fear of being made a target. He says there then followed a fusillade, the bullets whistling over the barracks as if fired toward the administration building. He left the place at that time. He would not say that it would have been impossible for soldiers to have hidden along the wall in the rear of the outhouses and wood sheds.

Foraker in Private Inquiry.

During the examination of other witnesses the committee was told of a man named Ferguson who quizzed them in Brownsville. Senator Foraker then said he personally sent Ferguson to Texas. Asked whether Ferguson was a negro or a white man, the Ohio senator did not know, but thought he was a mulatto.

The report from the Springfield arsenal, where the war department had made microscopic tests of shells picked up in Brownsville streets and bullets found in the walls of the houses there, now awaits the disposition of the committee.

Hints Perjury in Penrose Case.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—[Special.]—The defense in the Penrose court martial today introduced evidence by which it sought to prove that witnesses who testified that they identified the firing party as negro soldiers swore falsely. This testimony was given by H. A. Stuckey, an electrical and mechanical engineer, and Lieut. H. A. Wiegenstein and James Blythe of the Twenty-fifth infantry, stationed at Fort McIntosh, Laredo. They described a series of experiments made at Fort McIntosh, in which the conditions existing at Brownsville the night of the shooting were simulated as nearly as possible.

In demonstrating that Springfield rifle ammunition could be fired from a Winchester rifle Lieut. Wiegenstein rapidly loaded five cartridges into the magazine of the Winchester and then ejected them quickly by working the lever. The cartridges were put into the rifle without a clip.

SOLDIER LEAVES HIS FORTUNE TO NATION HE SERVED WELL.

President Roosevelt Named as Executor by Late Capt. J. H. Hooker of Rochester—Estate May Be $2,500,000.

Rochester, N. Y., March 15.—[Special.]—When the will of the late Capt. James H. Hooker of this city was opened today it was found he had bequeathed his entire estate, valued at from $200,000 to $2,500,000, to the United States government and that President Roosevelt was named as executor. The terms of the will direct that the money be used to found a military academy.

Capt. Hooker left thirteen nephews and nieces, but no near relatives. It is understood that they do not contemplate contesting the will, but an attorney will be sent to Washington to consult with government officials before the will is offered for probate.

Capt. Hooker long entertained the idea of bequeathing his estate to the country he had served well on many battlefields. Two years ago, when he felt his years drawing to an end, he executed his will. Capt. Hooker was born in Rochester in 1832. He was one of the organizers of company E, Thirty-ninth regiment, Illinois infantry, known as the Florence rifles. He received his commission as captain in August, 1861, and served until May, 1862, when he was invalided home.

SEES EVOLUTION IN PRESIDENCY.

Head of Princeton Cites Mr. Roosevelt as Type of Leader Nation Wants.

GROVER REJECTS HONOR.

Refuses to Consent to Proffered Greetings on Seventieth Birthday.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, March 15.

The national government has shown its marvelous growth in nothing more than in the development of the presidency, in the opinion of Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, who lectured at Columbia university today.

Development of Presidency Notable.

Mr. Wilson's subject was "The President of the United States." He declared that as the government became more and more complex the president is becoming more and more a political and less and less an executive officer.

"His cabinet becomes more and more dependent upon him, upon his single office more and more center the vital forces of opinion and political initiative. Let the president get the confidence and admiration of the country and no other single force can withstand him," said Dr. Wilson.

"The president alone is elected by the people as a whole, has no local constituency, speaks for no special interest. If he truly interpret the national thought and boldly enough insist upon it he is irresistible, and the country never feels the zest of action so much as when its president is of such insight and caliber. It is becoming inclined to choose a man rather than a party, as it did in the case of Mr. Roosevelt in the last presidential election.

"The president is undoubtedly the one spokesman of the whole people; they have again and again manifested their satisfaction when the president has boldly accepted the rôle of leader of his party, and political leader of the nation itself, to which his position seems to entitle him."

One man was killed and several others seriously injured in the collapse of a building in Williamsburg today.

Cleveland Declines Offer of Birthday Honor.

Grover Cleveland, who was born on March 18, 1837, will complete his seventieth year next Monday. Last March some of his friends passed around quietly among themselves a suggestion that each should write him a letter or send a telegram of birthday greeting. Soon after, some of those closest to him formulated plans for a popular national demonstration in recognition of the event of next Monday.

These preliminary arrangements, which were completed in almost every detail, were made without consulting Mr. Cleveland. When he became acquainted with them he declined the proffered honor, while recognizing the spirit which had prompted it. There will, therefore, be no formal celebration, either in Princeton or elsewhere. Mr. Cleveland is now in the south taking his usual springtime outing.

Fritzi Scheff, who is ill at the St. Regis, is better. A bulletin posted at the hotel tonight said she was "considerably improved and resting easily." No operation has been performed as yet, however, the physicians considering the patient's condition does not warrant it.

Mourned as Dead, Son Ends Fifteen Years' Absence.

Mourned as dead for fifteen years, John Marshall, son of William Marshall of Tuckahoe, who was supposed to have perished in the Klondike, came home today and surprised his parents. His aged father and mother were overjoyed at his return and there is to be a big celebration.

William Marshall was in his office in White Plains today when a man entered. "Can you let me have a rig today?" asked the stranger. Mr. Marshall looked up quickly and was about to answer when he saw in the man's face a look that made him think of the 19 year old boy whom he saw for the last time so many years ago. Recognition followed. The father, in great excitement, exclaimed:

"Is this you, John? I thought you were dead. It cannot be possible. I cannot believe it."

The two men, with tears of joy in their eyes, embraced for the first time in fifteen years. John surprised his mother at her home as suddenly as he did his father in White Plains. She wept for joy.

In 1892, Marshall, then 19 years old, became a victim of the Klondike gold fever, which was then at its height. His parents were living in Cleveland. He ran away to Alaska. After years had passed the aged couple decided their boy had perished in a big landslide.

Marshall was not in the landslide, but remained in the Klondike until 1899. Then he sold his claims and went to San Francisco. There he married and now has four children. He lost everything in the San Francisco disaster.

Western Maryland Road to Begin Mining Coal?

At a meeting of the directors of the Western Maryland railroad today Winslow S. Pierce, the president, and Fairfax S. Landstreet, vice president, resigned. B. S. Bush, who was president of the Western Mining and Coal company, at St. Louis, which had control of the mining property of the Missouri Pacific railroad, was chosen president, but the office of vice president was not filled.

In a statement given out after the directors' meeting the election of Mr. Bush was explained as follows:

"Mr. Bush has been prominently connected with the railway and coal interests of the Gould system in the west, and his election to the presidency of the Western Maryland road is in line with the previously announced plan of extending the Gould system in the east and the announced intention of the present management to retire. Mr. Pierce and Mr. Landstreet will retain their interest in the road and their membership on several boards and committees."

An official of the Western Maryland said tonight that the election of Mr. Bush means the Western Maryland now is ready to commence mining coal actively along its line.

Eighty-four Paintings Sold for $184,165.

A collection of paintings belonging to Judge Samuel L. Bronson of New Haven, Julius O. Frank of Milwaukee, and Theodore Marburg were sold this evening by the American Art association at Mendelssohn hall. The attendance was large and the bidding fairly brisk. Two of the highest prices of the evening were $25,000 paid by T. J. Blakeslee for Turner's "Battle of the Nile" and $20,000 was paid by Tooth & Sons for Alma Tadema's "Baths of Caracalla." More than forty of the canvases brought more than $1,000 each, and the total sum realized for the eighty-four pictures was $184,165.

Boy Killed by Collapse of Snowhouse.

John Meara, aged 14, was smothered to death and his brother, Benjamin, 12, was injured by the collapse of a snowhouse which they and their companions had built. When the mass of snow and ice fell the other boys gave the alarm and Fritz Griffith, the janitor, at 75 West Ninety-fourth street, and Policeman Craft of the West One Hundredth street station came to the rescue. They dug and kicked the snow away while the other boys cried their hardest urging them on. Craft finally uncovered a suffocated little body, bent in a heap by the weight of snow and ice. No doctor was needed to tell what had happened.

Rail Clerk Writes Prize Legal Brief.

Feirich, 416 West Jackson boulevard, who won the first prize of $50 offered by the American Law Review of St. Paul, Minn., for the best law brief written in a supposed case involving the statute of limitations, is a clerk in the Illinois Central railway offices and a senior in the Chicago-Kent College of Law. More than 3,000 briefs were submitted by students in the United States and Canada.

FEAR TO ASK SUNDAY REST

ACTORS OF CHURCH ALLIANCE FIND IDEA UNPOPULAR.

Blame Mayor Dunne and His Attitude for Raising an Almost Insurmountable Barrier to Purposes of the Organization—Meeting Poorly Attended and the Rev. William White Wilson Suggests Advisability of Giving Up Agitation.

The official and unofficial attitude of Mayor Dunne and his administration toward the observance of Sunday in Chicago was declared yesterday to be an almost insurmountable barrier to the work of the Actors' Church alliance in the city.

The alliance was formed five years ago with the avowed purpose of closing the Chicago theaters on Sunday to obtain for the actors a day of rest. At its regular meeting held in the afternoon at Music hall the organization seriously considered discontinuing its work or abandoning that part of its efforts which has to do with Sunday closing.

Dr. Wilson Discouraged.

"I am not going to mention any names," said the Rev. William White Wilson, president of the alliance, "but I am going to tell you the reason why we have so small an attendance of theatrical people this afternoon. It is the subject of our program.

"When we tried to secure a number of theatrical people to speak on the subject of closing the theaters on Sunday many of them said—to me and to others: 'It won't do to stand out against Sunday opening in Chicago, much as we may want it. Chicago is known over the country just now as a wide open town, and the man who comes out in advocacy of Sunday closing in Chicago is going to be unpopular.'

"That is what we have to contend with. It is not so in the eastern cities, but in Chicago the alliance has not attained a great degree of success, for the feeling and atmosphere have been unfavorable. I don't know what to say about the future of our organization—whether we had better go on with our agitation or not. It is certainly a discouraging situation."

Tells of Downtown Vice Centers.

At this point a woman in the rear of the hall arose.

"I am told on good authority," she said, "that the downtown district of Chicago is infested with disreputable vice centers, and that it is from these that the administration derives a large part of its revenue. What can we do when such a state of affairs as that exists?"

It was finally decided that the work of the alliance should be continued.

ONE NONUNION MAN FOUND; STRIKE AT GARY FOLLOWS.

Three Hundred Carpenters Quit Work Till the Man Is Discharged — City Teamsters to Ask Higher Wages.

The attitude which the unions propose to assume towards Gary, Ind., the steel city, was made apparent yesterday when the presence of one nonunion workingman caused a strike of 350 carpenters. The union men refused to return to their employment until the former was discharged. The Falkenau Construction company, which has the contract, complied with the demand, and the strikers went back two hours later.

It was announced that vigorous efforts will be made from this time on by the unions to surround Gary with a union wall. Within two weeks it is expected 2,000 cement workers and 1,000 bricklayers will begin work there, bringing the total number of laborers up to nearly 10,000. Local labor leaders assert that every one of these employés must carry a union card or a strike will result.

Demands for higher wages are being prepared by the coal teamsters, the truck drivers, tea and coffee drivers, cab drivers, and several other teamsters' unions, to be presented April 1 and May 1. The average increase asked is 10 per cent.

SHIPBUILDERS OFF TO FRISCO.

Strikers, Paid Off and Told They Are Wanted No More, Go to Put Up Houses.

Striking boilermakers in South Chicago practically were locked out by the Chicago Shipbuilding company yesterday. All the strikers were paid off and their brass checks taken away from them. Officials of the company told the strikers that they are no longer employés of the concern and that their services are not wanted. Nearly 200 of the strikers left for San Francisco. Martin Kriepps, business agent of the boilermakers' union, had received a telegram stating that hundreds of iron workers are needed in the California city.

Work in the shipyards is at a standstill.

The result of the strike vote which is being taken by 50,000 train employés on western railroads will be known soon in Chicago. It is believed many of the trainmen have voted in favor of a strike. Reports last night were that the Chicago and Alton employés were practically unanimous in favor of a strike unless their demands are granted.

COURT REPORTER MAY LOSE PROFITS

Senate Will Cut Price of Volumes to $1.50 if It Has a Chance.

TO AMEND OPTION BILL.

Upper House Likely to Pass Original Liquor Bill Instead of Brown Measure.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Senator Chafee will introduce a resolution in the senate next week ordering the appropriations committee of the upper house to report out two bills which were referred to it nearly a month ago. Up to date the committee has been sitting on them, Senator Gardner protesting that appropriation bills were consuming all the time of the committeemen and that they were unable to get around to the consideration of the measures which Mr. Chafee wants out for passage by the senate.

These bills have been passed by the house and will be passed by the senate if it can get possession of them again. They were introduced by Representative Provine and are designed to destroy the present monopoly enjoyed by Supreme Court Reporter Phillips and Callahan & Co. of Chicago, in the publication of the Supreme and Appellate court reports.

At present the lawyers of the state are paying $2.25 a volume for Supreme court reports and $2.50 for the Appellate court reports, a price far in excess of that charged in other states. Reports of the New York Courts of Appeals are sold for 68 cents a volume and the highest price in nearby states is $1.50. Illinois lawyers are heartily tired of paying excessive prices for the court reports and have been indicating their opinions to the members of the legislature. They were effective in the house, which passed the two bills with celerity and dispatch, but up to date the senate appropriations committee has blocked them.

Senate Committee Too Slow.

Mr. Gardner has informed both Senator Chafee and Mr. Provine that while he personally does not care much for the measures, they will get fair treatment when his committee can get its work done with important bills and finds an opportunity to take up the court report bills.

This statement fails to satisfy Mr. Chafee, who fears that the committee may have it in mind to hang on to the bills until too late to act on them. Hence his statement that he will introduce a resolution to order them out of the committee.

The bills were passed by the house on Feb. 19 and were reported to the senate and referred to the appropriations committee on Feb. 20. Since then numerous efforts have been made to have action taken on them, but without success.

Finally Mr. Gardner was asked to allow them to be recommitted to the committee on fees and salaries, but he declined to permit this.

The bills would fix the price of both Supreme and Appellate court reports at $1.50 a volume and provide that the publication shall be done by contract. Mr. Phillips, the Supreme court reporter, has a salary of $6,000 a year and makes a handsome amount in publishing the reports at $2.25 per volume. His political and family connections are with the federal organization in the state, and they give him a leverage on the legislature which has served him in previous sessions and has prevented the passage of bills similar to those proposed now.

Local Option Bill Fight.

Representative Lee O'Neill Brown and other supporters of the Brown local option bill, which has been substituted for the anti-saloon measure, are willing to have that "mongrel measure," as it is called by the Anti-Saloon league people, amended to take out one of its absurd features. This is the provision which allows all saloon licenses to continue in effect for their full term, even after the territory may have been voted anti-saloon territory. The effect of this would be to permit city and town councils to issue saloon licenses on the verge of a liquor election, and then, no matter what the result of the election, the saloons could run for the following year. Mr. Brown says it is not the purpose of his bill to permit this, and it is probable that the measure will be brought back to second reading for the purpose of amendment in this particular.

It is also probable that the bill will be passed by the house in spite of the fact that it has been condemned by the league and all advocates of the "orthodox" local option measure. Furthermore, it is quite probable that the senate will be exceedingly good and will pass the regular local option bill and throw the entire burden on the lower house, making it take entire responsibility for killing the bill which has been advocated so strenuously.

New Bills Introduced.

Although yesterday was the limit for introducing bills a number of new measures came in this morning, taking license from the fact that the speaker has permitted them to be handed to the clerk at any time yesterday for committee reference today.

Among these new measures was one by Representative Lantz to increase the license fee for vehicles in Chicago, the automobile license being raised to $15.

Representative Landmesser introduced a bill creating the position of inspectors of malt beverages to have supervision of breweries at a salary of $3,000 a year.

Representative Schermerhorn introduced a bill at the request of the Springfield Humane society to prevent the use of hobbles on trotting and pacing horses in races.

Representative Fieldstack introduced one to require steam and electric railroads to furnish public officials and the appointees, and employés free transportation from their homes to their places of employment.

With considerably less than a quorum in attendance the house spent an hour and a half advancing bills from first to second reading, among those thus advanced being the employers' liability bill.

OKLAHOMA CONSTITUTION DONE

Delegates to Convention Finish Work After 115 Days' Session—Newest State in "2 Cents a Mill" Class.

Guthrie, Okla., March 15.—[Special.]—After 115 days of work the constitutional convention adjourned today. The people of the proposed new state will vote on the constitution on Aug. 6.

The document is the only one of its kind prepared under modern conditions, and is considered a "model."

Under it women are prohibited from voting; negroes are allowed to ride with white passengers on railway trains and street cars; prohibition, for at least twenty-one years, is secured; railroads must carry passengers at 2 cents a mile, and are barred from owning coal lands, which are to be acquired and operated by the state; the issuance of "watered stocks" is prohibited; and corporations are restricted in the ownership of land to only so much as is required for their business.

The state is divided into seventy-five counties, twenty-one judicial, forty-one senatorial, and 105 legislative districts.

'BRAIN STORMS'; SEEKS ASYLUM

Cincinnati Contractor Wants to Be Committed Until Violent Desire to Kill Self Passes.

Cincinnati, O., March 15.—[Special.]—Fearing that mania, from which he suffered some years ago, is returning, and that he will harm himself, John Wilkymacky, a well to do contractor, today called at the Probate court and asked that he be taken care of until recurrence of his "brain storm" shall have passed away. He was accompanied by Dr. D. C. Handley, who swore to an affidavit in insanity. Wilkymacky readily agreed to go to the county jail until tomorrow, when he will be sent to Longview.

Trained Nurse Beheaded by Car.

Mrs. Harriet Roberts

Mrs. Harriet Roberts, 67 years old, a trained nurse in Chicago for twenty-four years, was killed by a street car at Archer and Hamilton avenues yesterday morning.

Friends, who say they witnessed the accident, informed relatives that the motorman was stooping down on his platform fixing something when the woman was struck. Her face was mangled beyond recognition. A wrecking crew was required to lift the car before the body could be extricated.

Mrs. Roberts was on the way to the residence of her only daughter, Mrs. John W. Dumias, 2202 Thirty-eighth place, from that of her granddaughter, Mrs. L. A. Beesley, 3622 Hamilton avenue. It was her intention to board the car that killed her. She waved her hand and crossed the tracks ahead of the car under the impression her signal was being heeded.

Seth Maffitt, 3549 Seeley avenue, motorman, and Alexander Innes, 3404 Oakley avenue, conductor, were in charge of the car. They hold themselves blameless.

Mrs. Roberts was the widow of Jacob Roberts. She was born at St. Mary, Canada. Her daughter and seven grandchildren survive her.

TO FIGHT TICKET GRAFT.

BOARD OF TRADE MEN OPPOSE EXTORTION BY THEATERS.

Many of Them Will Join Association to Be Organized Next Wednesday Night to Endeavor to Suppress Speculation in Cards of Admission to Playhouses—Henry E. Marble Makes Complaint Against Management of Powers'.

Members of the board of trade took a hand yesterday in the fight against the theater ticket speculating graft. J. H. Wheeler, 6 Sherman street, a member of the board, began an agitation among the brokers in the interest of the Anti-Theater Ticket Speculating association, which will be organized at the Sherman house next Wednesday evening.

Many members of the board signed their names to the membership list of the new organization and Mr. Wheeler is confident of getting at least 500 to sign the list before Monday night. When the lists have been filled out they will be sent to Master in Chancery J. V. O'Donnell, temporary president of the Anti-Theater Ticket Speculating association.

Call for Meeting Sent Out.

The following notice of the organization meeting was sent out during the day:

DUMA MEMBERS ESCAPE A HORROR

Ceiling of Hall in Taurida Palace Falls While Room Is Empty.

MANY RUMORS OF PLOT.

Parliament to Hold No More Sessions Till New Building Is Found.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 16.—The ceiling of the hall in Taurida palace, on which the lower house of the duma meets, fell at 6 o'clock this morning.

Fortunately only two watchmen were in the hall and they were in the gallery. Had the ceiling fell when the duma was in session it is believed few members of the left and center would have escaped death or serious injury.

The aggregate weight of the ceiling material was so great that in its fall it twisted the massive bronze electroliers in such a way as to indicate that a terrible catastrophe would have resulted had the fall occurred a few hours later, during the session of the house. The places occupied by the president and ministers were not touched.

Rumors of a Plot.

There are sensational rumors that the fall of the ceiling was due to a plot against the lives of the members of the lower house of parliament. It is pointed out that the greatest weight fell upon the places occupied by the most radical opponents of the autocracy when the duma is in session.

In spite of these rumors the general belief is that the matter was purely an accident. Investigation shows that the nails and other fastenings binding the ceiling to the rafters had not been replaced since the time of Catherine II., and broke under the extra weight of the new decorations.

Falls Thirty Feet.

The entire section of the plastering and lathing covering the center and left of the house and a small portion of the right fell to the floor, thirty feet below. A few heavy beams and timbers were affected, but the regular structure of the roof was not injured.

The members of parliament held a short session in the rotunda, and decided to postpone further sittings until the president of the house and the department of palaces and public buildings secure another hall. It is hoped that this will be done within a week.

JAPS DEFEAT AMERICAN ARMS?

Austrian Expert Thinks Unprotected Pacific Coast Offers Excellent Chance of Oriental Victory.

BERLIN, March 15.—Capt. Ignaz Rodic of the general staff of the Austrian-Hungarian army has published a pamphlet entitled "The Prospects of the Future American-Japanese War," in which, after discussing the armies and navies and theaters of the war, he concludes with saying that the unprotected Pacific coast of the United States offers excellent chances of the success of the Japanese.

He asserts that Japan is working feverishly to complete her military and naval equipments, adding that during the last few months 50,000 men have been at work day and night in the arsenals, turning out guns and small arms, and stating that the cartridge manufactories at Tokio and Nagoya, where in all about 20,000 men are employed, have turned out daily 500 rifles.

Finally, Capt. Rodic asserts that the projectile works at Tokio make 600 shells a day for the field artillery.

To Fat People--

A Safe, Sure and Quick Way to Get Rid of Surplus Flesh Without Drugs or Diet.

Trial Package of New Obesity Reducer Sent Free To Prove Its Power.

To reduce surplus flesh quickly, and without harm to the vital organs, has long been a serious problem. Most of the treatments commonly known as "anti-fats" destroy flesh by dangerously preventing the assimilation of food, while the new obesity treatment found by F. J. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., prevents all danger and on the contrary strengthens the patient by promoting proper assimilation of food.

This new Obesity Reducer produces muscle, bone, sinew, nerve and brain tissue, and yet it quickly reduces and eliminates from the body all surplus flesh in a natural, harmless way. The patient is left strong instead of weak, and normally in good trim instead of repulsive and fat.

A pound a day is the ordinary loss felt by those taking the treatment. It is taken at meal time and is put up in small cracker-like lozenges, very pleasant to the taste. The patient can go about his daily work as usual, and forget his affliction, for this Kellogg Obesity Reducer by past experience has shown itself to be a marvel in producing results. A remarkable thing about it is that it does not produce wrinkles after reduction takes place.

We earnestly suggest that every fat person, man or woman, abandon every other treatment, and send for a trial of this effective pleasant, strength-producing Obesity Reducer. Trial treatments are sent to all free of cost to prove its power. Simply mail this article, with your name and address on a slip of paper, to F. J. Kellogg, 28 Kellogg Bldg., Battle Creek, Mich., and by return mail you will receive a trial package in plain wrapper, absolutely free.

ADOPT HEIR TO $100,000

WIDOW MAKES FORMER PEDDLER BOY LEGALLY HER SON.

Pedro J. Teixeira, Who Ran Away from Home in Portugal Twenty Years Ago and Soon After Arriving in America Went to Work for the Late Mr. Hutchens, a Cigar Dealer at 3901 Indiana Avenue, Will Inherit Property Latter Left.

The story of how fortune smiled on a Portuguese peddler boy was related yesterday in the County court when Pedro J. Teixeira, 38 years of age, was adopted by Mrs. Jennie L. Hutchens, 3901 Indiana avenue, 61 years old.

Mrs. Hutchens said Pedro had lived at her home nearly twenty years, and since the death of her husband, three years ago, has conducted the wholesale and retail cigar business left by Mr. Hutchens.

"You understand that your legal adoption of Mr. Teixeira will make him your heir in case you die?" asked Judge W. L. Pond.

"Certainly," replied the woman, who appeared feeble. "I want him to have all my property. I haven't a near relative in the world. He has been a good son to me, and he should have my property."

"How much property have you?" the judge questioned.

Estate Worth More than $100,000.

"It would amount to more than $100,000," she said.

Judge Pond recommended that with so large an estate it would be wise for her to make out a will, designating Pedro as sole heir. Mrs. Hutchens said she would do this.

Pedro, by which name he is generally known in the vicinity where he lives, ran away from home among the hills of Portugal twenty years ago.

"When I crawled out of the hold of the steamer and made my first journey through the dismal quarters of New York city the dreams I had had about American liberty and the free country vanished," said Pedro yesterday. "I was without money, and started peddling cigars for a living. It didn't take me long to pick up the language, and I came west to Chicago.

Rents Room at Hutchens Home.

"I was here without home or friends. In looking for a lodging place I saw a sign, 'Rooms for Rent,' and rented a cheap room. That was at Mr. and Mrs. Hutchens' house. They immediately took an interest in me, and I got a job in Mr. Hutchens' cigar store. A few years ago I became a partner in the business."

Pedro's father is living in Portugal. His mother died a year and a half ago. He is unmarried.

LANT K. SALISBURY HELD; FRAUD IN TIMBER DEAL.

Former Grand Rapids Attorney and Others Accused by Stockholders of Hillsdale Lumber Company.

Charlotte, Mich., March 15.—[Special.]—Hiram P. Webster, an Eaton Rapids capitalist and director of the Hillsdale Lumber company, has caused the arrest of Lant K. Salisbury, the former Grand Rapids city attorney who served a term in prison for his part in the famous water scandal. Walter Salisbury, a brother; Frank L. Masters, head of a clothing concern of Hillsdale; and Will Wagner, cashier of the First National bank of Hillsdale, also are held, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in the promotion of the Hillsdale Lumber company.

Last October the Hillsdale Lumber company was formed with a capitalization of $75,000 and with Salisbury as its president. The company was represented to have 25,000 acres of timber land in northern Louisiana, having on it 100,000,000 feet of white oak and 30,000,000 feet of cypress. It was claimed that $37,000 had been paid for the property, and about $23,000 worth of stock was sold to Hillsdale and Hudson people, and the balance to local timber men.

Recently the stockholders sent a timber expert to Louisiana to get a report on the land. On his return he reported that the company had but 2,000,000 feet of oak and 30,000 of cypress, that the man of whom they bought the land had sold it to them for $12,500 instead of $37,000, and that he claimed it had sold once for $1,000, and wasn't worth more than $1,000.

POINTS TO ERROR IN SCHOOL PLAN.

Eastern Educator Urges Longer Term in Classroom as Children's Right.

WAGE OF WOMAN IS $7.56.

Miss Margaret Lee of University of Chicago Gives Result of Her Investigation.

"Our present school system, so far as 90 per cent of our children are concerned, stops at the threshold of seed time. We need something that will do away with our present false system of aristocracy, based on a hit or miss system of education."

This is what Robert A. Woods, an educator of experience and a member of the Massachusetts industrial committee, thinks of the public school of the United States, as expressed last night at the Chicago industrial exhibit at Brooke's casino.

"The thoughtful citizen wonders sometimes," he said, "why, in this democracy, the power of government is so seldom given into the hands of men trained and capable of governing. One great reason is that we carry nine-tenths of our children along to the point where efficiency begins to be possible and then call their education complete.

Wants Limit Sixteen Years.

"The program of the fight on the child labor industry, as well as the program of the fight for a rational system of education, demands that we shall provide a system of education—ultimately compulsory—which shall take the child up to the age of 16. Under present conditions 90 per cent of our children leave school at the end of the prevailing compulsory period, 14 years. Yet psychologists tell us these two wasted years are the most important for educational purposes.

"Too largely our school system still presupposes the home, the farm, and the shop as they were twenty years ago. These were to a large extent educational in the vocations. But these have passed away. The boy goes into a child's industry, works at it a few years, and then, finding himself in many cases unfitted for further work, he wanders into the ranks of the unskilled and the unemployed.

Give All Boys a Chance.

"When we, as a community, get enlightened, not to say humanized, we are going to see to it that no boy with special ability in any direction is cheated out of his opportunity to make the most of himself. We are beginning to see that a system which will fit boys and girls to take self-respecting places in industry is going to do the most for the citizenship of the United States. The idea of educating every boy on the theory that he may, and can, 'be president' has held sway long enough."

Protest on "Thriller" Talk.

A protest against the attitude of Dr. Rachel Yarros, who told the workers on Thursday that she "didn't blame working girls for reading penny thrillers and going to 5 cent theaters," was entered at the morning session by Miss Louise Montgomery, a social worker among the children at the John H. Hamline school.

"I made a visit recently," said Miss Montgomery, "to a number of the 5 cent theaters and penny arcades along Ashland avenue. I found that almost without exception the audiences consisted of young persons under 25 years of age. The vaudeville act which is usually a part of the program I found to be vulgar in the extreme. Many of the young men would get up and go out early in the performance. The girls usually stayed and giggled."

Reports on Working Girls.

Miss Margaret Lee of the University of Chicago, who conducted an inquiry into the expenditures of working women recently by sending out blanks asking for information, gave the results of her research. The average earning was found to be $7.56 a week. Of this $5.49 went for living expenses—lodging, board, lunches, car fare, and the like—and $2.07 for clothing, doctors' bills, recreation, and church contributions.

The exhibit has proved so successful that tentative plans have been made for continuing it during several days next week. It has been decided definitely to keep it open without admission charge on Sunday.

FOUR MONTHS' VIGIL CLEARS MYSTERY OF WISCONSIN HOME

Girl Mentally Unbalanced Responsible for Night Prowling, Breaking of Windows, and Maiming of Stock.

Kenosha, Wis., March 15.—[Special.]—The actions of a girl mentally unbalanced was discovered today to be the cause of a strange story in the town of Salem. For more than four months the home of Mrs. Katherine O'Neil, who is wealthy, has been the scene of unusual disturbances, and officials were baffled as to the cause. Windows in the house were broken and persons were seen peering into the windows at night. The tails of several cows were cut off and horses, sheep, and smaller animals on the farm were maimed.

Mrs. O'Neil in terror went to the district attorney for aid and for more than four months deputies were stationed at the house night and day. Wednesday night they found a girl who lived at the house and who was a near relative of Mrs. O'Neil turning the cattle out of the pasture.

The girl, it is declared, was to blame for all the mysterious happenings about the house. She had been at work for months and the first suspicion as to her actions was when she was found roaming about the farm at midnight. Mrs. O'Neil has notified the district attorney to drop the investigation.

Monahan gave bonds for his appearance this morning.

How to Choose a Sectional Bookcase

When you select a Sectional Bookcase don't let appearance alone govern your choice. Examine the vital parts, see how the door is controlled—note carefully how the end bands are secured. The door device on the Macey Sectional Bookcase consists of two cog wheels, one at each end of a shaft, on which the door is hung. When you retire the door, the cog wheels travel on parallel cog racks, which prevent absolutely one end advancing faster than the other—this insures a non-binding door. The end bands on a "Macey" Bookcase are attached to the body of the case—they can't pull off. These two improvements add years of life to the case.

GIVE UP DOUBLE PLATOON

CHIEF, MAYOR, AND FINANCE COMMITTEE TO END SYSTEM.

Recommendation to Be Made to Council That City Is Too Poor at Present—All in Favor of Extension of Plan, but Think $1,000,000 Expense Too Much—Patrolmen to Be Denied $200 a Year Increase—Only a Few Get Raise.

After seven months of experimenting the double platoon system in seven companies of the first battalion is to be abandoned. Such is the recommendation of the finance committee, to be submitted to the council Monday night in a report with the annual budget.

Aldermen on the committee all voted in favor of a general installation of the double platoon system whenever the city had enough money. It was figured that it would take $1,000,000 more revenue to install it all over the city. The committee also favored increases in salary asked by the firemen whenever the city, after the adoption of the new charter, had the money.

Mayor Dunne and Chief Horan of the fire department were before the committee when this decision was reached. Both approved it. So the double platoon idea in Chicago is dead for a long time. The mayor and chief will decide today when the system in the First battalion is to be abandoned.

No Raise for Patrolmen.

The committee also denied the request of patrolmen for a raise of $200 a year. It decided to add 500 patrolmen, twenty sergeants, and two lieutenants to the department.

"The committee," said Chairman Frank I. Bennett, "will formulate a report to the council setting forth its views on the two platoon proposition. That opinion is that, if the system could be installed in its entirety, and there was sufficient money to install it, it would be beneficial to the department. There was no negative vote on that proposition."

Mr. Bennett was asked if this meant that the two platoon experiment in the First battalion was to be abandoned. He said it did; that it never had been authorized by the finance committee.

All Done but School Board.

The committee has finished its budget with the exception of the school board and expects to have everything ready by Sunday night. It is the intention of the committee to work all Sunday.

Mr. Bennett said the committee had raised some salaries of city employes, but that the aggregate would not be large. Provision has been made for an expense of $450,000 as a preliminary to the erection of a new city hall.

Awards $500,000 Paving Contracts.

Contracts amounting to more than $500,000 for the paving of twenty-four streets and four alleys were awarded by the board of local improvements. A majority were for small amounts, varying from $1,000 to $10,000.

The appointment of Harry P. Dolan to fill a vacancy in the corporation counsel's office was announced by E. Hamilton Lewis. The appointment was made at the suggestion of Mayor Dunne. Attorney Dolan was assigned to aid Assistant Corporation Counsel Frank Childs in preparing briefs for the theater cases before the supreme court. Col. Lewis also announced the appointment of Julius Jaffe as assistant city prosecutor to take the place of David Alexander.

MINERS AND OPERATORS COMPLAIN OF RAILROADS.

John Mitchell and Big Delegation Lay Grievances Before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—As the result of an important conference today between interstate commerce commissioners and representatives of the coal operators and miners in southern Indiana and Illinois, headed by John Mitchell, formal complaint will be filed with the commission looking to prosecution of officials of the coal carrying roads in these states for violation of the anti-trust law.

The coal carrying railroads operating between southern Indiana and southern Illinois points and Chicago and the northwest have announced an advance of about 10 cents per ton will be made in the freight rates on coal.

The operators are under contract to supply coal at a stipulated price, out of which they have to pay the freight charges. If the increase of 10 cents a ton should go into effect during the life of the contracts the operators say they would be forced either to lose money themselves or reduce the wages of the miners.

The operators say the increase in freight rates has been made to apply to coal from all mines except along the lines of the Big Four railroad, where the increase is but 5 cents per ton. This the operators allege results in discrimination.

Ten square miles were inundated. The loss in actual dollars will probably never be known, but an estimate thus far in Allegheny county may be summarized in the following table:

Loss in output of steel mills	$3,000,000
Loss in output of other industries	2,000,000
Loss in wages of employes	1,837,000
Estimated damage to industrial plants	2,500,000
Total	$9,337,000

Street Cars Are Running.

By night the approaches to the bridges were clear of water and several hours later street car service in the flood district was resumed. The telegraph, telephone, and electric light service have been resumed.

There were a number of fires during the day. A plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company was destroyed, at a loss of $25,000. Four business houses and fifteen residences in the Mount Washington district, across the Monongahela, were destroyed, the loss reaching $200,000.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Flooded.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 15.—[Special.]—This city is fast receiving the full force of the flood descending from Pittsburg. The flood will not reach its crest until noon tomorrow, when it is likely to rise to the fifty-one foot stage.

The city is in darkness tonight, the electric light and gas plants being submerged.

Street car traffic is practically at a standstill.

No railroad trains are running in or out of the city.

Thousands of persons are homeless, and will have to be fed.

The county and city jails are under water.

Four persons were drowned late last night in an effort to escape from their tottering home at Riverside to a place of safety.

Wheeling, W. Va., Cut Off.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 15.—This city is completely cut off from the world by rail and steamer. Every foot of Wheeling island is submerged and 7,000 residents have been driven to upper floors. It is estimated 5,000 homes are flooded, affecting 25,000 people. The property loss will reach half a million dollars.

One fatality is reported.

All newspapers have temporarily suspended publication because the plants have been submerged. The city is in darkness because the electric light plant is submerged.

At Bridgeport, O., opposite Wheeling, the fire destroyed the Scott Lumber company plant, involving a loss of about $100,000. The fire spread to a number of nearby houses, and $50,000 was added to the total loss.

The Warwick pottery in South Wheeling was destroyed by a gas explosion.

Deaths in Ohio Towns.

Columbus, O., March 15.—According to an estimate made by S. C. Robinson, who came to Columbus today after a trip through the flood regions, the damage done by the flood will reach $500,000. Twelve persons were drowned at Athens, three at Nelsonville, two at Chillicothe, and ten at Mingo.

At Marietta 5,000 persons have been driven from their homes.

In Glouster five store buildings were carried away. The water was within eighteen inches of the ceilings of the hotels. In one the guests had not time to escape. They climbed out on the roof and were rescued in boats.

18 HOUR TRAIN IS A 27.

GETS INTO CHICAGO NINE HOURS LATE—FLOOD DELAYS IT.

Towns in Central Ohio and Indiana See Unusual Spectacle—Troubles Begin East of Pittsburg—Then the Deluge Compels It to Take Panhandle Tracks—Thirty-four Passengers Each Gets a Rebate of $5 for Delay.

Thirty-four passengers on the Pennsylvania railroad company's eighteen hour train reached Chicago nine hours late yesterday after varied experiences, including a rebate of $5 each from the railroad company for its inability to make its schedule.

The train due at 8:55 a. m. reached Chicago at 5:55 p. m. It came over the Panhandle route from Pittsburg, and caused some excitement through central Ohio and Indiana. There are no eighteen hour flyers in that section of the country, and there was a crowd at every station to see the train go through.

Trouble East of Pittsburg.

The troubles of the flyer began sixty miles east of Pittsburg, where a freight wreck was encountered. The train, which had been spinning along at an average speed of fifty-two miles an hour, and touching eighty and ninety, began to move along a few miles at a time, with the result that for twenty-five miles there was left behind a torchlight procession of blazing fusees, accompanied by torpedoes, the measures of safety taken to prevent a rear end collision.

The train reached Pittsburg in the midst of the rising waters. When ten miles west of Pittsburg it began running through water eighteen inches deep. Ahead was a stretch of five miles of still deeper water, and it appeared the train was going to be floated away, for the water was rising rapidly. In a few minutes a second engine had been called for, the train was pulled back to Pittsburg through twenty-five inches of water.

Over the Panhandle.

At 4:30 in the morning, instead of 11:40 the night before, the train started west over the Panhandle route. At Steubenville, O., the flood of waters was unprecedented. Two story houses were flooded to the second story, while small cottages showed nothing above the water but chimneys. At Dennison the Tuscarawas river, usually thirty-five yards wide, was more than two miles wide. Houses appeared in the distance standing on islands of dry land. Others were partly submerged, with here and there boats plying about them.

The flyer crept along over the safe track practically on a schedule of its own, disturbing freight traffic along the entire route. On the last stretch of track a speed of ninety-two miles an hour was made, but the trip was made in twenty-seven hours instead of eighteen.

Chaos at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—[Special.]—"Chaos" is the only word which describes the railroad situation in the Pittsburg district caused by the floods.

All trains are hours behind time. No effort is made to follow passenger schedules. Freight traffic is at a standstill.

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad company has completely suspended operations on its line to Youngstown and between Pittsburg and Brownsville. For a time this road used a portion of the Panhandle to McKee's Rock, but it was necessary to discontinue all service, as the tracks were covered with several feet of water.

Other Lines Tied Up.

The Erie and Pittsburg, the Cleveland and Pittsburg, and the Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis, or Panhandle, divisions were similarly tied up. The Monongahela and the Allegheny divisions of the Pennsylvania railroad, running south and north, were also tied up, leaving the only outlet from the city on this road the main line, which continued in operation to the eastward.

On the Baltimore and Ohio through trains for the east are being sent over the Pittsburg Junction railroad and over the Pennsylvania to Everson, Pa., then over the Mount Pleasant branch of the Baltimore and Ohio to Connellsville. The Allegheny station has been out of commission two days. Service was discontinued over the Pittsburg and Western division this morning. Trains are being sent over the Bessemer and Lake Erie to Butler and then over the Baltimore and Ohio to Chicago.

PRIZES TO PLAIN DISHES.

DROP BISCUITS AND RICE PUDDING WIN AWARDS.

Exhibits in Ordinary Tins Take Precedence, Because of Excellence, Over Hundreds of Fancy Concoctions Displayed at Annual Culinary Show—Names of Champion Cooks Suppressed for Fear Housewives Will Begin Bidding for Services.

Of 800 staple and fancy dishes on display at the annual cooking exhibit of the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences in the Heyworth building Thursday afternoon a plain looking pan of drop biscuits and a rice pudding baked and exhibited in a tin pan were the "most wonderful creations," according to Mrs. Lynden Evans, superintendent of the school.

The biscuits, made by Katie Hermann, won the prize in one class of the bread exhibit. The pudding was a prize winner in the dessert class, and was cooked by Lizzie Wood.

"Their virtue was in their quality, and not show, for show does not count," said Mrs. Evans. "The minute the judges tasted that rice pudding they marked it almost perfect. The test of the cooking—you've probably heard that old saying.

Champion Cooks Keep Secrets.

"The exhibit developed a good many interesting facts relative to cooks and their art. We discovered that the champion cooks of Chicago maintain as much secrecy about the magic of their art as the sleight of hand performer or any magician. We intended to profit by the prize winners telling us by what recipes they prepared their famous dishes. But scarcely one of them would tell."

Mrs. Evans said the success of the exhibit surpassed the greatest expectations. The attendance was estimated at 2,000. The school now has one teacher, Miss Grace Fryslinger, working in the settlements. Proceeds of the exhibit will enable the school to employ more settlement instructors.

Names of Winners Suppressed.

The feature of the annual exhibit of giving prizes to servants in Chicago families for long service seems to be doomed. The report was abroad in "cookery circles" that the reason families in which the cooks of long standing refused to permit either the family name or street address to be connected with that of the cook was for fear the reputation thus gained by the cook would influence other families to endeavor to hire the medal winning cook.

"We were under oath not to tell where the cooks who won long service medals live or names of the families, most of them prominent," said Mrs. Evans.

It was even hinted by some not connected with the show that the prize cooks had been entered under assumed names. At any rate the names of none of the first three winners appears in the directory. They were Barbara Bertha Ritter, 45 years' service; Fredrika Fease, 30 years'; Christine Larson, 23 years'.

A year ago Nellie Finnen, first cook for the family of John Mason Loomis, 55 Lake Shore drive, won a prize for having been with the family twenty-eight years.

"Yes, I have had a number of offers to go to other families at higher wages, but I don't care how much they'd offer, I'd never leave Mrs. Loomis," said Mrs. Finnen.

Refuse Offers of More Pay.

Mrs. Henry Brown, 206 Ashland boulevard, has two cooks, Mary Rand and Mary O'Donnell, both of whom won long service prizes a year ago, the former having been with the family twenty-five years.

"After they won those prizes they received many offers to go to other families at larger wages than I could pay them," said Mrs. Brown. "But when it came to a question of leaving they said they would stay with me forever and would not entertain the offers."

Johanna Wren, who won first prize a year ago for having been in the K. E. Morgan family, 104 Astor street, thirty-six years, two weeks ago was compelled to leave the service. Mrs. Morgan sent her to a sanitarium and expects her to recover sufficiently to return. Mrs. Wren is more than 60 years old.

SAYS WIFE IS A PRISONER; HYPNOTIZED BY HUSBAND.

Lawyer N. A. Beck, Armed with Writ of Habeas Corpus, Seeks Mrs. Theodore S. Taber to Release Her.

Martha M. F. Taber, 21 years old, is said to be held prisoner through hypnotic influence by her husband, Theodore S. Taber, 50 years old, while Attorney N. A. Beck and a deputy sheriff are seeking her with a writ of habeas corpus issued yesterday by Judge Dupuy of the Superior court.

Mrs. Taber was formerly employed as a stenographer by Attorney Beck. A year ago she was married and five months later she applied for a divorce. Since then she has been supporting herself working as a stenographer.

Attorney Beck, who obtained the writ, said that when the girl married Taber she believed his assertions that he was a wealthy man. After the marriage, the attorney said, the girl learned that her supposed wealthy husband had but 15 cents. Yesterday Beck received a telephone call from the young woman. She said that she was being held prisoner in a building at 70 La Salle street. Beck went to the building and found the woman in a corridor with her husband. The attorney held the husband while the woman ran down the stairs. The husband broke away, again caught his wife, and they disappeared.

TWO GUILTY OF AIDING THEFTS.

Samuel Epstein and Louis Lipschitz Convicted of Complicity in Disposing of Stolen Goods.

Samuel Epstein and Louis Lipschitz, second hand dealers, were convicted in Judge Kavanagh's court yesterday on charges of having received stolen property. Behind the prosecution is a story of thefts of thousands of dollars. This is their second trial, both having been convicted more than a year ago, but receiving new trials from Judge McEwen. Epstein's place is at 233 North Clark street, and Lipschitz has a store at 88 North Clark street.

In 1904 a gang of thieves operated in Chicago, and made a specialty of robbing furniture establishments. Wagon loads were hauled away at a time. A search of second hand stores resulted in the discovery of an alleged wholesale burglary compact.

According to Prosecutor Robert Turney the existence of a gang of thieves was found as well as a clearing house for the disposal of their spoils. The clearing house was found at 611 Canal street, conducted by David Eisen and Manny Finkelstein. Epstein and Lipschitz were found to have handled part of the booty.

URGES GIRLS' TRADE SCHOOLS.

Mrs. Mary Schenck Woolman of New York Talks Before Juvenile Court Committee.

"Girls cannot live on $3 a week and keep beyond temptation; they must be taught trades in which their earning capacity will be greater," was the keynote of an address by Mrs. Mary Schenck Woolman of the Manhattan Trades School for Girls, New York City, yesterday afternoon before the Juvenile court committee at Bowen hall, Hull house.

Mrs. Woolman explained the methods of instruction, the employment of competent teachers, and pointed out that the establishment of such schools would decrease the work of the juvenile courts. She explained how the health of the pupils was looked after, and asserted that her pupils found the work more interesting than the duties imposed in the public schools. To prove the interest aroused she stated that the working girls of New York last year donated $3,000 in pennies in order that those just beginning to face the proposition of earning capacity might follow others in the $15 and $20 weekly positions made possible through the training.

SEVEN CASES OF SMALLPOX TRACED TO RAIL EMPLOYES.

Contagion Causes Health Department to Enforce Vaccination on Nearly 200 Rock Island Clerks.

Seven cases of smallpox were traced to employés of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company yesterday by officials of the health department. Dr. Heman Spalding, head of the contagious disease department, sent inspectors to the company's offices, La Salle and Van Buren streets, and required nearly 200 of the employés to submit to vaccination.

The contagion was discovered when the case of Mrs. E. H. Stuart, 8817 Honoré street, was reported. Mrs. Stuart declared she had contracted the disease from Edward Stenbon, a clerk in the Rock Island offices, who had been sick at 831 West Ninetieth street. Stenbon was found at work in the La Salle street station. He was removed to the isolation hospital. Dr. Spalding learned that another clerk, Frank Moloney, 3977 Drexel boulevard, was absent because of illness. He was found to be suffering from smallpox.

Upon his return to the health department, Dr. Spalding was notified that another case had been found at 4759 Fifth avenue. It was found that a family, consisting of Mrs. Emma Kahm, colored, and her two children, Robert, 17 months old, and Lizzie, 4 years old, were afflicted. They were taken to the isolation hospital. Mrs. Kahm said she contracted the disease from her husband, a porter in the Rock Island service. It was learned that Kahm had left on a trip and would not return until today. It was also learned that another porter, J. L. Patton, had failed to report for duty and he was found at his house, 4820 Armour avenue, in the first stage of smallpox.

Dr. Spalding said that Kahm would be taken into custody upon his return to Chicago and that every person with whom he had come in contact would be required to submit to vaccination.

JOHN R. WALSH MUST PLEAD TO 160 OF THE 182 COUNTS.

Judge A. B. Anderson Sustains Demurrer to 22 and Sets Next Thursday for Further Proceedings.

John R. Walsh, president of the defunct Chicago National bank, must plead guilty or not guilty to 160 of the 182 counts in the indictment charging him with the misapplication of the bank funds. United States Judge A. B. Anderson of Indianapolis, sitting for Judge Landis in this case, yesterday sustained the demurrer made by the former banker's attorneys as to twenty-two of the counts, but held the others valid.

An adjournment was taken until next Thursday, when arguments of the opposing counsel will be heard as to whether District Attorney E. W. Sims shall be compelled to furnish the defense with a bill of particulars.

In the indictment the alleged misapplication of funds—ten specific charges—is stated in from five to seven different ways, each series being given an alphabetical name to distinguish it from the others. It was the so-called "D" counts which were found invalid, but this leaves the government with six other counts, each covering the same array of facts.

The counts thrown out have to do with the transferring of credit on the bank books from the account of John R. Walsh to that of the railroads in which he was interested. It was held by Judge Anderson that, under a decision of the Supreme court, it was necessary before any criminality could be shown that the moneys must have been actually transferred.

Following the adjournment of court District Attorney Sims said:

"The defense, of course, takes some comfort in having secured the rejectment of twenty-two of the counts, but with 160 left on any one of which to make its proof, the government certainly has no occasion to look down in the mouth. Conviction on one means a minimum punishment of five years in the penitentiary."

DIAMOND SETTER MISSING; CARRIED JEWELS AND CASH.

Barney Landsman Suddenly Disappears—Recently Became Member of the Firm of Beladon Brothers.

Barney Landsman, a diamond setter, living at 136 Fowler street, told his partner Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock that he would be in his office in the Champlain building in half an hour. Then he disappeared. The police and his relatives have conducted a systematic search, but no trace of the missing man has been found. His wife says Landsman wore jewelry valued at $1,000, had several diamonds worth nearly $1,000 more, and also had a large sum of money with him when he left home Tuesday morning.

Landsman was admitted recently as a member of the firm of Beladon Bros., manufacturing jewelers, and, as far as has been learned, he was last seen by C. L. Beladon Tuesday morning, in the store of B. Halprin, 861 Milwaukee avenue. Only a short time before he had given his wife $100 and told her to find them a new flat. He gave her a cut glass water pitcher and several small pieces of jewelry Monday evening.

He is 24 years old, and has been married four years. The couple were apparently happy, according to neighbors. At the offices of Beladon Bros. it was stated that Landsman handled no funds of the concern, but the firm was indebted to him to the amount of $125.

TRADE KEEPS UP ACTIVITY

CONFIDENCE IN OUTLOOK IS UNIMPAIRED BY WALL STREET.

New Wage Scales Indicate Advancing Cost of Labor—Marketing of Farm Products Is Heavy, Making Wider Circulation of Money—Transportation Earnings, Dun & Co. Report, Exceed the Record Made by Chicago Roads a Year Ago.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

"Commercial conditions reflect sustained strength and further progress appears in the expansion of activity which usually marks the approach of spring. Wall street's troubles have not impaired confidence in the industrial outlook, and, in view of the enormous store of wheat yet to be converted into cash, the effect of damage to fields in the southwest is accorded only passing interest.

"New wage scales indicate that labor cost keeps advancing, but, apart from a strike which interrupts ship building, satisfactory agreements are reached, assuring peace throughout this year. Marketing of farm products again is notably heavy, and this makes a wider circulation of money, while the offerings of freight are the greatest ever known and transportation earnings steadily exceed the record made by Chicago roads a year ago.

"Outside buyers throng the wholesale lines in unprecedented number, and the bookings surpass those at this time last year in the principal staples.

Board of Trade Transactions.

"Board of trade transactions make a satisfactory showing in the primary foodstuffs, although sales of flour for export lag and prices made a moderate but seasonable decline in the principal grains.

"Bank clearings, $249,637,316, exceed those of the same week in 1906 by 23.2 per cent.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district numbered 25, against 19 last week and 29 a year ago."

New York, March 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Spring trade is making a most satisfactory comparison with the volume at this time last year, and mercantile collections improve steadily despite the high money market. Leading industries have orders covering production well into the future, especially cotton factories and steel mills, while the output of pig iron when the month opened was close to the largest on record.

"Textile mills are producing at a remarkable rate without threatening any accumulation of stocks. Advanced prices for cotton goods have not checked demands. In this division the statistical position is beyond precedent, mills being sold ahead for many months."

As Seen by Bradstreet's.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Spring business has further expanded, jobbing operations being maintained at a volume equal to or exceeding last year, while retail trade has felt the stimulus of the approach of Easter and the appearance of spring like weather. Increased complaints as to short stocks in some lines, notably dry goods, come from many points, and slow delivery are still complained of. Industry is active except where, as in the flooded sections of the Ohio valley, mill operations are restricted. While business is large, there is claimed to be no tendency to purchase beyond legitimate requirements, and the prospects favor active demand and a large turn over."

Clearings for the Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending March 14 shows an aggregate of $3,252,220,000, against $3,451,792,000 last week and $2,759,321,000 the corresponding week last year. Canadian clearings for the week total $77,904,000, as against $79,661,000 last week and $65,582,000 in the same week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

ANOTHER SIDE OF INDUSTRY.

A not unnatural objection, perhaps not vehement enough to be styled a protest, has been raised against the industrial exhibit by various manufacturers and representatives of the manufacturing interests. They claim that while it may be useful and instructive to portray for the education of the public the dark scenes of certain phases of labor it is scarcely fair to manufacturers to exhibit only one side of the question. It is possible that a visitor might gather from inspection of the represented sweat shops, with their depressing surroundings, the impression that this is a general type, that all clothing is made in sweat shops, and that there is nothing in prospect for the toiler save squalor and wretchedness and the direst poverty.

Hence, it has been suggested that another exhibition shall be given in which the brighter side of the picture shall appear; that this exhibition shall represent the worker as he more generally is, a toiler, with sanitary surroundings, wholesome conditions, and everything to speak encouragement for his progress and occupation. This should be a greater industrial show, participated in both by the manufacturer and the uplifter, the business man and the sociologist, with no purpose other than to represent all the conditions and to offer a picture that will be a fair portrayal of labor conditions. Such an exhibition would not lead to one sided conclusions and would not give the unfamiliar public a wrong impression of the general state of labor by picturing simply the gloomiest and most hopeless phase.

Furthermore, this greater exhibition which is both practicable and desirable, would show not only what has been and is being accomplished, but what may be accomplished for the betterment of the condition of sweatshop workers. While exhibiting the wrong methods on the one hand, it would set forth the improvements on the other, and demonstrate more clearly the progress in uplifting that the country has already made. By contrasting the unfortunates directly with the more prosperous the public would be enabled to be fair and accurate in its estimate of conditions and be guided to a better understanding of what must be done. Emotional sympathy is an excellent thing in its way and place, but it should not be permitted to supplant entirely an intelligent understanding of the problems presented and their rational solution.

POPULARIZING THE CANAL.

The familiar phrase, "seeing is believing," is well illustrated by the enthusiastic expressions of the Chicago business men who have just returned from the Panama canal zone. They are no longer dependent on second hand information for their knowledge of conditions in that region. They have seen for themselves and have been convinced. So far as they are concerned the completion of the canal is nothing but a matter of a few years' time. It is not necessary to consider their statements from the point of view of the engineer to note their value. Their testimony will have influence within the circle of their acquaintance in popularizing the great project which the government of the United States has undertaken. People listen to the man who says "I know what I am talking about, for I have seen it with my own eyes." Even where the speaker is known to have no technical knowledge which enables him to measure the engineering difficulties and to calculate the chances of annoying delays there is a good deal of advantage to the project as a popular one to have the enthusiastic approval of people of influence in various parts of the country.

A statement of the president about the canal will have more weight with thousands of Americans because they know that he has been on the ground himself and has at least a general knowledge of conditions. The same value attaches to the junkets of congressmen who are seeking the evidence of the eyes to support their interest in the measures which they are called upon to consider in connection with a great public enterprise. The trip of seventy congressmen to the isthmus is a vacation pleasure, but the sightseeing has a peculiar importance beyond the mere gratification of curiosity. It means a wider vision and a more intelligent apprehension of what must be done to secure final success.

The difficulties of the past connected with all plans for the joining of the two oceans served for a long time to make people hesitant to believe it was more than a splendid dream. People had unbounded faith in the power of the United States to achieve results, but the end was believed to be far in the future. Such testimony as has been given the country during the last few months is bound to make the average citizen much more sanguine of the early completion of the canal. That means an increasing enthusiasm and pride in American achievement as the day of realization of the world's long dream approaches.

A MAYOR'S DUTIES.

A mayor is an executive, an administrative officer. He is the head of a municipal corporation which has certain plain business matters to look after. It is the duty of the mayor to see that they are properly attended to. When he is a capable administrator the money appropriated for the different departments will be so handled that the city will get a dollar's worth of good materials and competent labor for every dollar expended.

This is the kind of mayor Chicago needs but has seldom had. The voters have usually lost sight of the need of executive capacity in a mayor. They made that mistake two years ago when they elected a man who had been for many years on the bench where that kind of ability is not often required or acquired. They did not give a thought to the important business matters which should claim most of a mayor's time and elected Judge Dunne because he said he would settle the traction question. That was a promise which he has failed to keep.

There would be no excuse for the voters if they were to fail to put in office this year a man who has the administrative ability, without which efficient municipal government is impossible. Of the two leading candidates one has been on trial for two years and has been a melancholy failure. There is no reason to anticipate an improvement. The second year of the Dunne administration was worse than the first. Intelligent employers are not in the habit of giving another trial to incompetent servants. Intelligent citizens will not keep incompetent officials in office.

Mr. Busse is strong where Mayor Dunne is weak. He does not know so much about fads and follies as his opponent, but he has administrative ability. He has proved it in the successful management of his private business and in his management of the affairs of the great Chicago postoffice. It took him only a short time to familiarize himself with the duties of the office. Then he proceeded to improve the rural postal service. If he were mayor he would be as alert and aggressive as he has been in the postoffice. He would call on every man on the pay rolls to do his duty and would see that he did it. The first business of the city employés at present is to serve the mayor. Under Busse they would learn that their first duty is to serve the public.

The voters can settle the traction question themselves if they choose. It is not necessary to elect a mayor to settle it. The voters can choose a mayor with exclusive reference to his ability to perform the useful, homely duties of his office—to maintain order, make employés do the work they are paid to do, plan and carry out needed public improvements, and promote the health and comfort of his fellow citizens. If they want such a mayor they can get him by voting for Fred A. Busse.

THE PUBLIC BATHHOUSE.

Among the provisions of the will of Mrs. Durand which are designed for the improvement of the conditions of life in the parts of the city where workingmen have their homes, none is more important than that which sets aside $75,000 for the construction of a public bath. With a lake front of many miles the facilities for bathing are poor in Chicago. That more facilities would be appreciated is shown by the records of the patronage of the bathhouses already established.

As an illustration the swimming pools and shower baths under the control of the south park board may be cited. The annual report of that body for 1906 shows that during the months of June, July, August, and September last summer more than 727,000 were registered as attendants, a swimming beach on Lake Michigan attracting an additional 87,000. Of the total number 625,000 were men and 140,000 women. The largest patronage was in August, when 315,000 attended.

The shower baths, too, were popular, the record of the use of these being kept for twelve months. The total of patrons is given at more than 800,000, of whom 250,000 were women. Here again August was the favorite month. Making all due allowance for duplication it is evident that the establishment of the baths in connection with the park systems has been a popular movement, meeting a real need and welcomed in the best possible manner—namely, that of use.

It is shown, also, that the residents near the parks have formed the habit of taking regular baths at given intervals throughout the year. The importance of the baths has been urged by the gymnasium instructors as both a hygienic and athletic necessity, and the interest has not been a mere incident of the warm days of midsummer. The capacity of the pools and showers is inadequate to the demands of would-be users, so that there is plenty of room for such a thoroughly equipped building as can be secured with the Durand bequest.

THE STORM SUBSIDES.

The violence of the Wall street fever has abated and the patient is feeling better. It was a purely local disturbance. While Wall street was delirious the rest of the country was cool. Merchants and manufacturers, farmers and artisans went on with their regular, useful work undisturbed by the shouts of the brokers or the clicking of the tickers. The bears won "a famous victory," but the community is unconcerned. It has no applause for the winners and no sympathy for the losers.

The really important consequence of the so-called panic is that many stocks have been brought within reach of the conservative investor who is now picking them up. Much has been said of late by the great operators in stocks of the unwillingness of the general public to enter the market. That unwillingness need not be ascribed to fears of the solvency of railroad and industrial corporations. The simpler explanation is that securities had been forced up to too high a point. The great "shrinkage of values" of this week is generally speaking a shrinkage of fictitious rather than of real values. No harm is done to the community when prices are brought down to a proper level.

It has not been proved that anti-railroad legislation or the prosecution of railroad and other corporations for violation of the anti-trust law was the prime cause of the Wall street commotion. That is the view of the case which capitalists who are controlling the railroads would like to have the public take. It is more likely to be true that these capitalists needed money and could get it only by selling stocks. They no longer have the funds of life insurance companies to help them in their undertakings. The banks had to make heavy payments for various purposes before the week's end and had to call in old loans instead of making new ones. The capitalists would have been pleased if they could have sold their securities at inflated prices, but there were no purchasers. So they sold for something near the actual value. The sufferers this week were the capitalists, not the "lambs." The capitalists, according to all accounts, have stood their losses remarkably well. The general public having lost nothing will soon forget this week's Wall street sensation.

THE APPEAL TO CONGRESS.

The chief of engineers of the army refused to agree to the Calumet project of the sanitary district trustees. The secretary of war could not overrule that decision, even if he had wished to do so, but he mentions in his letter where it may be overruled. He says it is maintained on one hand that the diversion of the Calumet is essential to the healthful sanitation of Chicago, and that the threatened danger to navigation is infinitesimal, while on the other side it is contended that lake navigation will be seriously injured. "Between two such great interests," says the secretary, "the decision must be affected more or less by large public policy and expediency, and it may be fortunate that circumstances now require submission of this question to congress."

Chicago must go before congress to ask for a little water from the abundance of Lake Michigan to preserve the health of its people. It ought not to be necessary to make the request. The city should be free to draw all the water it needs from the great lake it fronts on. As the case stands, it will have to go to congress and plead that "large public policy" requires that more consideration should be given to the life and health of over 2,000,000 people than to the imaginary fears of persons interested in the navigation of the lower lakes.

The Illinois congressmen, and particularly those from Cook county, have their work in the next session cut out for them. When congress convenes in December a bill will be introduced to authorize the Calumet diversion. The representatives of this state in house and senate will be expected to concentrate their efforts on getting it passed, so that the sewage of the Calumet country may be turned into the drainage channel instead of flowing into the lake to poison Chicago drinking water. "Large public policy" demands that the poisoning be stopped.

SECRETARY TAFT should come to Chicago and take a good look at the Calumet river. Probably he overestimates the size of it.

PUGILIST NELSON would not care so much about that change in the name of his home town if "Burnham" were even a free translation of "Hegewisch."

THE purely local character of the Wall street panic is apparent from the fact that it hasn't caused Uncle Adlai Stevenson to see anything unusual in the near future.

AMONG those present and testifying in the Thaw case there was also Abe Hummel.

"MID HILLS OF OLD VIRGINIA."

To a woodland clear and cool,
Came a youth one autumn day,
To mingle with acquaintance gathered there;
'Neath a spreading beech tree's shade,
Caught smiles from a winsome maid,
That day she was the fairest of the fair.
'Mid hills of 'Old Virginia,'
On a moonlight winter's night,
In the lengthening shadows of the pines,
Took her hand in his and said,
"When I come again we'll wed,"
Each other then in fond embrace entwines.

Just a tear-drop in each eye,
Their farewell words a sigh of strange unrest;
As he stepped aboard the train,
Soon was speeding back again,
To childhood scenes away out in the west.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

EDWARD DOUGLAS PENNANT, by the death of his father, succeeds not only to the title of Lord Penrhyn but likewise to the Bethesda slate quarries, which are known to be the largest and richest in the world, yielding him enormous revenues, which will render him, like his father before him, one of the richest members of the British peerage. Penrhyn castle, his principal country seat, near Bangor, is probably the grandest mansion in the north of Wales. It is in part a modern building and partly of ancient construction, the fine keep resembling that of Rochester castle, dating back to the time of the Normans and once the home of Piers Cryffydd, one of the national heroes of Wales. It commands superb views in the direction of Mount Snowdon and of the Menai straits, and all the newer portion is built of Mona marble, which assumes a black tint when polished. The park, which is seven miles in circumference, is surrounded by a lofty slate fence.

But the most remarkable feature of the place is the celebrated "Hirlas," a historic relic in the shape of a large buffalo horn of great antiquity and ornamented with chased silver. Filled with wine, it must be drained by illustrious guests on their arrival at the castle, and, if not held correctly, is apt to spill its entire contents down the neck of the drinker. It is the same horn that is referred to by the poet Hemans in the stirring line: "Fill high the bloom Hirlas that shines like the wave."

While the Penrhyn peerage is of modern origin, having been created by Queen Victoria in 1866, yet the ancestry of the late and the present Lord Penrhyn is of the most blue blooded description. For the first Lord Penrhyn was a younger brother of the eighteenth earl of Morton—that is to say, he was a scion of the historic Scottish house of Douglas, the name of which he abandoned for that of his wife when he married the eldest child and principal heiress of George Pennant of Penrhyn castle, descended from Tudor Trevor, founder of the tribe of the Marches. The present Lord Penrhyn is married to a sister of Lord Southampton—that is to say, to a lady who is descended from King Charles II. and his favorite, Barbara Villiers, duchess of Cleveland.

Both the late Lord Penrhyn and his father before him are on record as having put up some of the biggest fights that have ever been waged against union labor, the victory remaining with the late peer. It remains to be seen whether his son and successor will be equally fortunate. The first Lord Penrhyn, anxious to deal fairly with his many thousands of workmen, tried the experiment of working the quarries on a coöperative basis, under the management of a committee of the men and on an understanding of a pro rata division of the profits. The scheme ended in chaos and in disaster, and thereupon the second and late Lord Penrhyn took the management of affairs into his own hands and brought them back to a condition of prosperity.

This experience determined him to permit no further outside interference with his property, and while he offered no objection to his men forming themselves into associations of the benefit order, he declined to permit them to import professional labor agitators from the outside as officers of their unions or to tolerate relations between the latter and other labor unions throughout the country, resolved as he was not to expose himself to the danger of sympathetic strikes.

It was this that brought about war between his men and himself, and rather than give way he shut down his quarries, announcing that if the men were prepared to do without wages he, on his side, could afford to dispense with the revenues derived from the quarries. The lockout lasted for months, during the course of which time Lord Penrhyn was bitterly assailed not only by the press but also in both houses of parliament. This left Lord Penrhyn, however, perfectly indifferent, and when Sir Courtenay Boyle, in behalf of the government, endeavored to bring about a compromise, Lord Penrhyn sent him about his business, stating that he did not propose to tolerate any outside interference in his private affairs, no matter whether by labor unions or by the government.

It is only fair to add that while the lockout lasted Lord Penrhyn not only allowed his striking laborers to occupy their cottages rent free, but even furnished them with food and supplies wherever there were cases of destitution. Finally the men made a complete surrender to his terms, of which the main feature was his refusal to tolerate outside interference. The men have had no reason to regret giving way to him. For alike in pay and in hours they are far more liberally treated than in any other slate quarries where labor unions are in control. Moreover, he established a system of pensions, and, indeed, showed the same solicitude for the material and moral welfare of the people on his estates—all his workmen were his tenants—as other English territorial magnates, who are keenly alive to the fact that the possession of land carries with it obligations.

Lord Grimthorpe, who is almost as well known in America as in England and who was one of the principal candidates for the British ambassadorship at Washington until the appointment of Mr. Bryce, has seceded from the unionist party and has joined the liberals, his name having been put up for election to the Reform club, proposed by Sir James Kitson and seconded by Alexander MacArthur. By the time this letter appears in print he will have been elected under the special rule affecting members of both houses of parliament.

Until he inherited the peerage of his eccentric but wonderfully clever old uncle, a year or so ago, he was known as Ernest Beckett, represented the Whitby division of Yorkshire for a number of years in the house of commons, and was married to the beautiful daughter of Tracy Lee of New York. She died about twelve years ago, her memory being preserved in a particularly lovely picture, which was the principal feature of the Royal academy exhibition of 1890 and in which she appears in a white gown, with one child clinging to its folds and another peering over her shoulder.

Gen. Botha, who has just become prime minister of the Transvaal and who was one of the principal commanders of the Boer forces in the South African war, has a wife with a strong strain of American blood in her Irish veins. For she was a Miss Emmet and is a great-granddaughter not of Robert Emmet, as has been stated, but of his elder brother, Thomas Addis Emmet, who, after spending a number of years in prison at Dublin and at Fort George in Scotland by way of punishment for his leadership of the United Irishmen movement, was set at liberty after the treaty of Amiens on the condition that he left Europe.

So he came to the United States in 1804, was attorney general of the state of New York in 1812, and is commemorated by a memorial in St. Paul's churchyard, on Broadway. Robert Emmet, the patriot—that is to say, his younger brother—met with his death on the scaffold in Dublin in 1803, and passed out of existence as a bachelor, as everybody knows who remembers Washington Irving's touching sketch of "The Broken Heart."

The present head of the Emmet family is, of course, the venerable Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, now almost in his 80th year, who was invested only a few months ago by the archbishop of New York with the order of Pius IX., conferred upon him by the present pontiff in recognition of his eminent services to the church and to the cause of medicine.

In view of the discussion which has arisen in connection with the death of the late Princess Clementine of Coburg concerning the predicate of royal highness claimed by the French house of Orleans, to which she belongs, it may be well to point out that the status of royal highness was conferred by King Charles X. upon the then duke of Orleans and upon his children, who until that time had been obliged to content themselves with the prefix of serene highness. The duke of Orleans rewarded this kindness by helping to oust Charles X. from his throne, which he ascended in his stead as King Louis Philippe. His children, of whom the late Princess Clementine was the last survivor, and his grandchildren were entitled to style themselves royal highnesses as children and grandchildren of a king. But the present duke of Orleans, as great-grandson, has not a vestige of right to the predicate of royal highness, which he exacts from his entourage.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Thomas Orchestra.

A Lenten spirit seemed to pervade the concert yesterday afternoon by the Thomas orchestra. The familiar "Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue" of Bach ushered in the afternoon seriously, the Chorale lending a churchly character to the number, which even the sprightliness of the fugue did not wholly counteract. Reger's "Serenade," op. 95, which followed, was the novelty of the afternoon, but it is subdued in manner and of a lengthiness which made the seriousness of the listener's mood hold until the intermission was reached.

Then came the Liszt-Kaun-Middelschulte Fantasie for organ and orchestra on the Anabaptist theme from "The Prophet," and the Lenten penitential atmosphere grew dense. The world and his satanic majesty came skipping nimbly into prominence, however, with the next number—the last on the list. It was the irresistibly beautiful and sensuous "Ruses d'amour" ballet suite of Glazounow. Leader and men swung off into the rhythmic measure with a vim that was inspiriting, and the audience heaved a sigh of relief and enjoyed itself to the full. An encore after the waltz was unavoidable and both Mr. Steindel and Mr. Kramer had to bow their acknowledgments repeatedly after their admirable performance of the "Dance of the Fiancés."

The whole suite, which is among the most masterly to be found in all ballet literature, was a delight, and the audience showed its unqualified approval of both the selection and the brilliant manner in which Mr. Stock and the orchestra gave it. It may not be music so "learned" as some other that was heard during the afternoon, but it was vastly enjoyable nevertheless.

The Reger Serenade, which yesterday received its first performance in the United States, is interesting and attractive more for the manner of saying than for what is said. The thematic ideas in the work are not of any vast significance, one of the principal ones in the first allegro being essentially folksonglike in character, and strongly reminiscent of one of the tunes Humperdinck has employed in "Hänsel and Gretel." They are short winded themes, most of them—the invention of flowing melodies evidently not being included among the composer's best gifts. He is but a true modern, however, in this respect. He writes fluently—too much so, perhaps, for he is prone to spin out his compositions to a length which neither the quality of his themes nor the skill with which he handles the orchestral instrument warrants. Three of the four movements heard would have gained materially could they have been judiciously condensed. The second—a scherzolike humoresque—was short and proved remarkably attractive.

Reger has written for what virtually amounts to two orchestras. He divides all the strings into two distinct bodies and mutes all save the basses of one of these, and leaves the other unmuted. He then adds the wood winds, two horns, kettledrums, and harp, and with this unusual combination proceeds to his work. He obtains a soft tinted, delicate toned, beautiful coloring, which at first is strong in its appeal, but which, owing to the length of the "Serenade" and the sameness of this coloring, comes near to growing monotonous before the hearing is over.

There is little about the Serenade which impresses as strikingly modern or in any way bizarre. It is music which harmonically is unmistakably of today, but it flows along so easily and clearly, especially when played with such perfection as it was yesterday, that it takes on the semblance of naturalness and unaffectedness. The movements found most attractive were the second—the humoresque above referred to—and the Andante, which has much of melodic beauty to lend it power of appeal.

The Bach number was given with delightful clarity and thorough understanding, and Mr. Middelschulte was made the recipient of recalls for his performance of the organ part in the Liszt-Kaun Fantasie.

The orchestra was seated on new platforms, fashioned in amphitheater shape. The men at the back of the stage thus were placed above the strings and made both visible and audible. The change is an attempt to better the imperfect acoustics of the hall and to overcome, so far as is possible, the disproportionate height of the sounding board over the stage. The effect of the raised platform seemed to be along the line of improvement, so far as could be judged. The wood wind choir certainly was heard to better advantage than before, but the selections played did not offer opportunity for deciding as to whether or not the change did not bring the brass and the basses into too great prominence. The program next week will enable better estimating of this.

The same program will be given tonight, commencing at 8:15 o'clock.

WORLD PEACE TO ADVANCE IF HAGUE PLAN CARRIES.

Limitation of Naval Growth Urged by England, and Protection of Neutral Goods by Other Powers; President Considers Proposition.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—If the powers of the world adopt the tentative program now under consideration for discussion at the impending peace conference at The Hague, the most advanced steps yet taken for the prevention and amelioration of war will be made.

Two broad propositions have been suggested, the first by England, which contemplates naval disarmament; and the second by different powers making neutral goods immune from seizure upon the high seas, whether carried in merchantmen belonging to a belligerent power or not.

To both of these propositions, in a general way, the United States is favorable. In 1904 congress adopted a joint resolution declaring it desirable that the president should endeavor to bring about an understanding among the principal maritime powers with a view to incorporating into the permanent law of the civilized nations the principle of exemption of all private property at sea, not contraband of war, from capture or destruction by belligerents.

Other matters closely affecting the rights of neutrals which will be discussed at The Hague are the distinctions to be made between absolute and conditional contraband of war, and the inviolability of the official and private correspondence of neutrals.

Must Fix Duties of Neutrals.

The conference also will have to consider the duties of neutrals toward belligerents, one aspect of which is the treatment due to refuge belligerent ships in neutral ports.

It will be remembered that Russian battleships and cruisers sought refuge in Chinese, French, and American ports, and that Japan, during the peace negotiations, demanded possession of these vessels. This demand was resisted by Russia, and the Japanese finally waived it. The question is one which contains germs of trouble for belligerents, as, in case a belligerent ship given asylum should escape, the responsibility of the country for failure to prevent its departure might become the cause of rupture.

The conference must also settle, among other general questions affecting relations of sovereign states, the bombardment of ports, towns, and villages by naval force.

Disarmament Not a New Idea.

The idea of disarmament which England now is advancing is no new one. When the czar of Russia called the first peace conference in 1899 its prime purpose was the negotiation of an agreement stipulating nonaugmentation, for a term to be agreed upon, of the existing effective armed land and sea forces, as well as war budgets pertaining thereto.

The United States at that time was in a position of hopeless inferiority from a naval and military point of view, and the instructions given the American delegates to the conference declared it to be advisable for them to leave the initiative upon this subject to those powers to which it properly belonged. It became evident during the conference that no agreement could be reached in regard to disarmament, and the most that was done was the adoption of a resolution declaring that a limitation of military charges "which at present so oppress the world is greatly to be desired for the increase of the material and moral welfare of mankind."

Would Make Britain Supreme.

England's proposition is that during the next seven years no power shall increase its naval expenditures beyond what they are for the present year. It is one of peculiar advantage to Great Britain. In the first place, England spends more money in building up her navy than any other nation in the world. It is her steel walls which protect her from European invasion. England has in commission the largest battleship in the world—the Dreadnought—and is building three more of greater size. In addition she has authorized the construction of two vessels of the same class, and three will be built dependent upon action taken at The Hague. She has completed three armored cruisers known as the "Invincible class," which are superior to the battleships of other nations.

In other words, England's naval strength in big ships is four times greater than that of any other nation, and, with her present expenditures continued, and no increase by other powers of their own, she will be able to maintain this superiority.

As compiled by the navy department the annual expenditures of the civilized powers upon their fleets are as follows:

England	$150,000,000	Russia	51,000,000
United States	100,000,000	Japan	42,000,000
France	66,000,000	Italy	29,000,000

President Wants Power Maintained.

As the third naval power of the world, and the second in point of expenditure, the policy the United States will pursue is of greatest importance in the determination of the disarmament question.

Three years ago the president expressed decided opposition to any general reduction of offensive and defensive power.

"Until some method is devised," he said, "by which there shall be a degree of international control over offending nations, it would be a wicked thing for the most civilized powers, for those with the most sense of international obligations and with the keenest and most generous appreciation of the difference between right and wrong, to disarm. If the great civilized nations of the present day should completely disarm, the result would mean an immediate recrudescence of barbarism in one form or another.

"Under any circumstances, sufficient armament would have to be kept up to serve the purposes of international police, and until international cohesion and sense of international duties and rights are far more advanced than at present, the nation desirous of securing respect both for itself and for others must have force adequate for the work which it feels is allotted to it as its part of general world duty."

Roosevelt May Approve Plan.

There is no disposition on the part of the authorities to attempt to exceed the naval strength of Great Britain and France, the most formidable naval powers upon the sea.

Ahead of Germany and Japan, the United States can afford to continue its expenditures upon their present basis, provided other powers make no substantial increase. From this point of view it is said the president may be willing to approve the English proposition. The matter has not been determined finally as yet, but will be in ample time for the instruction of the American delegates to the conference.

Perspicacity.

"Pardon me, conductor," said a mild looking man on the rear of a Gates avenue car, "but I gave you the last nickel I had. Would you mind changing this quarter for me?"

"Sure," responded the conductor, with a broad grin, as he handed out five nickels. "Baby, eh?"

"That's it," responded the passenger, as he passed inside.

"Say!" inquired another platform passenger, "what's the connection between babies and nickels?"

"That's easy," answered the conductor. "That fellow's got a nickel-in-the-slot telephone. When he asked me for nickels I made a guess at the baby proposition, for when there's a baby in the house the father figures he may have to dig up a doctor during the night, and the people who use the slot telephone know that the telephone girls are mighty reluctant in accepting any there-isn't-a-nickel-in-the-house story. I catch a lot of those fellows on the car."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Charles Wouldn't Let Little Word Stump Him.

CHARLES EDWARD, who is 5 years old, attends kindergarten. Sister has been studying German at high school and incidentally has been talking a little German to all the family, including Charles Edward. One day Charles Edward came home from kindergarten and recited a little piece as follows:

"Take a little seed, so hard and round,
Make a little hole down in the ground,
Put the seed into it, cover it with care,
Who would think a seed was ever there?"

Sister said, "What do you mean by that, Charles, 'Cover it with care?' What is 'care'?"

Puzzled for a moment, Charles hesitated, but presently replied, "O, that's the way they say mud in German."

One frosty October morning little Francis came running to a neighbor's bare footed. He was asked: "Francis, aren't your feet cold?" and replied: "No, my feet are not cold, but the ground is."

"Blow Out the Gas Line" Is Way He Sings It.

WILBERT lived in the Pennsylvania gas belt and their farm house was supplied by a private pipe line direct from one of the wells. In cold weather the line would sometimes "freeze up," on which occasions it was necessary to "blow out the line" by using additional pressure from the well.

One morning after returning from Sabbath school his mother heard him singing vigorously one of the school songs, which has for a chorus the words, "Throw out the life line." The little fellow had misunderstood, however, and changed the words to suit local conditions and his version was "Blow out the pipe line, blow out the pipe line."

A little friend of mine said to her mother, "Mamma, will you help me put on my limbins?" "I don't know what you mean," said her mother. "Why, my limbins; you know it is not polite to say leggins."

She Explains Why It Is Called Right Hand.

PAULINE was just learning to write, and her mother impressed upon her the fact that she must always hold her pencil in her right hand. Looking up from her work one day, she held up her left hand and inquired: "Mamma, why do we call this one our left hand?" "Well, really, my dear, I don't know," mamma replied. "For that matter, why do you suppose we call the other one the right hand?" "O, that's easy," came the prompt reply. "That's because we write with it."

When Julia was 7 years old she was taken to hear De Wolf Hopper in "El Capitan." After she had looked at him dancing for awhile she said to her mother, "I really think he should be called De Grass Hopper instead of De Wolf Hopper, he jumps so."

How She Knew Milkman Brought the Baby.

WHEN auntie came to breakfast after the stork had visited the house, she found Ethel and Mabel, 7 and 4 years respectively, at the table, and said: "O, girlies! guess what? You have a little brother upstairs. He came early this morning."

Ethel, the 7 year old, looked very sober for a minute, then brightened up and said: "O, yes, I know! The milkman brought him."

Auntie—"Why, Ethel, what do you mean?"

Ethel—"Why, I read it on his wagon."

Auntie—"You read what on his wagon?"

Ethel—"Why, it read, 'Families supplied daily.'"

My 4 year old nephew was playing around the room while his father and mother were talking about an old woman who lived near them. Finally he stopped his play and, coming around to where they sat, said: "I know who you're talking about. It's the lady with the mussed up face," that being the best he could do to express wrinkles.

She Knew Trains Were Not Made to Drag.

AFTER Katherine's sister started to school she was lonesome, and so commenced to play "big lady" and visit her mamma, and in order to do so she likes to wear a long skirt that sweeps away out behind.

The first time she wore it she asked me if her "drag was all right." I told her ladies called them trains. She replied: "Why, trains pull things, and this don't; I pull it."

And "my drag" is what she still insists on calling her train.

My little son, upon being told to dress himself one exceedingly warm afternoon, was called and asked how far he was dressed. He answered: "I hasn't a fing on but perspiration."

Quaint Petition Ends Prayer of Little Susie.

LITTLE SUSIE, on retiring one evening, was told by her mother to pray for papa, who was out of town; for little brother, who had the measles; and for Bridget, the servant girl, who had broken her ankle. Susie reverently included them all in her devotions and then closed by saying:

"And now, dear God, please take good care of yourself; because if anything happens to you we would all be in the soup."

Helen, 4 years old, while dining recently at the house of her aunt, desired her water glass refilled. Her father, who sat beside her, poured the water till it filled the glass to the very brim and threatened each moment to overflow. The little tot looked at it for a moment, and then in a disgusted tone remarked, "Now, ain't that just like a man."

Finds Way to Speed an Unwelcome Guest.

A LITTLE miss aged 5 years was entertaining a little friend to the best of her ability. Gave up her toys and her will and had so much patience that grandpa, looking on, was filled with wonder.

Finally she said: "O, dear, I wish I was at your house." The little visitor said: "Why do you wish that?" "O, because then I could come home," was the answer.

Mr. B. was punishing his little daughter by having her stand in a corner when she suddenly sobbed out, "Papa, I just wish that you never had married into our family."

"I Can Tear a Butter Night," She Sings.

THE words of a hymn, "I can tear a, I can tear a butter night," furnished a fruitful source of thought to a little girl, who wondered what sort of a thing a "butter night" was.

Frequent teasing had been her cautious in asking her elders for an explanation. Matters ran along until she could read the hymn which begins, "I'm a pilgrim, I'm a stranger, I can tarry, I can tarry but a night."

One Sunday morning a little neighbor of mine was taken to church by her parents to hear the new minister, and after church was much interested in hearing them discuss the sermon. A few days later, while he was playing in the yard, the minister went past his home and the child saw him. Running excitedly to his mother, he said: "O, mamma, I saw the sermon go by!"

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER. | REVIEWS OF CURRENT PUBLICATIONS. | BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

JABEZ BALFOUR SAYS ENGLISH PRISONS DO NOT DETER CRIMINALS.

M. P. Who Served Twelve Years for Swindling Writes About His Convict Life—Miss Gilder Describes New Colony Club in New York.

IN England they put their Jabez Balfours behind bars; in America they let them run loose until they are their own undoing. I like the English way the best; it has a wholesome influence. Since Mr. Balfour has been enjoying the hospitality of Wormwood Scrubbs he has had time to reflect—not only to reflect, but to write. He always was fond of writing, in which particular he reminds me of his American prototype. For twelve years Jabez Balfour, ex-M. P., has been "Convict V. 460" in the Wormwood Scrubbs prison, and therefore he has only two years more of penal servitude. While in prison Balfour behaved much better than he did when at large. Not a bad mark has been made against his name. He has recently published a record of his life in prison, in which he says:

A life regulated by two or three gentlemen in Whitehall is not to be judged by any of the standards which are applicable to a life of freedom. Seclusion, silence, shame, separation from one's fellows, a minute and pedantic control exercised by others over all one's actions, a steady, persistent course of official snubbing from morn till eve—these are its normal conditions. The man who is brave enough or philosophical enough to accept them and adapt himself to them may grow at length so accustomed, so acclimatised to their influence, as to pass at least a tolerable existence. But this demands exceptional qualities and a tremendous effort.

On the first night of his incarceration he mapped out his prison future:

I planned that night that if I were permitted to live I would do my best not to lose a single mark, and, thank God, I succeeded.

Mr. Balfour may be said to be an expert on prisons. He has had experience in four of them—Halloway, Wormwood Scrubbs, Parkhurst, and Pentonville. After being nine years in jail, he got a glimpse of himself for the first time in a mirror:

I started back, for I did not know my own face. It was one of the most amazing and terrifying experiences in my life. I had changed past recognition.

In some of these prisons Mr. Balfour was set to making shoes, in others to sewing mail bags. At Portland, where he spent some eighteen months, he says:

My master told me that my work was strong, but very rough. "However, he added, "you needn't be frightened at your customers; they won't complain."

He condemns the whole scheme of labor as applied to the better class, socially, of prisoners:

It is hopeless to expect that a middle aged or elderly banker, lawyer, doctor, or shopkeeper, still less a clergyman or dissenting minister, will under any circumstances make a good bricklayer, plumber, shoemaker, or tailor. If he ever had any manual aptitude he has lost it years ago. . . . . To employ in mechanical work men who have never used any mechanical tools in their lives is a waste of time and energy. . . . . They are bunglers when they begin, they continue bunglers to the end. They regard their work as a delusion and a farce, and the officers who watch over them look at it in the same light.

For these offenders Mr. Balfour would create separate prisons, where they could be employed to better advantage to themselves and the state.

The best prisoners in these prisons, he says, are, without doubt, the lawyers; the doctors are "undoubtedly the worst." Of the murderer, he says, he "is rather a favorite."

In concluding the story of his life Mr. Balfour states that, in his opinion, the English system of penal servitude is a complete failure. He says it "has not reformed, does not deter, and cannot truly punish."

Miss Clara E. Laughlin, who is well known in Chicago as literary editor of The Interior and as a contributor to the magazines and a writer of books, will publish this week through Messrs. Scribner a novel which she calls "Felicity," that being the name of the heroine. A cheerful sort of a name, and, if we could get out of life the inspiration of a name, it would not be a bad one to hand around. Miss Laughlin gives us in this book a story of the stage. She takes us before and behind the footlights. It is idealized, but, nevertheless, makes good reading, and it would not surprise me if it should make a good play.

I wonder if I may be allowed to turn aside a moment from the notice of new books to say something about a new club. It is not a literary club, though it proposes to do something for the cultivation of the literary habit. I refer to the Colony club, that was incorporated in 1905 but has only just been opened to its members. Its object is social intercourse rather than reforms of any kind. It is not strong minded nor is it weak minded. It cultivates the athletic side especially, and has a splendidly equipped gymnasium, a swimming pool, and baths of all sorts and descriptions. One of the prettiest rooms in the clubhouse is the reading room, which has not many books on its shelves so far, but which has a great many periodicals on its tables. There is a committee that covers literature and art, the latter including music, and it is proposed on the first Tuesday of each month to have a lecture delivered or a paper read on some literary topic, and this to be followed by an informal discussion. The committee is also proposing to have exhibitions of laces, miniatures, book bindings, pictures, etc. The fourth Tuesday in each month is to be devoted to music. So, you see, the club is something more than social and athletic. But what I want to say here is not so much on the aim and scope of the club as upon its beauty. It was the last building designed by the late Stanford White and it has been decorated from attic to cellar by Miss Elsie De Wolfe, who, before she took to decorating houses, was well known as an actress. Men who have been admitted to see the club just before its formal opening expressed the wish for the first time in their lives that they were women, so that they might enjoy not only the comforts and luxuries but the beauty of the rooms. Miss De Wolfe has been for two years planning out her color schemes, her furnishings, and getting things together, and she has made this clubhouse a thing of beauty, and undoubtedly it will be a joy forever. It is simplicity itself, but simplicity marked by exquisite taste. Nothing is ovedone, there is no crowding, no cozy corners. There is nothing to offend the eye, and everything to appeal to refined and elegant taste.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is the president of the club, Mrs. Richard Irvin first vice president, Mrs. John Jacob Astor second vice president, Mrs. Walter Damrosch secretary, and Miss Anne Morgan treasurer. There are 700 resident members and 200 non-resident members, and there is already a waiting list.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

Mrs. St. Julien Ravenel has brought much enthusiasm and love to her work of writing "CHARLESTON—THE PLACE AND ITS PEOPLE" (Macmillan company), and the result is an informative and well poised book, done in a way which indicates a deep pride in the town and its traditions. Charleston, more than any other place of its size in this country, has maintained since early settlement its distinct individuality, and even at the present day has a society built upon and fostered by the exclusive traditions of its first pioneers. Neither time, war, catastrophe, nor commercialism has affected this, and Charleston, unmoved by the changes which have come to other towns, north or south, remains unique in its "splendid isolation" and hauteur.

If the book has a serious fault it is that far too much space is given to the period closing with the eighteenth century, and so little to the Charleston society of the succeeding hundred years. More than half of the book is given up to the history of the town previous to the end of the revolution, and Mrs. Ravenel makes it interesting by reason of her extracts from old letters, documents, and newspapers, her identification of historic sites and buildings, many of the latter still standing, her descriptions of noted inhabitants and distinguished sojourners, the quaint customs of bygone days, the quiet life of the aristocrats, unchanged by the colonial and independence wars, and the dignified commerce of the port.

In chapter xviii., in which she describes the characteristics of the place and the structure of its old society, we get charming glimpses of the languorous, opulent extravagance of the ancient days. "A gentleman some years ago," she says, "told his son that his father, Mr. John Huger, a distinguished patriot, had always been accustomed, as his house had no piazza, to take his tea in fine summer weather on the broad sidewalk in front of his door. The table was brought out and arranged, and passing friends would stop for a cup and a chat.

"'How did he manage with the people going by?' asked the son.

"'You surely do not suppose,' said the astonished father, 'that any one would intrude upon the old gentleman! Of course, when people saw him, if they were not his friends, they crossed the street and walked on the other side not to annoy him.'"

There is not space here to convey an adequate idea of the fidelity with which the author has conveyed an idea of the charm, by no means all departed, of Charleston. There is romance in every page of it—suggestive romance, like that we imagine connected with the faded flowers we find between the leaves of old books. There is hardly another book like this, and it could only have been written of Charleston. Not the least valuable of its features are the good drawings by Vernon Howe Bailey.

Of course it was Oliver Herford who first thought of a "PETER PAN ALPHABET" (Charles Scribner's Sons) and wrote it out and illustrated it. The various characters in Barrie's play all have their letters, their verses, and their pictures. There is an affectionate round robin to Barrie, and a clever verse for Maude Adams, but one of the best is Y:

Y is for youth, to which Peter clung,
But where is the land where he learned to stay young?
Ask Peter, he'll tell you, geography scorning,
"Second Turn to the Right and Keep Straight on till Morning."

H. B. Marlott Watson, who has written successfully such slashing stories of adventure as "Hurricane Island," is the author of "THE PRIVATEERS" (Doubleday, Page & Co.), which relates to the adventures of an English naval officer and an English girl, the latter being the intended victim of two designing American stock jobbers whose are fighting for the control of an important railroad, the balance of power in which is the property of the English girl, although she doesn't know it. They are both unprincipled scoundrels, though one has once in a while a gleam of honor.

The methods by which these American captains of industry attempt to win the English maiden displays Mr. Watson's ignorance of American financial ways. Given a situation such as he describes the American stock jobbers would accomplish their object in Wall street and would not have to have recourse to pistols every few minutes. Mr. Watson's knowledge of American character may be judged from his making one of the men offer to prepare for the Englishman a real American dinner, "barring the popcorn." The author's attempt to have the two Americans talk "American" is painful.

SOCIALISTIC ROMANCE WITH HAYMARKET RIOT AS CULMINATION.

"The Cage," by Charlotte Teller, Not a Distinguished Addition to the Growing Bulk of Sociological Novels.

MISS CHARLOTTE TELLER has, in her novel, "THE CAGE," added one more to the list of stories having the Haymarket riot for the point of culmination. Miss Teller is known as a socialist, and, to an extent, her novel is a medium for her ideas, although quite as a tale of love and business struggle, it has its interest.

The story is that of Fredericka Hartwell, the daughter of a clergyman who has for years lived among the lowly. Fredericka, in spite of her inheritance of refinement and her innate love of beauty, has grown up in the most congested portion of the west side, having for her neighbors the Irish policemen, the German day laborers, and the shiftless nonworkers of the most discouraged portion of society. Associated with her is a woman of wealth and position who has voluntarily come to live among the poor. And to this interesting household come many persons of distinction, among them a man of murky power, an Austrian named Harden. Harden believes in the spirit of democracy to be found in the United States—believes that American ideals live in the hearts of the immigrant foreigners who have come to these shores with dreams and hopes, rather than in the hearts of the complaisant and prosperous American born. To resuscitate these ancient but decaying ideals is his undertaking. He associates himself with Dr. Hartwell, dragging that mild mannered man after him along paths which the doctor could never have imagined that he would tread. And the end is—the Haymarket!

It is the depiction of Fredericka's singularly mobile soul in which Miss Teller has had the most delight, and there is no question but that she has made her as sensitive, as inconsequent, as emotional, and as unreflecting as the most completely and fatally feminine of her sex could hope—or dread—to be. Never was there a heroine more intense or more deluded into the belief that she was intellectual. Fredericka never really attains to a thought. She feels. For an idea she substitutes an emotion. Whenever she acts she does so in response to a sort of mental explosion. She is incapable of calm. In prosperity she moved with the illogical delight of a bird on a summer day. In times of stress she flutters about with the mad indirection of that same bird when the saffron clouds, belching wind, presage the tragedy of a hurricane. She ends quite happily in her nest, as even the most irresponsible of birds sometimes will when they are in luck.

Miss Teller's exposition of her social tenets is not clear. All her people seem misdirected, no matter what side they are on. Her picture is confused, not with the dignity of struggling armies that "clash by night," but with the turmoil, inglorious and futile, of neighbors and groups forever at odds.

The presentation of the Haymarket catastrophe is one sided—as one sided in its own way as some of those absurd reports which were current in the frantic days of the anarchist troubles. Miss Teller says that the only, conspiracy of which there was any trace was that instituted by the chief of police, who caused bombs and other devastating explosives to be placed under sidewalks and in barns that the police might find them, and thus satisfy their own appetite for revenge and sustain the hysterical condition of the people. This goes rather far. But, on the whole, Miss Teller's recital of the grim episode and the hideous reprisal of society is well and stirringly depicted. In Lange, one of her most mysterious characters, she has, it is to be surmised, meant to portray the eloquent and mysterious Louis Lingg, about whose life and death elements of romance and mystery have always hung.

It is a pity that Miss Teller should have gone to the pains to have placed all of her most impassioned socialists in situations of great luxury and ease before concluding her book. It makes her characters, with their passion for self-abnegation, appear unnecessarily futile.

Fervid though the book is at intervals, it cannot be said to be a distinguished addition to the ever growing bulk of sociological novels. Appletons publish it.

TOO MUCH ENERGY BENCHES CHANCE.

"Demon" Cub Manager Shows Speed and Twists Ligament in Shoulder.

INJURY PROVES PAINFUL.

"Husk" Mixes Bad with Good Luck; Still Able to Place Left Handed Bet on Derby.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—[Special.]—"Husk" Chance, our demon manager, captain, bookmaker, and Fresno prune grower, made two sets of noises this morning, the good and the bad kind. Just listen to what may befall an athlete in one short hour.

First the cap got a letter that had money in it, then he went to the ballyard and dislocated some of his contents while rehearsing the national pastime. This means the Cub leader will be hors du first base in the game tomorrow and maybe in the last exhibition on Sunday. The injury is painful, but not serious, a twisted ligament under the right shoulder blade, where McCormick cannot reach it handily.

No one was near Chance at the time of the accident. He was on his feet rounding second base and had both arms free to set the pace and to show the squad what real training is. "Husk" put on a burst of speed. The flopping of his right wing on the short turn started something that popped in his stalwart back and the captain flagged himself then and there for a scientific rub down.

Mutt Players Never Hurt.

'Twas ever thus. The star athlete is the one who gets bunged up and busted just when he is needed. Think of the everlasting disgrace should the Pelicans gaff the Cubs on the morrow. You seldom see a mutt player Charley horsed or ever mussed.

Push the ground roller and the grass cutter over the $1,200 man playing the game both ways on his prostrate frame and he won't miss a meal. Such is the true dope. Chance always was unlucky and his latest mishap proves it.

The greatest man in the business damages himself running bases in a fungo game of hit and toss. Of course, it is not anything to wail about so early in the season, yet there is a dark and clammy side to the case. The kink in Chance means that "Seagull" Gessler must play first base, and he is too proud to put glue in his glove. If he could be induced to use just a little glue or even a porous plaster our prospects would look less hectic.

Chance is bearing up well under the blow. To begin with, he had a severe cold which settled in his back. The wrench he gave himself today shifted the cold a foot or so to starboard and gave it a needed change of scene under the right shoulder blade.

McCormick says the cap has a stitch in his side. "Husk" is reconciled because he got the stitch in time to save the other eight, which he does not need just now. Any violent movement of the right arm is painful to "Husk," but he may be able to place a quiet left handed bet on Ripe Tomato, or whatever his name is, the California candidate for the Derby.

The good luck that came to Chance today was a large dividend on the block of stock he owns in a Chicago pajama factory.

To make up the lost time of yesterday the principals and chorus were called for an early rehearsal. By 10 o'clock the entire squad was at work in the cool and bracing weather following the storm. So great was the change that the athletes hunted the sunspots for comfort and injected ginger into practice.

The Cubs found besides needful work another spasm of excitement just subsiding in Mr. C. Frank's yard. During the night the star atraction, Henry Chimpanzee Waddell, broke his chain and followed a passing fire engine half way down Canal street. The runaway was found early this morning tending bar in Algiers, a small town across the river. Henry came away from the saloon under protest, carrying a portion of the free lunch in his left hand. He is a southpaw all right.

Henry was tethered near a damp spot on the canal side of the park, where he could angle for crawfish. The erratic southpaw has been four years with the Pelican team. Mr. C. Frank knows how to manage him.

Players in Good Condition.

For two hours or more the Cubs ground away the practice, stopping occasionally to tease Henry C. at his fishing hole. McCormick has lost his glove. It was washed away in the storm that wrecked so many shoes the previous day. The trained has worked faithfully and hard, using up the five gallons of drug store dope brought from Chicago and a little more. As a result of Jack's polite attentions the regulars are in excellent condition. Slagle even is ready for business. Overall needs to be trimmed and Seabaugh will increase his speed by training off a few pounds.

Of the regular pitching squad Brown, Pfiester, Taylor, and Fraser need no further preparation other than the practice game. In fact the "chicken" is so good he can pitch two balls at one and the same time in practice. Kahoe is in splendid trim. Chance keeps him busy coaching Durbin and Perdue. All the early aches and pains have left Steinfeldt, and as for Hofman and Schulte, those almost transparents almost seldom have any. Sheckard did no work in the close season, but it will not require long to condition. Jim's voice was all right the day he arrived, and he has purchased a bat for bunting practice. Lundgren is coming on and Gessler will show what a fine first baser he is since "Husk" has given him an opening.

Three Pitchers to Work Today.

Durbin, Overall, and Taylor are billed for tomorrow, with Seabaugh at the other end. The little southpaw has everything needful, including confidence. Perdue may pitch a section of the game for the Pelicans just to loosen up his whip.

The latest bulletin from Sweeney's feet is encouraging. Billy greases his ball shoes inside and out with vaseline and treats the feet to massage a number of times daily. Those relics of the rink have bothered the shortstop more than anything else on the trip.

Sweeney will cover second for Evers in the last two games here. John is nursing a sore arm that needs a rest. Randall mailed his Wisconsin girl a postal card depicting two fat red hearts skewered on a blue arrow. He believes that token of affection should hold her for a spell.

OUTFIELDER ODWELL IS HURT.

Cincinnati Player Runs Into Fence, Rusty Nail Entering Hand—Will Not Play Again for Weeks.

Cincinnati, O., March 15.—[Special.]—The old hoodoo pursued the reds again today when Fred Odwell, running at top speed and trying to pick a fly off the fence, crashed into a rusty nail, which entered his hand. A doctor immediately was summoned and the wound was cauterized. Tonight his hand is swollen to three times its natural size, and the doctor states Odwell will be out of the game for several days and possibly weeks. The Yannigans meet the regulars tomorrow, and on Sunday the "vets" go up against Temple, while the [illegible]s are playing at Waco.

Boston Americans Reunited.

Little Rock, Ark., March 15.—[Special.]—The Boston Americans were all together today for the first time this season and had another practice game, the regulars winning, 9 to 4. The batteries for the regulars were Oberlin, Kroh, and Armbruster; for the Yannigans, Harris, Pruitt, and [illegible]w. The regulars scored one each in the first and sixth, five in the third, and two in the ninth. The Yannigans made two in the fourth and one each in the fifth and sixth.

To Dedicate New Gun Club.

The dedication of the Suburban Rod and Gun club's new home will take place this afternoon with a grand shoot, in which many prominent marksmen will participate. To reach the grounds take the Elgin and Aurora train to the county line and walk back one block.

AIR TOO DRY FOR THE SOX

COMISKEY'S MEN ENJOY TRIP BUT QUESTION ITS BENEFITS.

Find Mexico All Right for a Pleasure Tour, but Believe They Are Not Getting the Right Kind of Training for the Baseball Campaign—Night Scare at the Hotel Interferes with Day of Sightseeing—Games Today and Tomorrow.

BY SY.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—[Special.]—The White Sox themselves are "stuck" on the Mexican trip merely as a pleasure tour and are enjoying thoroughly its constant novelty. None of them likes it from the professional standpoint. Their chief objection is the too dry atmosphere, which absorbs all the moisture so rapidly that the players are unable to work up a perspiration except by violent exercise. Even then it dries immediately, and for that reason the men are unable to work off their surplus flesh without great exertion, and they cannot get their muscles pliable without much perspiring.

The great amount of dust in the air affects the players' throats something like a hard cold of the northern climate. Nearly all are more or less hoarse during the stay. It is impossible to lay the dust in the city except by the prodigal use of water, because the latter is absorbed so rapidly. Much sprinkling is done despite the high value of water; still the dust is everywhere, especially when the wind blows in the afternoons. There has been not a drop of rain here since December, and only a little then. None is expected until May. This explains the dusty conditions. There has been an occasional cloud during the Sox' stay, but nothing even presaging rain.

Get a Night Scare.

The first sensational incident of the White Sox's invasion of Mexico occurred at an early hour this morning, when the entire hotel was awakened by the horrifying screams of a woman guest occupying a suite with her husband and two children on the ground floor. The report and screams of attempted burglary frightened the others, too, after the first fire had been allayed.

The whole Sox brigade turned out in all kinds of night clothes and slashed the corridors until the terrified woman's shrieks were located by one of the war correspondents with the Sox. Frank Smith, the "Sandow" of the party, stood in the rear of a group of rescuers at the door and commanded an assault with "Come on, boys, let's break in." When the children finally opened the door the woman was hysterical and fainting and her husband was overcome by the struggle with the burglar, who, he claimed, jumped out of the window.

A rapid search of the entire hotel was made by the Sox and other Americans.

It was a picturesque and exciting episode as the men ran about the dim corridors in pajamas while the frightened women huddled in corners trembling and clinging to one or two men retained as protectors. Isbell was armed with his prize four two bagger bat and Owen carried the famous gun which got him in trouble twice. Fredericks had a bag of Mexican silver, the receipts of games, ready to use as a blackjack. Walsh had a spitball ready to blind the intruder. White carried a pair of murderous looking forceps in each hand, and Sullivan a recently purchased machete.

Only a Nightmare.

No trace of the supposed thief was found. Finally it was discovered that it was impossible for him to jump from the window, as supposed, because it opened out on an interior court, in which many of the aroused guests were all of the time. A unanimous verdict was reached that the supposed thief entered and escaped on a thoroughbred midnight mare, of which this altitude is extremely prolific. Nevertheless many guests barricaded the doors and sat up the rest of the night, brooding on the bandit, tarantulas, and centipedes, only to laugh at themselves at sunlight. After the half hour's noise and confusion had subsided the night clerk and watchman appeared on the scene, sleepily inquiring the matter.

Consequently everybody slept late in the forenoon and several proposed all day trips were abandoned. Few Sox left the hotel.

Jones ordered his men out for the usual morning practice and wound up with a four inning match between regulars and substitutes, in which the second team walloped the first, 20 to 6, batting Walsh and Smith hard. The afternoon was devoted to the final scouting and rubberneck trips. Several Sox tackled the Mexican game pelota, but found practice necessary to play at all.

Altrock's trunk finally arrived, and he spent the day changing clothes without leaving the hotel, so he could wear all the different suits planned to spring on the public here.

Play Today and Tomorrow.

The final two days of the stay here will be busy ones. A game tomorrow between the blues and whites, with the two local twirlers, Juarez and Casas, pitching for the Sox regulars, is scheduled. On Sunday the final game will be played by the two Sox teams. They leave at 7:40 that night for the states. President Diaz is unable to grace the occasion with his presence as he had hoped, but probably officials of the republic will be there in his stead. Comiskey sent the president his compliments with a large box of costly cigars in appreciation of the hospitality extended the strangers by the Mexican authorities.

Jones has decided to make up two squads for the rest of the trip. The first team will go direct to New Orleans, and includes White, Walsh, Altrock, Smith, Patterson, McFarland, Donohue, Isbell, Tannehill, Rohe, Jones, Hahn, and Dougherty. The second squad, which will stop off at San Antonio, includes Fiene, Owen, Cheney, Freeman, Towne, Hart, Lejune, Dundon, O'Neill, Roth, Quillen, and Welday. Comiskey will take charge of the second squad to play at San Antonio on March 20, Galveston the 21st, and Alexandria the 23 and 24th. The first squad, under Jones, will play at New Orleans on March 21, 22, 23, and 24. The two teams will unite at Jackson, Miss., and probably will remain there for practice until time to go to Memphis for the games of March 30 and 31.

This slight change in the program does away with barnstorming dates at Greenville and Vicksburg the week after next and also drops the date at Memphis scheduled for March 28. The players are all in good physical condition, with hardly a sore muscle, according to Prof. Bardell's report.

Dougherty lost a diamond ring at the bathhouse this morning.

Get Out Sporting Extras.

The visit of the Sox has instigated one innovation. The local English afternoon newspaper has accepted the occasion to inaugurate the issuing of sporting extras, giving complete details of the Sox games and doings here. These are the first sporting extras in the history of the republic.

CONKLIN SECOND IN THE TOURNEY.

Defeats Billiardist Gardner in Playoff of Tie for Second Place.

PRAISE FOR DEMAREST.

New York Critics All Have Good Word to Say for the Young Champion.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Charles F. Conklin defeated ex-National Amateur Billiard Champion Edward W. Gardner today by a score of 300 points to 201. The game was the closing contest of the seventh annual national championship at 14-2 balk line. By his victory in the concert hall of the Liederkranz club Conklin won second place to the young champion, Calvin Demarest. Both represent the Chicago Athletic association.

The records of the most remarkable amateur billiard tournament ever held were completed today by the officials of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. The 19 year old champion won four prizes as the result of his second tournament for national honors. He became holder of the valuable silver cup emblematic of the championship, which must be won twice to become the personal property of the holder. Demarest also takes the Sevres vase, the first prize; the beautiful bronze figure for high average prize, and a pearl and diamond scarfpin as high run prize.

Demarest made such a cleanup of the prize list that the others fared poorly in comparison. His clubmate, Conklin, wins second prize, an oak chest of table silver; Gardner, a bronze of a buffalo at bay; Poggenburg, a crystal and gilt chiming clock; Dr. Mial, a fancy marble bust, an ideal of a woman's head and pedestal; and Rolls, a bronze crystal smoker's set.

Conklin's Methodical Work.

Gardner made a fine effort to win the tie for second place this afternoon. His game, however, lacked the coherence and methodical cue work of Conklin, who on the last hundred played his closest caroms of the entire series of matches. Score:

CONKLIN—0, 0, 25, 0, 41, 6, 10, 5, 5, 45, 33, 22, 1, 64, 11, 0, 1, 0, 31. Total, 300. Average, 15 15-19. High runs, 64, 45, and 41.

GARDNER—2, 0, 43, 6, 2, 36, 9, 7, 24, 0, 1, 17, 0, 39, 3, 0, 2, 9, 1. Total, 201. Average, 10 11-19. High runs, 43, 39, and 36.

Referee—Edward McLaughlin.

Opinions of Demarest.

Here are some opinions of Demarest, the young champion, from today's New York papers. The Evening World says of last night's game:

Demarest, the youthful, played with skillful swiftness that almost bordered on recklessness. While it startled the wise old billiardists in the hall, it made them gasp with amazement at the accuracy and success of his most careless looking shots. Almost before the balls had ceased rolling Demarest's next shot would be started. He kept the referee busy counting.

From the Globe:

When Calvin Demarest, the "boy billiardist" from Chicago played his first game in the amateur championship tournament that closed last night at the Liederkranz club, the veteran authorities said Demarest was not made of the right stuff. They said he lacked execution and dissected his style in terms that were almost too technical for the laymen. But this boy Demarest fooled them all. He went through the tournament with a clean record.

Daly Changes His Mind.

Tom Gallagher says in the Evening Telegram:

As a public performer the winner of the tournament was superior to those opposed to him. His first game did not support the reputation that preceded him nor the sanguine predictions of Will Mussey. It did not favorably impress such experienced professionals as Maurice Daly and George F. Slosson, both of whom declared they had been led to expect too much by Will Mussey. His initial performance was disappointing to Mussey. But the succeeding exhibitions by the boy restored the noted Chicago roomkeeper's cheerfulness and confidence in his own judgment. Furthermore, they caused Daly and Slosson to revise their opinions. Daly now says: "That boy is a good player and will be better. He is better than when he came here. His work is more systematic. In time he may become all that Mussey claims he will. He may even rival Willie Hoppe. Just now it is unfair to compare him to Hoppe. At 14-2 Hoppe would run out 300 point games. The amateurs will have to abandon 14-2 as a championship game. They are getting too proficient at it and will have to make either 14-1 or 18-2 their standard.

George Slosson said:

That boy simply outclasses all the other amateurs. He has the stroke and confidence that win. And he has the physique and good, youthful eye that are invaluable. Another year would make him a great player. They tell me he practices regularly. That will help to improve him.

Sutton Wins from Schaefer.

Muskogee, I. T., March 15.—George Sutton defeated Jacob Schaefer at 18-2 balk line billiards tonight, 400 to 258. Schaefer's high run was 34 and Sutton's 88 in thirty-one innings.

BOWLERS START FOR ST. LOUIS.

Chicago Competitors Begin Leaving for National Tournament—O'Learys to Roll Tonight.

Chicago's advance guard of delegates to the seventh annual tournament of the American bowling congress left last night for St. Louis, headed by Treasurer Frank Pasdeloup and Judge Howard, officials in the Illinois Bowling association.

This party will be augmented by a number of local officials and players, who will leave this morning to be present tonight at the opening of the biggest tournament in the history of the tenpin game.

The main contingent to leave today will be the O'Leary team, winners of the championship at Indianapolis in 1903. As usual, the stockyards favorites will be accompanied by the O'Leary drum and fife corps and a large party of rooters, forty in all. The delegation will go down in a special car on the Banner Blue Limited. Capt. Mahoney and his men are billed to roll in the second squad of the evening.

Among the teams scheduled to leave tonight are the two Centurys and the Brunswicks, all three being billed to roll tomorrow. Manager McCoy of the national champions, the Centurys No. 1, has four of the men who won the title last year at Louisville, the only absentee being Harry Alten, whose place will be filled by Charley Carlson, who last year broke a finger shortly before the team went on. Charley Mountain, M. Luecker, J. Stevens, and J. Rosendal are the other four players.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE TODAY

Annual Interuniversity Boat Race Between the Leading English Colleges Will Be Rowed.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 15.—The annual interuniversity boat race on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of four and a half miles, will start at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

It is not likely to be an exciting struggle, unless there is some unforeseen incident.

The Cambridge crew throughout the later period of its practice has shown marked superiority, and is a strong favorite at the general odds of 5 to 1 on. Some of the more enthusiastic supporters offer 100 to 1. Popular gossip represents the men as being so sure they intend to ignore their opponents and row entirely with a view of lowering the record of 18:47.

The Oxford crew, however, is too good to be despised, and the light blues know it. Nevertheless, if the weather proves favorable the condition of the tide may be such as to encourage a record breaking race. Cambridge has the more experienced crew. Five of the men rowed in the winning race against Oxford in 1906, and six of them pulled in the race against Harvard. Only three of the Oxonians rowed in the interuniversity race in 1906.

Papke and Rhodes Again Sign.

Davenport, Ia., March 15.—[Special.]—Manager William Ehlers of the Davenport Athletic club has signed Billy Papke of Spring Valley and Billy Rhodes of Kansas City to fight fifteen rounds in this city on Tuesday, March 27. Both will weigh in at 152 pounds. This is the same club which pulled off the recent event, the McFarland-Galligan bout. Malachy Hogan will referee.

Investigate McIntyre Case.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—[Special.]—The directors of the American Turf association met in formal session at the St. Charles hotel this morning. The license committee took up the McIntyre case and facts were developed, according to reports, that will lead to a farreaching search and may cause serious turf complications. The license of McIntyre was not revoked.

GOSSIP OF AMATEUR ATHLETES.

Charles A. Dean and Tommy Byrne have been selected as officials of the Central A. A. U. basketball championships, which will be held in the Evanston Y. M. C. A. gymnasium March 21, 22, and 23. They will alternate each night as referee and umpire.

Central Y. M. C. A. basketball five will meet the West Side Y. M. C. A. team tonight in the final basketball game before the championships. The curtain raiser will be between the Central Cardinals and the West Side Midgets. A special feature will be the game between two professional teams made up of oldtime players and coaches.

The entries for the Cook County Bible Class league track meet, which is to be held in the Bartlett gymnasium March 21, close tonight with Arthur Haigh. Up to last night the entries numbered 168 in the track events and eight relay teams.

Hoping to boost basketball among the secondary teams of the middle west, Central Y. M. C. A. has applied for sanction for a junior basketball tournament to be held in Central's gymnasium March 26, 28, and 30. Only teams not contesting for the Central A. A. U. title are to be allowed in the meeting, and the association thus hopes to give work to the score of fast fives playing ball in the district but not yet of championship form.

C. A. A.'s new acquisition, Trainer Meffert, has assumed charge of the Michigan avenue bath department, and sent yesterday his charges in for warming baths. Meffert already knows most of the material he is to work with, and expects to win back from Central Y. M. C. A. the championship title the latter won last year. The C. A. A. proposes to have entries in all of the championship events.

Chicago followers of water polo will be given an opportunity to see the two crack sixes of the country get together for another fight for the national title April 24. It has been decided to hold the national championship tournament in the Chicago Athletic association pool, and in this meeting New York and Chicago in all probability will be the chief contenders. Feb. 23 New York A. C. defeated the C. A. A. 3 to 2 in thirty minutes of play, but the local men expect to down the visitors playing in their home tank.

HART SCORES QUICK KNOCKOUT.

Kentuckian Stops Harry Rogers in Second Round of Fight at Hot Springs—Indiana Man Is Easy.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 15.—[Special.]—Marvin Hart of Louisville knocked out Harry Rogers, the Indiana miner, in the second round tonight before the largest crowd that ever filled the Whittington Athletic club. During the short time that it took Hart to dispose of his opponent, the miner was knocked to the mat seven times.

As a fighter the lad from Indiana proved a joke. He lacked both science and strength, and the sudden termination of the fight, which was scheduled to go twenty rounds, was a great disappointment to the spectators. From the first blow landed by Hart it was plainly seen Rogers was no match for the Kentuckian. He became weak after the first round, so severely did Hart punish him.

In the second round Hart landed four terrific blows to the jaw, and each sent the Indianian to the mat. Rogers was wild with his swings and left innumerable openings, which were taken advantage of by Hart. Twice in the last round Rogers swung so wildly that he slipped. Hart realized that he had his man going, and a left swing to the stomach, followed by a right to the jaw, closed the career of the miner as a heavyweight aspirant. Benr Donnelly of Chicago acted as referee.

ATTEL MARRIED ON COAST?

Pugilist Denies It, Declaring He Was Wedded in 1906 in Chicago—Records Show Otherwise.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—Abe Attel was married to Elizabeth Egan at Santa Ana, in Orange county, yesterday. Attel strenuously denied the story tonight, stating he was married on July 23, 1906, to Miss Egan in Chicago. The court record, however, contains the name of Abraham Attel, and it is not believed another person of his name lives in these parts. The couple were desirous not to have the Santa Ana officials give anything to the newspapers, but the story beat them to Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Attel expect to leave for the east on Saturday or Sunday. Orders were left with the license clerk to have the return document sent to Chicago.

Attel-Sullivan Fight Is Off.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—[Special.]—Jack Sullivan, manager of "Brooklyn Tommy" Sullivan, received a letter from Mike Riley, manager of the Casino A. C. today in which the Tonopah, Nev., club manager declared Abe Attel was afraid to meet Sullivan and that Riley had given up all hope of matching the pair at equitable weights. Riley said he would like to match "Brooklyn Tommy" with Robson, the English champion, for July 4. Jack Sullivan said Tommy would be in Philadelphia on April 3, when Attel meets Robson.

SILER'S TALK OF THE BOXERS.

Big Sporting Club May Be Organized in New York—Wrestling at C. A. A. Tonight.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

If Tom O'Rourke's plans do not go amiss fighters of class will have an opportunity to pick up some change in New York City, as Tom has in mind a club to be run on the lines of the National Sporting club of London.

The club, according to O'Rourke's plan, will be for "members only," limited to 1,000, and monthly dues $10, payable in advance. If the number of members can be secured, of which there is no doubt, this will make an actual monthly guarantee of $10,000, and as O'Rourke intends to stage two sets of fights a month, the class A fighters will be assured of a good rakeoff. The organization will be strictly a legitimate one, within the law, and should be a success.

"Packey" McFarland is after all of the topnotch lightweights, barring Joe Gans, and is particularly anxious to get a crack at Batling Nelson. His victories over Joe Galligan, Steve Kinney, and others have made him a much sought after fighter by the clubs in the middle west. His manager, Harry Gilmore Jr., is negotiating with Matty Baldwin and with Adam Ryan. The latter is one of the cleverest lightweights in this section of the country, and a fight between him and Packey would give the fans a better line on the latter.

Frank Gotch has been substituted for Leo Pardello to meet John Rooney at the Chicago Athletic association's wrestling entertainment tonight. This will add considerable interest to the affair, as John kept the champion on the move at the Coliseum Thursday night. One of the interesting features of the show will be wrestling exhibition between Harry and Harvey Frey, who will illustrate all the known and unknown holds of the game. The boys are twins, 20 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weigh 135 pounds. They resemble each other so strongly the club members will be unable to tell one from t'other. Other bouts will enlist William Demetral vs. "Bull" Olson, Dick Sorenson vs. Tom Gelder, and Paul Geidel vs. Jack Luccika.

RUBY WINS IN A HOT FINISH.

Beats Andrew Mack Half a Length in Drive—Rhinestone Is Disqualified.

San Francisco, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—The track was fast this afternoon. In a hot drive Ruby beat Andrew Mack half a length. The New York delegation, headed by "Diamond Jim" Brady and Jesse Lewisohn, backed Andrew Mack down from 4 to 1 to 11 to 5.

Native Son had too much speed for Confederate in the five and one-half furlong sprinting event. Rhinestone finished first in the second race, but he interfered with Adena, Adrian, and Katie Rains. The judges disqualified Rhinestone and placed him third.

Los Angeleno arrived tonight from Ascot and will start in the four mile race tomorrow. Seven horses are carded to run. Dr. Leggo is sure to be the favorite, with Mamie Algol second choice. Ramus, Los Angeleno, and Miss Rillie are regarded to have fair chances.

First race, 13-16 mile—Byron Rose, 109 pounds [Scoville], 7 to 2, won; Paddy Lynch, 6 to 1, second; Ten Oaks, 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:22.

Second race, 9-16 mile, selling—Adena, 99 pounds [L. Williams], 5 to 2, won; Adrian, 9 to 5, second; Rhinestone, 6 to 1, third. Time, :51 1-5. Rhinestone won, but was disqualified for fouling and placed third.

Third race, ¾ mile—Springban, 103 pounds [Rettig], 16 to 5, won; George P. McNear, 8 to 1, second; The Mighty, 11 to 5, third. Time, 1:28 1-5.

Fourth race, ¾ mile, selling—The Reprobate, 104 pounds [Scoville], 12 to 1, won; Elevation, 7 to 1, second; Fred Bent, 9 to 5, third. Time, 1:28.

Fifth race, 11-16 mile—Native Son, 101 pounds [R. Davis], 8 to 5, won; Confederate, 9 to 5, second; Triumph, 9 to 2, third. Time, 1:07 2-5.

Sixth race, 1 mile—Ruby, 103 pounds [Graham], 2 to 1, won; Andrew Mack, 11 to 5, second; Corn Blossom, 5 to 2, third. Time, 1:41.

Murphy Defeats Gruenwald.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—[Special.]—Eddie Gruenwald of Milwaukee lasted the ten rounds with "Kid" Murphy of New York tonight, but Murphy got the decision. Gruenwald showed up stronger than was expected, and it was not until the fourth round that Murphy secured any advantage over him. Then Gruenwald came to the front again, but the pace was too fast, and Murphy in the last two rounds landed jolts a plenty. The semi-windup was fast. Steve Kinney knocked out Frankie Baker of Chicago in the sixth round after putting him down twice for counts of nine and eight. Kinney was knocked down twice in the first round.

At the Billiard Halls.

At Mussey's—Austin [42] defeated Baker [42], 42 to 40 at 3 cushions.

At Bensinger's—Nolan [200] defeated Lazar [149], 200 to 53 at balk line.

DOUBT ABOUT TEMACEO.

If He Does Not Start the Burlew & O'Neill Entry Will Be an Odds-On Favorite.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—[Special.]—With the assurance of a good track and a select company making up the field, the City Park Derby, to be run tomorrow, gives promise of being a race of more than ordinary interest. Nine of the best of the eligibles are named to start, and it is probable that from this list a field of seven may be relied upon.

Following is the probable field for the Derby:

Sir Toddington, 122 pounds [J. Hennessey]; Judge Post, 122 [O'Neill]; Temaceo, 122 [Lloyd]; Planute, 122 [J. Daly]; Yankee Girl, 122 [Mountain]; Pink Star, 117 [Nicol]; Tileing, 122 [Garner]; Allonby, 112 [Troxler]. Sir Toddington and Judge Post Burlew & O'Neill entry.

The Burlew & O'Neill entry, of course, will be favorite at a short price. Should Temaceo not start it will be at odds on. Temaceo pulled up lame in his Derby work and because of this fact there seems to be some doubt as to whether or not he will start. It is reported, however, the colt always comes back lame after a workout, and it may be he will go.

Burlew & O'Neill Undecided.

Burlew & O'Neill will not decide until tomorrow morning about their chance with two horses. They figure that in starting Sir Toddington as a stable companion for their main dependence, Judge Post, they will be adding materially to the chances of Planute. On the other hand, with Sir Toddington out the chance for Tileing will be considerably enhanced. The problem as to which of the two is more formidable is what is bothering Burlew tonight. At that he makes no secret of the fact that he considers the Derby at his mercy, and it is Judge Post with which he expects to win.

Both Burlew and O'Neill himself had some doubt as to O'Neill's ability to come back and ride a good race after being out of the saddle since the first of July last. To test his ability the ex-jockey rode Royal Breeze in the fifth race today, and by a really good ride landed him in second place behind the easy winner, Rappahannock.

The strongest second candidate in the field is Planute on the strength of his last race, in which he showed himself a colt of Derby quality. There has been much gossip of this colt, and the latest report, which could not be verified tonight, was that Corrigan had sold him today to W. H. Fizer or Hal Woodford. Should this report be true, it is probable an attempt will be made to have Nicol to ride him and have Pink Star withdrawn.

ROUGH RIDING AT HOT SPRINGS.

Skirvin and D. Riley Unseated, but Miraculously Escape—Gen. Greene Stays Away from the Track.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 15.—[Special.]—Rough riding at Oaklawn caused two riders to be unseated, and both jockeys, Skirvin and D. Riley, had miraculous escapes. Judge Bryan did not censure any of the pilots because in each instance the horses were jammed.

Gen. Greene, the investigator for acting Gov. Moore, has not visited Oaklawn since he arrived in Hot Springs. He said tonight he did not believe the call for state troops to stop handbooking was justified.

Jockey Shilling, who was set down for the rest of the meeting, was granted a respite by Judge Bryan. The boy can ride only for his employer.

SCHOOL ATHLETES IN MEET TONIGHT

Sixty-two Boys Will Compete in Final "Prelim" Track Event.

FIVE TEAMS ENTERED.

Real Fight for Honors Between Oak Park and McKinley; Dillon Best Runner.

Sixty-two "prep" school athletes will take part in the third and final preliminary track meet of the Cook County High School league at Bartlett gymnasium tonight. Although five schools have entered the real battle will be between Oak Park and McKinley.

Dillon of McKinley is expected to take the highest number of points for an individual, as he is by far the best runner of any entered for the meet. Randolph of Oak Park is looked upon as a sure point winner in the sprints, having bested Wampler of University High in a dual meet between the two schools early in the season. Wampler, in the second preliminary, broke the record for the 220. Roberts, also of Oak Park, is counted on by his schoolmates to make a good showing.

Many of the fans concede the relay race to the Oak Parkers.

McKinley has a good athlete in Timblin, who is in his best form now, as he has been running for a local athletic club all season. Oak Park also is strong in the field events.

Bate of McKinley and Lunde of Lake View, both good men, will put forth their best efforts to outdo the suburbanites in the weight events.

MAY OPEN RIVER EARLIER.

BOARD OF DRAINAGE TRUSTEES READY TO COMPROMISE.

Holds Conference with Executive Committee of Chicago Commercial Association, Which May Withdraw Objections to Bill Providing Extension of Limit for First Operation of Bridges on Canal—Real Estate Board Defers Action.

Bridges over the Chicago river controlled by the drainage board may be opened for traffic as a result of a conference between drainage trustees and the executive committee of the Chicago Commercial association yesterday at the Great Northern hotel. The trustees also will be asked to meet the real estate board at its next meeting to discuss the operation of bridges at an earlier date than 1910, that asked by the drainage board in a bill now before the legislature.

The first mentioned conference was called as a result of the Commercial association's opposition to the drainage board's bill. The present new law required that the bridges be opened in January, 1907. Trustees Henry F. Eidmann, Wallace G. Clark, and George W. Paullin represented the drainage board. Capt. Sullivan spoke for the association.

Capt. Sullivan contended present conditions were menacing business interests, and that, until the drainage board threw open bridges and removed obstructions, great financial damage would be done to Chicago. He cited companies that want frontage along the canal but are hesitating about closing leases, fearing the channel will not be opened for several years.

President David R. Forgan said that if the association could be given gilt edged assurances the channel would be open to traffic within a reasonable time objections filed against the drainage board's bill would be withdrawn, as the association was not bounding the latter but would assist, if possible, in getting the channel ready for operation.

Bill Presented in Good Faith.

Trustee Eidmann said the board was doing its best to further the work. Trustee Clark said:

"We recognize the importance of having bridges and the channel ready for traffic. It means a great deal to the board. Every day the work is not finished we are losing just that much. We are receiving requests for frontage for manufacturing purposes. The bill at Springfield was presented in good faith and not for the purpose of loafing on the present work of getting things ready. We believed that, with an extension of three years, we would obtain better results and give more general satisfaction than by operating bridges when not one half ready, and by opening a channel that is not at all desirable in its present condition. We will do the best we can, and will gladly confer with a subcommittee from this organization with a view of arriving at a definite and satisfactory result."

President Forgan was authorized to name a committee of three members of the association to meet and act with a similar committee from the drainage board.

Real Estate Men to Wait.

Problems of the sanitary district were discussed by the real estate board in a special session to hear the second report of the committee appointed to investigate plans of the drainage board for the completion of its work. Definite action was deferred until April 3, when trustees of the district will be asked to present their views at the regular meeting of the board.

The second report of the sanitary committee was read by Edward A. Halsey. Recommendations in the document were a replica of those first given. Strong opposition to the proposed Calumet Sag channel, to the agitation for an increase in the tax rate for the sanitary district, and to the threatened delay in the operating bridges were the main features.

The drainage trustees were defended by J. H. Van Vlissingen, who said he believed the president of the district, R. R. McCormick, and his assistants were earnest, honorable officials.

The board voted to invite the trustees to attend the next meeting, and to oppose the proposed increase of the sanitary district tax from 50 cents to $1.

TO BUILD IN PLYMOUTH COURT.

Robert J. Gunning Has Leased Site for Ninety-nine Years Between Van Buren and Jackson Streets.

Rose Rothschild has leased through Joseph M. Wineman to Robert J. Gunning the property at 19 Plymouth court for ninety-nine years at a graduated rent of $2,500 for the first year, $3,500 for the succeeding five years, $3,750 a year for the next five years, and $4,250 for the remaining eighty-eight years. It is provided that the lessee erect a new building before Jan. 1, 1917, to cost not less than $30,000.

A new eight story and basement mill construction building is to be erected at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Congress street by Francis C. Farwell and others for Carter & Holmes, neckwear manufacturers, 207-211 Jackson boulevard.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

SPOKANE'S COMPLAINT IS TO BE HEARD MONDAY MORNING.

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Investigate Charges of Discrimination in Freight Rates from Eastern Cities to the Pacific Coast—Change Sought Will Be Opposed by Chicago Commercial Interests—Other Railroad News.

The complaint of the city of Spokane, Wash., of discrimination in freight rates from the eastern cities as compared with rates to the Pacific coast cities will be heard by the interstate commerce commission Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the United States court room in this city.

A plea is made for the same rates from Chicago and New York to Spokane as apply to the Pacific coast terminals, because Spokane is 400 miles nearer New York than the coast terminals. The coast jobber can buy in either New York or Chicago at the same freight rate, but Spokane must pay a higher rate from New York than from Chicago.

Chicago Will Oppose Change.

The Hepburn bill, as interpreted by the commission, will have a tendency to make many changes in existing tariffs, and, after wrestling with the problem for more than a week, the Transcontinental association adjourned until a committee of the western lines goes to Washington to talk the matter over with the commission and gets an understanding as to what the association can do in reconciling the two tariffs. If one of the class rate tariffs is abolished and the other is extended to cover the entire west, Spokane's complaint will not have any basis as to class rates.

The case promises to be fought hard, as Chicago will interpose an objection to making the rate to Spokane the same from both New York and Chicago, as it will increase the competition of the local commercial interests.

Still Seeking "Safety Paper."

The subcommittee of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents, having in charge the investigation of a safety paper to be used for railroad tickets, concluded its work yesterday afternoon, after having been in session more than three hours.

The "safety paper committee" of the association was organized about fifteen years ago, and is as near the accomplishment of its object as it was the day before it was organized. It has held meetings in all the principal cities of the country and been royally entertained by every paper manufacturer of note in the country, and more than once by some of them. The full committee is scheduled to meet in the early summer in the land of sapphire skies and purling brooks among the North Carolina mountains, and drink and eat at the expense of the—paper manufacturers.

Plans Three Months of Revivals.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

This is the largest circulation of all weekly publications in America—and is remarkable because it has not been achieved by yellow methods or "cheap" writing.

It argues for the soundness of popular taste that so large a public is attracted by such a magazine.

For one thing, we have not been unduly prejudiced in favor of old things—"classic" they are sometimes called. We believe in the worth-whileness of life to-day.

And if you will read THE POST, you will be impressed with our success in translating "the glory that was Greece," and "the grandeur that was Rome" into the enthusiasm which is Chicago.

NEW YORK STOCKS RALLY.

HEAVY GAINS MADE IN MANY SECTIONS OF THE MARKET.

Sensational Recoveries, However, Fail to Carry Issues Up to Level from Which They Fell in Previous Day's Slump—Closing Is Buoyant, with Movements on Upturn—Call Money Not So Stringent—Bank Statement Expected to Be Poor.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, March 15.—[Special.]—The stock market today opened with prices at recoveries from yesterday's demoralized closing and the selling which these inviting prices brought out caused a violent reaction and forced a revival of uneasiness upon the traders, but as the day wore on the recovery again gained force and the closing was buoyant with sensational advances which, however, did not fully make up the losses of yesterday.

The money market was not so stiff today and early effects are expected from the return of payments made today. There is all probability, however, that the bank returns tomorrow will make a weak showing if not a deficit below the legal requirements. The loss in cash is larger than the surplus as it existed last week and it is believed by bankers that the loan contraction by stock market liquidation has been offset by the special requirements for credits in connection with today's settlements.

The stock market today remained feverish, but the violence of the fluctuations was in diminishing degree. The appearance of brokers' offices this morning indicated the arrival in the field in force of the class of buyers known in Wall street as "bargain hunters," and it is estimated that purchases in small lots by buyers of this kind aggregated several hundred thousand shares.

Stocks thus bought go out of the street and appear no more until some distant period of inflation and excited speculation, when they are added again to the burden that market manipulators of a boom are obliged to care for. Buying of this class in such volume on a single day is rare and formed a positive supporting factor in the market.

Bonds were active and irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,752,000. United States 4s advanced ¼ per cent on call.

Prime mercantile paper, 6@6½ per cent. Sterling exchange weak, with actual business in bankers' bills at 483.25@483.30 for demand and at 478.65@478.70 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 480 and 484½. Commercial bills, 478¼. Bar silver, 67⅞. Mexican dollars, 52½. Government bonds firm. Railroad bonds irregular. Money on call firm, 4@15 per cent; ruling rate, 12; closing bid, 3½; offered at 4. Time loans firm; 60 days, 7½@8 per cent; 90 days, 7@7½ per cent; six months, 6@6½ per cent.

SIMPLE AND EFFECTIVE FORMULA

Here is a simple and effective remedy for coughs and colds: Mix a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) with two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whiskey. Shake well and take in teaspoon doses every four hours.

This formula is said to be very effective, being the prescription of a well-known authority on lung trouble. It will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

The ingredients for this prescription can be found at any good drug store, but care should be taken that only Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be used. This is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing securely sealed in a round wooden case with engraved wrapper, having the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), guaranteed under Food and Drugs act of June 30th, 1906, serial number 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio—plainly printed thereon.

The cheaper oils that are sold in bulk and the sundry rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) only create nausea and fail to effect the desired result.

Electric Light Makes Housecleaning Easy

There is so much less to clean. The smudge of an open flame has not soiled the walls and ceilings. Your rugs and hangings are cleaner. The dust can easily be shaken out of them; but smudge clings to whatever it touches. It is the chief need of redecorating every spring.

Electric Light

on your table, in library or parlor, is better and more attractive than any other. In use it is vastly more healthful. An open flame consumes as much oxygen as 3 or 4 persons in a room. The air is never vitiated by electric light. The cost will surprise you—based on the reduced rates. For further information call Main 1280.

GRAIN MARTS ARE HEAVY.

PRICES IN ALL PITS BREAK UNDER GENERAL LIQUIDATION.

Big Holders Unload Enormous Quantities of Wheat, Corn, and Oats, Principal Pressure Being on the May—"Bug" Reports Contradictory—Record Breaking Argentine Exports—Coarse Cereals Hammered Hard Throughout.

Except for a fleeting moment at the start, when prices displayed a little firmness, largely in sympathy with the recovery in stocks, pronounced heaviness overhung all the leading grain markets yesterday. From the end of the first half hour to the close there was a steady and voluminous stream of long and short stuff into all the pits, the pressure from the holders gingering the aggressiveness of shorts. To many of the keen observers it appeared that much of the selling was for the account of easterners more strongly identified with securities. A feature of the operations was the relative weight on the May futures in all the grains and provisions. It was figured that recent strong interests that had expressed themselves bullishly participated prominently in the selling of wheat, corn, and oats.

Wheat closed at declines of 1c for May, ⅝@¾c for July, and ⅜c for September. Net losses in corn were 1¼@1⅜c for May, ⅝c for July, and ½@⅝c for September. Oats reached the finish weaker by ⅜c for May, ½@⅝c for July, and ¼c for September. Provisions wound up lower all around, pork being hardest hit.

Firmness of Short Duration.

Besides the higher opening in stocks, continued offerings of damage reports from the southwest and unfavorable crop news from Germany, India, and Spain figured for firmness in wheat at the start. Prices were lifted about ½c over the previous close, but the strength lasted only a few minutes. Longs, said to have been hard bumped in the stock market, unloaded heavily, the support being far from sufficient to withstand the pressure, and prices quickly receded. Shorts, plainly nervous at the opening, imbibed confidence from the action of the longs, becoming vigorous in their hammering. The May was beaten down to 75⅞c, there being enough buying around that figure to result in a slight rally. Near the close the pressure became heavier, and the final quotations were within 1-16c of the session's bottom.

Liverpool closed ⅛d lower. Bears came into possession of much to combat the unfavorable crop advices from the southwest, laying particular stress on word from Expert Snow that the "green bug" had not shown up in the reported infected counties of Sumner and Harper in Kansas, and that conditions in that state were highly favorable. Also there was much of a contradictory character from Oklahoma, although there were many messages indicating vast damage to the growing grain in that country. In some sections farmers were said to be plowing up their wheat fields because of the hopeless prospects. The uncertainty of the actual situation in the minds of traders was responsible for much nervousness in the ranks of the more timid.

Big Movement Helps the Bears.

Heavy receipts at northwestern and southwestern markets were a big stimulant to bearish sentiment. Duluth and Minneapolis reported 475 cars, against 244 a year ago, total primary arrivals being 660,000 bu, compared to 322,000 bu the corresponding day in 1906. The week's exports from Argentina were record breaking, aggregating 4,760,000 bu, against 3,160,000 bu last year. Stocks of wheat at northwestern points showed an increase of 1,425,000 bu for the week, compared to a gain of 795,000 bu last year. The week's clearances of wheat and flour were only 2,000,000 bu, a little under the poor showing of a year ago.

The bulk of advices indicated that the export business was practically at a standstill, although there was an unconfirmed report that 320,000 bu had been worked. There was a god inquiry for spring wheat at the local sample tables, high prices being bid, but business in other grades was light. Millers northwest appeared to be less anxious over the situation. St. Louis was said to have sold a good sized lot of low grade cash grain. Antwerp and Berlin closed sharply lower.

Long Corn Swamps Pit.

An enormous quantity of long corn was thrown into the pit, and the action of the sellers prompted heavy pressure from shorts. The leading long was reported a steady and heavy seller, and the liquidation of small lines was, in the aggregate, a big weight. The export demand was reported practically lifeless, although it was gossiped that sales had been made to Spain. The cash situation was strongly in need of a powerful tonic. Much of the grain was offered at declines ranging from ½c to 1½c. Even at this marked concession there was but little inquiry. One of the best buyers was the glucose concern.

Local receipts were 377 cars, 116 cars more than expected, and Nebraska messages indicated that the movement from the country would become heavier. Primary receipts, 557,000 bu, exceeded those of a year ago by almost 300,00 bu. The clearances for the week were light at 1,998,000 bu, compared to 2,335,000 bu last year. Shipments from Argentina for the week totaled only 64,000 bu, against 195,000 bu a year ago. The day's seaboard clearances were 191,000 bu. Shipments hence aggregated 323,000 bu. Weather in all directions was more favorable, although roads in some parts of the west were reported to be in poor condition. The May ranged from 46⅜c to 44⅞c, the close being within the barest shade of the bottom. The course traversed by the more distant months was much narrower. Estimated receipts for today were 370 cars.

Big Pressure on May Oats.

Pressure of long stuff was pronounced in the oats market, the offerings coming from interests of prominence that contributed so generously to the weakness in wheat and corn. The volume of short selling also was heavy, support for the nearby month being frail almost all the time. The May was driven off to 39⅞c, after selling up to a shade over 41c, closing slightly higher than the bottom. More from lack of pressure than from any marked buying the more distant months displayed relative firmness. Local receipts were 193 cars, with 259 cars estimated for today. The cash market was sick throughout, prices being ½@1c lower and buyers evidently expecting further concessions. The east, regarded as practically bare of stocks, showed but little buying inclination on the declines. Adding to the troubles of the shippers, the railroad situation was said to be even worse than it has been, the carriers being unable to promise much equipment for prompt service. Seaboard clearances were 13,000 bu. Shipments from Chicago were 268,000 bu.

Frail Support to Provisions.

Moderately active at times, the provision market displayed steadiness in the early operations, taking on heaviness as the session progressed. The weakness in grains had a depressing effect. There was increasing pressure from prominent packers, particularly on the nearby month products, and much of the recent support from outside investors was lacking. Shipments of meats and lard hence were relatively larger than those of a year ago. The western run of hogs was 56,200, or 12,500 more than that of a year ago. Final prices showed losses of 27½@32½c for pork, 7½@10c for lard, and 12½@15c for ribs.

Rye Market Lower.

Rye was ½c lower, in sympathy with the decline in other grains. No. 2 free on board sold at 69c, and through billed 67½@68c. March was 67c asked, and May offered at 68½c. Receipts were 6 cars.

Barley was a trifle easier. Feed was quoted 60@63c; malting, 68@74c; screenings, 42@57½c. Receipts were 41 cars.

Flaxseed was dull and lower. No. 1 northwestern was called $1.21¾; No. 1, $1.14¾. Receipts were 53 cars at Minneapolis and 23 cars at Duluth.

Timothy seed buyers were holding, with the result that prices weakened. March was quoted $4.45; September, $4.50 asked, and country lots, $3.25@4.20.

Clover seed ruled higher at $14.75 for March and $10.50@14.00 for cash lots.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

That the government report on corn and oats is not a fair criterion to go by is the argument put forward by James Simpson of Simpson, Hendee & Co. of New York, who is a bull on the coarse grains. In a letter to the Northern Grain company he says in regard to the last government report on farm reserves: "The government, I believe, is altogether wrong in the estimate of the total crop of both corn and oats. If you will look at your crop figures for the last two years you will see that there is an increase in the acreage because of the revised method of figuring which the government adopted last December. This new style of figuring should be applied to former years. It means that the consumption of oats is far and away greater than any previous set of figures would indicate. It is manifestly out of all reason to have May oats selling around 42c, when there are 5,000,000 bu more oats in farm reserves than a year ago. Of course, the visible supply is 13,000,000 bu less than a year ago, and Bradstreet's visible is 16,000,000 bu less, so that, taking the farm reserves and visible together, there are less oats available up to the new crop than last year, but the difference is not enough to warrant any such inequality of price. We maintain that in regard to oats, the government reports are wrong either in the totals given or in figures on consumption. According to the government's figures on live stock, there are 15,863,000 head more of live stock on the farms than there were a year ago. With such an enormous increase in live stock, it is reasonable to assume that the increase in farm consumption is enormous. It is a notorious fact that corn has moved to market greatly in excess of last year, besides which it is apparent to every one that the consumption of corn has been greatly augmented in view of the increase in hogs, cattle, etc., in addition to the more extensive use of the cereal for commercial purposes, yet in spite of all this the government makes the farm reserves 190,000,000 bu more than a year ago, which is practically the difference between last year's crop and that of the previous year. The keynote of our arguments on corn and oats is the tremendous increase in consumption of both grains, and we think time will demonstrate that the government figures are erroneous."

There was a fairly good trade in cash wheat on the decline, with sales of 25,000 bu No. 2 red to a southeastern miller, and of 10,000 bu sample spring wheat. Local exporters worked a little wheat for export also, but the quantity was not large. Outside markets were steady. The southwestern markets reported good sized sales made on Thursday and yesterday. Kansas City wired that about 150,000 bu No. 2 hard had been worked there, and St. Louis sent reports of 150,000 bu low grade wheats sold in that market in the last two days. Minneapolis claimed that there was a fair inquiry for milling wheat at steady relative prices. No. 1 northern was quoted 1⅜c to 2c over May. Duluth and Minneapolis stocks increased together 1,425,000 bu for the week, the quantity being about evenly divided between them. New York reported a better demand for durum. Local sample markets were demoralized. Corn was 1@1½c lower, and oats ½@1c lower. Sales here were 50,000 bu wheat, 115,000 bu corn, and 250,000 bu oats. The seaboard reported 30 loads of wheat, including 6 loads of macaroni wheat, and 48,000 bu corn.

Argentine wheat shipments again touched a new high point, exceeding the banner exports of the previous week by nearly 150,000 bu, and being 1,500,000 bu in excess of the corresponding week last year. Since the first of the year shipments have exceeded those of last year during the same period by more than 5,000,000 bu. Inasmuch as it was generally reported that the shipments from this country would fall off the last fortnight on account of the heavy rain, the trade was disposed to wonder what the shipments would have been if it had not rained. Shipments of corn for the week were small, but the amount shipped since the first of the year still is in excess of a year ago. Comparative figures follow:

	Last week.	Prev. week.	Last year.
Corn	64,000	106,000	195,000

More lugubrious messages portraying the ravages of the "green bug" were received from the southwest, but the majority of the reports were of a much more optimistic character than recently. H. V. Jones, who has been in southern Kansas and Oklahoma for the last few days, wired that the prospects for the Kansas crop were, in his opinion, the most promising he ever had known, and that, as far as the reports in regard to Oklahoma were concerned, he believed that they had been much misrepresented. B. W. Snow, the crop expert of the Orange Judd Farmer, has been investigating conditions in the same territory, especially in Sumner and Harper counties, in Kansas. He reported that he could not find a trace of "bugs" in these two counties, where their presence had been reported. As a consequence of these reports, although there were others to the effect that the bugs were doing damage every day, the trade generally was disposed to ignore the little insect and his operations for the time being at least.

Bartlett-Frazier led the selling of wheat yesterday, their sales being estimated at upwards of 1,500,000 bu. There was also selling by Wrenn and northwestern houses. Ware-Leland, Brosseau, Gardner-Paddleford, and Lake were early buyers. The pit trade was long early, but later turned sellers. Around 76c Updike was a good buyer of May. Shearson-Hammill, Wrenn, and Knight-McDougal were the big sellers of corn, the Shearson house selling about 2,000,000 bu. Lake, Northern Grain, Ash, and Friedman were also on the selling side. Cudahy brokers, Schwarz, Wrenn, Updike, Lichtstern, and J. A. Edwards bought on the decline. Knight-McDougal, Bartlett-Frazier, Love, Sterling, Ware-Leland, and scattered longs sold oats. Northern Grain company, Nye-Jenks, and Buckley were the best buyers. Brokers for the packers sold provisions moderately early. Logan-Bryan and scattered commission houses bought early.

Wheat stocks in the northwest are increasing at a rapid rate, and much faster than a year ago. The two principal northwestern markets increased 1,425,000 bu for the week. There seems to be little evidence of a falling off in receipts, notices of consignments indicating that the amount in transit is as large as it has been at any time in the last few weeks, while apparently country elevator stocks are not being drawn upon yet to any large extent. Arrivals in the southwest also are running heavy, receipts at Kansas City and St. Louis yesterday being 107,000 bu, compared to 52,000 bu at the two points a year ago. At Minneapolis and Duluth receipts yesterday were 475 cars, against 244 cars.

Foreign crop advices were of a more alarming character than recently, although the reports have not had much effect on the trade. Broomhall cabled that the united provinces in India were suffering as a result of the excessive rains. There were also additional reports of damage from winter killing in Germany, France, and Spain, and also in some of the more northern countries. In Spain Broomhall said the severe winter had been followed by droughts, and that the crops were suffering badly.

The Modern Miller, in its weekly summary of crop conditions, said: "Telegraphic reports from Oklahoma and Indian territory say the green bug is in the wheat fields. The heaviest damage reported is 25 per cent in the Indian territory. In Oklahoma the damage is slight. There is no change elsewhere in crop conditions, which are generally favorable. The poorest prospects are in the northern and the extreme southwestern sections of the winter wheat belt."

The weekly Argentine cable: "The wheat market is quiet and easy, with liberal offerings. Arrivals from the interior are decreasing and the quality is satisfactory. Plowing has commenced in the northern districts, under favorable conditions. Weather conditions are unsettled. Corn is quiet but neglected. Arrivals from the interior are nil."

Secretary Stone announced from the gallery that traders should study the rule relating to indemnity contracts. The rule provides that damages on indemnity contracts must be established at the close of 'change each day and on the basis of official closing prices.

Sales on the call were: Corn—No. 3, April, 5,000 bu at 43¼c, 5,000 bu at 43⅜c proportional. Oats—No. 2, March, 5,000 bu at 40⅝c billed through; No. 3 white, April, 5,000 bu at 40⅝c Illinois proportional.

The total receipts of wheat at primary markets for the thirty-six weeks of the current crop year were 184,732,000 bu, against 200,296,000 bu last year and 176,181,000 bu the year before.

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ⅛d off; Paris, ¼c lower; Antwerp, ⅝@1¼c lower; Berlin and Budapest, ⅞c and ⅛c off respectively.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 19 cars; corn, 370 cars; oats, 259 cars; rye, 8 cars; barley, 42 cars; hogs, 13,000.

STEEL HAS BIG EARNINGS.

PAMPHLET REPORT FOR 1906 SHOWS GREAT INCREASE.

Swift & Co. and Subway Issues Divide Most of Day's Business on Local Exchange—Bonds Generally Lower, Metropolitan and Northwestern 'L' Selling at 90—Probability of Large Changes in New York Bank Statement Today—Financial Notes.

Gross receipts of the United States Steel corporation in 1906, according to the pamphlet report issued yesterday, were nearly $697,000,000, or $111,400,000 more than in the preceding year. The amount of net earnings applicable to the purposes of the corporation, after the deduction of all expenses and the interest of outside holders of stocks in subsidiary companies, was $156,600,000, or $33,000,000 more than in 1905.

Out of this sum there were ordinary and extraordinary appropriations for extensions and improvements and new plants amounting to $80,000,000. Bond interest consumed $27,700,000 and dividends $35,385,000, and the balance carried to surplus for the year amounted to $12,742,000.

The appropriations for extensions and new construction during the year were more than $30,000,000 in excess of those for 1905. The dividend payments were larger also by $10,166,000, that amount representing 2 per cent on the common stock.

Following is a summary of the income account for 1906 and the changes from the figures of the preceding year:

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money in the week ended Thursday indicate a loss of $4,064,000 in the cash holdings of the clearing house banks of New York. Of this amount $3,814,000 was lost to the subtreasury. The excess reserves of the New York banks a week ago was only $2,051,000. What the figures in the bank statement to be issued today will show can hardly be judged accurately from the known movements of money. The terrific liquidation in the stock market probably effected extensive changes in the position of the banks. The loan item ought to show a material reduction, though under the average system the full importance of the stock movement will not be reflected in today's figures.

Chicago Stocks Recover.

Swift and Subway stocks divided 90 per cent of the business yesterday in the Chicago stock market. Heavy selling of Swift was credited to Chapin, but the stock was well taken. It opened off at 101½ ex-dividend 1¾ per cent, and before the close regained the amount of the dividend. The stock finished fairly firm at 103. Subway opened up a couple of points from its final price the day before, and closed at 20, with a 5 point recovery for the day. The trade was in excess of 1,800 shares. The stock list elsewhere was quiet, but showed general small price recoveries. Pneumatic Tool sold down to 40 in the early part of the session, but regained a couple of points of its loss. Shipbuilding common was firm at 71.

Bonds were generally lower. Metropolitan first 4s and Northwestern 4s sold at 90, and the Metropolitan extension 4s were down to 80⅝.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, March 15.—The supplies of money in the market today were sufficient for the moderate demand. Discounts were firmer. Although three small failures were announced on the stock exchange this morning, they did not check the more cheerful and improved tendency. Consols led the gilt edged securities.

Americans were excited in the morning, and at noon were 2 to 10 points over parity. In the afternoon trading was active and there were occasionally fluctuations, but the market closed firm.

BERLIN, March 15.—Prices on the boerse today recovered, but trading was quiet.

PARIS, March 15.—Prices on the bourse today were weaker throughout. Russian imperial 4s closed at 73.05 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 484.00.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The small gain in the hog market on Thursday was lost yesterday when a break of 5c to 10c in prices caused a general weakness in tone in the day's trade. BINA DENEEN GUEST OF HONOR.

Daughter of Governor, Four Months Old, Accompanies Mother to Mount Carroll Alumni Reception.

Mrs. Charles S. Deneen and her daughter, Bina, 4 months old, were the guests of honor at a reception given at the Stratford hotel yesterday afternoon by the Chicago Alumni and Students' association of Mount Carroll seminary and the Frances Shimer academy of the University of Chicago.

Gov. Deneen was expected, but he sent word that he had been called to Washington and would be unable to be present. Bina, who is known in Springfield society as "the state house baby," took her place in the receiving line and apparently enjoyed it hugely. She is the first baby who has honored the executive mansion by being born there for many years.

Mrs. Deneen, who is a graduate of the Mount Carroll seminary and an honorary member of the association, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Arthur Hyslop, Mrs. Frederick Kilbourne, and William McKee. Tea and coffee were served by Mrs. C. C. Collins and Mrs. William Welch. A short musical program was given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Garst.

Among the out of town guests who attended the reception were Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Perkins of Sioux Falls, S. D., Miss Edna Estabrooks and Miss Mollie Estabrooks of Millersville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Latellette of Freeport, Ill.
